LINDBERGH BABY IS FOUND SLAIN; BODY HIDDEN IN WOODS NEAR HOME

HUGE FEDERAL AID PROGRAM IRONED OUT

New $1,500,000,000 Sum for Reconstruction Finance Involved.

HOOVER PARLEY COMPROMISE SEEN

Money for Direct Loans to States for Relief Would Be Provided.

PRESIDENT GIVEN DEMOCRATIC HELP

Greatest Peace-Time Emergency Project in Nation's History Outlined.

(Associated Press.)

Administration and Democratic leaders worked toward a compromise last night on a gigantic compromise relief plan involving a new $1,500,000,000 fund for loans by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

President Hoover discussed the proposal and received support last night at a conference with Republican members of the Senate banking committee.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, also consulted about the compromise with members of the Democratic steering and policy committees but conclusions were postponed pending further conferences today.

The most gigantic peace-time relief proposal would provide $250,000,000 to $300,000,000 for direct loans to States for unemployment relief and other millions to aid construction work.

Aid Private and Public Enterprise.

"It is proposed," said President Hoover in an announcement after last night's conference, "to use the instrumentality of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which has a Nation-wide organization, by authorizing the corporation either to underwrite or make loans for incoming, producing and self-sustaining enterprises which will increase employment whether undertaken by public bodies or by private enterprises."

Aside from the $300,000,000 loans to States, the remainder of the additional fund would be used to finance this public and private construction.

"It is not proposed," said the President, "to issue Government bonds. It is proposed to provide the necessary funds as they are required by

Jersey Speed Flier Plans Harbor Grace and Dublin Stops.

Newark Airport, Newark, N. J., May 12 (A.P.).—"Lanky" Lou Reichers hopped off tonight at 10:02 (Eastern standard time) on a projected two-stop flight to Paris, just eight days short of five years after Col. Charles A. Lindbergh made his epochal dash across the Atlantic.

Reichers, 31-year-old speed flier of Arlington, N. J., had as his immediate objective Harbor Grace, Newfoundland. After a quick refueling there, he planned to hop for Dublin, Ireland, where he will take on his second load of fuel. The third lap will be the Dublin-to-Paris hop.

His announced intention was to reach Paris in about sixteen hours, less than half the 33 hours and 29 minutes used by Col. Lindbergh in his non-stop flight on May 20 and 21, 1927.

Rosa Ponselle Resting Well After Operation

New Haven, Conn., May 12 (A.P.).—In the city where as a cabaret singer she attained her first musical success, Rosa Ponselle, Metropolitan Opera star, underwent an operation today for the removal of a fibroid tumor.

Although physicians and attendants at St. Raphael's Hospital refused to discuss the case, it was learned she was resting comfortably and her condition was not serious.

Statement by Hoover On U. S. Relief Plans

Following last night's White House conference on the proposed relief measures, President Hoover issued the following statement:

1. The policy steadfastly adhered to up to the present time has been that responsibility for relief to distress belongs to private organizations, local communities and the States. That fundamental policy is not to be changed. But since the fear has arisen that existing relief measures and resources may prove inadequate in certain localities and to insure against any possible breakdown in those localities it is proposed that authority be granted to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to assist such States as may need it by underwriting only State bonds or by loaning directly to such States as may not be in position temporarily to sell securities in the market. The funds so obtained to be used for relief purposes and the total limited to $250,000,000 or $300,000,000.

The second part of the program contemplates providing the machinery whereby employment may be increased through restoring normal occupations rather than works of artificial character.

Without entering the field of industrial or public expansion, there

MEANS IS ARRESTED AGAIN AFTER FIGHT

He Thought Newspaperman Undercover Agent, Is His Explanation.

(Associated Press.)

Gaston B. Means was arrested again yesterday and charged with drunkenness, assault and disorderly conduct, following an altercation with a newspaperman in a downtown drug store.

The spectacular Means was arrested with Lee Somers, a reporter for the Washington Times. Somers was charged with disorderly conduct, and released immediately on $5 bail, but Means was put behind bars and police said he would stay there until he paid $65 bail and "sobers up."

Ready with coherent and profuse defense, the adventurous detective greeted the press.

He was freed Wednesday on $50,000 bail, awaiting arraignment under indictments charging him with embezzlement of $104,000 from Mrs. Edward B. McLean in an alleged Lindbergh ransom fraud.

Traffic Officer H. H. Hartman took the two men into custody. Officers said they were having an altercation in the drug store. Means described the incident thus:

"I had gone downtown to meet Mr. R. M. Easley, of New York, at the Willard Hotel. I went across the street to the drug store to get a soda. I sat down to drink and he (Somers) came up and approached me and talked to me.

"He said he was from the Times, and I implied it was the Washington

WOOD RESIGNS PRESIDENCY OF GAS COMPANY

R. D. Weaver, Held Likely Successor, Reelected Light Director.

COMMISSION FAILS TO PREVENT SESSION

Reported Payment of Year's Salary to Former Chief Due for Inquiry.

The resignation of George A. G. Wood as president of the Washington Gas Light Co. was accepted yesterday at a meeting of the board of directors. Robert D. Weaver, president of the Georgetown Gas Light Co., who is believed to be the man who will succeed Wood, was reelected to the board of directors.

The reelection of Mr. Weaver and the acceptance of Mr. Wood's resignation took place at a meeting which the Public Utilities Commission sought unsuccessfully to prevent. Mr. Weaver is a former vice president of the Washington Gas Light Co.

Investigation Slated.

Just what action the Public Utilities Commission will take as a result of the apparent defiance of its order is conjectural. William A. Roberts, special counsel, said that an investigation will be made at once to determine whether any representative of the Chase, Harris, Forbes Corporation, which owns 81 per cent of the stock of the Washington company, had voted, despite the formal order issued by the utilities body Saturday and the verbal order transmitted yesterday.

Developments came rapidly yesterday in the battle between the controlling interests of the Washington Gas Light Co. and the commission, though most of the former's activities were behind closed doors. Early yesterday Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the utilities body, talked to Mr. Wood and Wilton J. Lambert, counsel for the gas company and a director, after the commission had learned that a special meeting of the company's directors had been called and that Mr. Wood's resignation was imminent.

Moore Urges Search For Baby Murderers

Jersey City, N. J., May 12 (A.P.).—Gov. A. Harry Moore at his home tonight said "every attempt would be made now to find the murderers of the Lindbergh baby."

"This is a great shock to the whole country," the governor said. He disclosed that Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, State police head, had telephoned him shortly after 6 p. m., and given him the news that the body had been found. He also said he had received a number of telephone calls during the evening from London inquiring for news on the case.

LOFTY TEMPLE DEDICATED BY MASONIC RITE

RAIN FAILS TO HALT TWO-MILE PARADE

Memorial Consecrated to Ideals of Order and Washington's Memory.

The dream of a quarter of a century of Masonry was realized yesterday in Alexandria with the symbolic dedication of the George Washington Masonic Memorial in the presence of President Hoover and Mrs. Hoover.

The actual dedication ceremonies were forced inside of the beautiful new edifice by one of the heaviest and most continuous rains of the present spring. The solemn rites were held in the marble-columned auditorium, which seats approximately 600. Several thousand who had planned to listen to the dedication on the terrace were disappointed.

President and Mrs. Hoover arrived promptly at 12:55 p. m. Mrs. Hoover was attired in a black and white dress, black coat and black and white hat.

Gun Salute for President.

The arrival of the President and Mrs. Hoover was signalized by the roar of a 21-gun salute from a battery of the Sixteenth Field Artillery, placed on the heights behind the memorial. The salute was echoed from the Potomac by another from the guns of the ancient frigate Constitution and the Coast Guard cutters which had been brought to play their part in the dedication and the tribute to Washington.

The weather naturally was a bitter disappointment to residents of Alexandria and the city's Masonic guests. Dedication plans for the memorial had been in process of formation for years.

The parade was carried through and started at the appointed time, 9:30 a. m. About 20,000 persons lined the streets, huddling in doorways wherever possible, to witness it.

About 15,000 were in the line of march, which took almost two hours to pass the reviewing stand where high Masonic officials witnessed the rain-swept review. Lieut. Gov. Price of Virginia represented Gov. Pollard in the stand.

It moved slowly up the drenched

WALTER E. LAMBERT ILL, ENDS HIS LIFE

Mr. Lambert had been ill since the first of the year, and his wife, Mrs. Edith Lambert, had not left the house since then. Last night she went to a surprise birthday party at a neighbor's house, leaving her husband with their two children, Jean 12, and Walter, jr., 17.

The children were downstairs. Their father was in bed reading a magazine in his upstairs room, when they heard a shot.

Jean, the daughter, ran to 1502 Emerson street when the shot was fired. There she summoned Charles

43 New Tariffs Tie Up Trade at Dublin Docks

Dublin, Irish Free State, May 12 (A.P.).—Imposition of 43 new import tariffs brought trade at the Dublin docks to a standstill today. Piers were deserted and the sheds were empty, for the traders were having the greatest difficulty in deciding just how the new levies were to be imposed, what goods they affected and how great their scope.

Customs authorities said they would have the tangle straightened out in a few days.

MOTHER MAINTAINS CALM UNDER SHOCK

Hopewell, N. J., May 12 (A.P.).—An intimate friend who visited Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh late today described her as bearing up with her "usual equanimity" upon hearing that her kidnaped son had been found dead.

The friend, whose name was withheld upon request, has been a frequent caller at the flier's estate since the kidnaping.

From the outset Mrs. Lindbergh's courageous demeanor has served to maintain the composure of those about her.

On the day following the kidnaping Mrs. Lindbergh quietly and quickly prepared and made public a diet which was widely circulated in the hope it might be followed by the kidnapers of her son.

Mrs. Lindbergh, who is expecting a child within several months, has had her mother, Mrs. Dwight Morrow, as her constant companion.

Hopewell, N. J., May 12 (U.P.).—It was another tragic turn of fate that Col. Lindbergh, hopefully investigating the latest set of false clews to the kidnapers' trail, was away from his home when the discovery of his child's body was made and Anne Morrow Lindbergh was forced to bear the burden of grief—for awhile—alone. The colonel was reported to be on his way back to Hopewell, and was expected to arrive before dawn.

PHYSICIAN HOLDS DEATH CAUSED BY BLOWS ON HEAD

Investigation Shows Murder Took Place Soon After Kidnaping; Betty Gow Completes Identification.

FLIER, AWAY WHEN DISCOVERY IS MADE, SPEEDS BACK HOME

Killers Made Hurried Effort to Bury Victim, Is Belief; Police Start Intensified Hunt to Track Down Slayers.

(Copyright, 1932, by the Associated Press.)

Hopewell, N. J., May 12.—The kidnaped Lindbergh baby, identified by fragments of his garments, was found dead today.

A scant five miles from the Sourland Mountain estate of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh and within 75 feet of emergency telephone lines employed in an unparalleled search the body was discovered in a wooded area partly concealed by leaves and dirt.

The discovery was made by the occupants of a transfer truck on a country crossroads just 72 days after the world's most celebrated infant was spirited away from his home.

The skull bore a hole the size of a 25-cent piece above the forehead. An attempt had been made to bury the body. A coroner said death was due to a compound fracture of the skull.

The hair of the dead child tallied with the shade of the blond, curly-haired Lindbergh heir, 20 months old when he was stolen. An undershirt and flannel band furnished a more positive link. Similar articles of clothing from the Lindbergh baby's wardrobe were brought to the spot from the home.

Clothing Provides Identification.

They matched closely enough to convince the authorities they had found the body of the famous baby, for whom hundreds of thousands of policemen in every part of the globe had searched.

To the Trenton establishment of a county physician came Betty Gow, nursemaid to the child and the last person to see him alive on the night he was stolen 72 days ago, to forge the final link in the identification. She made her identification both from the appearance of the body and the fragments of the child's garments.

Significance was attached to a hurried telephone call which summoned County Prosecutor Irwin E. Marshall to the Lindbergh home for a conference late tonight.

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf announced shortly after midnight that John F. Conlon, of New York, and John Hughes Curtis, of Norfolk, Va., "will be at these headquarters in a few minutes for questioning in connection with this case and they will be turned over by the police authorities at this point to the prosecuting authorities this morning."

Condon, retired educator, and Curtis figured in the case as intermediaries seeking the return of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby. Col. Schwarzkopf did not amplify his statement regarding them in any particular. Apparently, Col. Lindbergh and Mr. Curtis were hastening here together. At Norfolk, Va., it was learned Curtis had notified his home that he and Col. Lindbergh had been told of the baby's death. They had been together, it was understood, near the New Jersey Coast, seeking the baby's return.

Then, as police worked feverishly to be sure of their identification, telephones rang in the Statehouse at Trenton, N. J. Reporters were summoned to the Lindbergh estate for an important announcement. The telephone rang again. It was Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, State police head, who has been the field marshal of the official investigation, calling his superior, Gov. A. Harry Moore.

"Col. Schwarzkopf tells me the Lindbergh baby has been found dead," the governor informed the Associated Press correspondent.

Three hours before (about 3:15 p. m.) a truck bearing four men had stopped on a steep grade between Hopewell and the hamlet of Mount Rose. The vehicle halted opposite a wood separated from the road by a small ditch. William Allen, a Negro, went into the woods and saw the body.

"The body was pretty well concealed by leaves, dirt and brush," the subsequent formal statement by Schwarzkopf explained. "• • • Going under the bush, he (Allen) lowered his head, and as he raised a branch he saw a skeleton on the ground."

"It was in a bad state of decomposition," was the way Schwarzkopf summarized the grewsome details of the condition of the child.

Blows on Head Caused Death.

Two tremendous blows on the head ended the life of the baby, the official autopsy by Dr. Charles A. Mitchell, county physician, disclosed tonight. The autopsy showed that the skull had been fractured on the left side, the fracture extending from the top to just behind the left ear. The second blow was dealt on the right side of the head just back of the right ear, and left a hole one-half inch in diameter. It was as if some adult person had held the baby tightly in his arms and deliberately hammered the head with the purpose of causing instant death.

The diagnosis was:

"The cause of death is a fractured skull due to external violence."

Dr. Mitchell's report confirmed that decomposition of the baby had progressed to the point where it could be surmised that the child had been killed almost immediately after the kidnaping, depending on climatic and other conditions that might have produced such results.

The autopsy also indicated that the body had not been disturbed, probably since it had been buried, although this point was not covered definitely.

Method of Killing Surmised.

Teeth, cranial and other bone formations were given to confirm the identification of the child, although the autopsy was purely technical and itself did not try to establish identity.

Dr. Mitchell said there was evidence of a hemorrhage on the inner surface of the left side of the skull at the point of fracture. This would indicate that the blow on the left side of the head might have been the one that actually caused death.

The scalp was so badly decomposed it was impossible to find any contusions or hemorrhagic conditions external to the skull, Dr. Mitchell added. Thus it was impossible from a diagnostic point of view to aid the police in the hunt for the actual instrument of death.

The autopsy reports did not speculate as to blows and such, but left the diagnosis at "external violence."

Physicians usually pronounce such fractures, however, as due to blows delivered on the head rather than accidental fractures.

Col. Lindbergh, who had made an exhaustive private and separate

Cashier in East Falls Church Bank Beaten; $1,700 Stolen

Two Bandits Attack 68-Year-Old Banker; Gun Held Against His Throat Clicks Twice, But Cartridges Fail to Explode.

A. H. Barbor, 68-year-old cashier of a branch banking office at East Falls Church, Va., was brutally beaten about the head by one of two armed bandits who walked into the establishment shortly after 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and escaped with approximately $1,700 in cash.

During the holdup the muzzle of a .32-caliber automatic was shoved against Barbor's throat and the trigger clicked twice, but there was no discharge. Two .32-caliber bullets in their jackets were found on the floor by police, evidently automatically ejected by the bandit's gun.

Barbor, a former sheriff of Arlington County, was clubbed, he estimated, from 12 to 20 times about the head. Although he suffered a number of painful lacerations, physicians said last night his condition apparently was not serious.

The bold robbery occurred at 2:20, not long after Barbor had returned from his luncheon. He was alone in the bank.

The cashier said he was behind the screened partition he occupies when the bandits entered. His back was to the door, but he glanced around when he heard the door open.

One of the men, said Barbor, walked up to the cashier's window and shouted "Stick 'em up!" Barbor complied, and as he did so the other man climbed over the partition and entered the cage. The cashier attempted to grapple with this man and the gun was shoved against his throat and he heard it click twice.

Warned not to call for help, Barbor declared he clamored loudly for assistance, but no one in nearby stores and offices heard him. His cries were cut off by a heavy blow

Government Sale of Liquor Advocated by Senator Reed

Pennsylvanian Would Have Swedish or Quebec Systems of Control With Safeguards Against Return of Saloon; Views Arouse New Interest.

(Associated Press.)

Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, long silent on prohibition, yesterday came out for licensed sale of liquor in Government-owned or Government-controlled dispensaries, and thereby started another round of speculation on whether the Republicans would adopt a wet or moist plank at Chicago.

Coupled with a statement in Cleveland by Joseph R. Nutt, treasurer of the party's national committee, that the wet victories in the Ohio primary should be given consideration by that State's delegation to the national convention, the Reed declaration was regarded as strengthening greatly the forces advocating a referendum plank.

An administration spokesman in the Senate, Reed has been mentioned in some quarters as President Hoover's choice as chairman of the convention resolutions committee. He said today he was speaking for no one but himself, that he was not chairman yet, and that his statement had no connection with administration policy. He added he had not talked with the President for several days.

The senator announced his views in a public letter to several hundred constituents who had sought his views on prohibition. He said he had not received a single unfavorable reply.

He favored the Swedish or Quebec systems of liquor control, but said he would oppose any repeal which did not guard against the return of the licensed saloon or permit dry States to retain prohibition if they wished.

Reed probably will repeat his views to the meeting in Philadelphia Sat-

MASONIC CLUB HOST TO VISITORS AT BALL

800 Guests Entertained at Elaborate Reception and Dance.

A steady downpour of rain that marred yesterday's Masonic Bicentennial activities last night failed to dampen the elaborate reception and ball given in honor of visiting officers and delegates to the convention of the National League of Masonic Clubs in the Willard Hotel.

Under the auspices of the Circle Club of Master Masons, an organization composed of Masons employed by the District Government, the affair was declared to be the highlight of the convention.

The large ballroom of the Willard was decorated with pictures of George Washington, huge drapes of American and Masonic flags and unusual lighting effects.

A program of entertainment featuring the Vincent Lopez Club Orchestra brought favor from the more than 800 persons who packed the ballroom.

Ladies of Arcanum Select Mrs. Childs

Washington Woman Again Chosen Supreme Head of High Council.

Mrs. Maude S. Childs, of Washington, was reelected supreme regent of the Loyal Ladies of Arcanum yesterday at the Dodge Hotel at the twenty-first annual supreme council. Approximately 80 women from councils throughout the United States were present for the supreme meeting, which closed last night after the official banquet.

Other officers reelected were: Mrs. Sadie Valentine, Asbury Park, N. J., vice regent; Mrs. Ethel Payette, New York City, orator; Mrs. Anna Jauss, Newark, N. J., chaplain; Mrs. Louise Sharp, Baltimore, guide; Mrs. Lillian Perkins, Dalton, Mass., sitting past regent, and Mrs. Edith Tuttle, Brooklyn, N. Y., warden.

Newly elected officers are: Mrs. A. Jeanette Beebe, Springfield, Mass., supreme secretary; Mrs. Florence Williamson, New Haven, Conn., supreme auditor; Mrs. Sara Dowing, Boston, Mass, supreme treasurer, and Mrs. Minnie B. Bromley, Springfield, Mass., supreme chairman of the committee on laws. Members of the District of Columbia Council, No. 16, were hostesses to the visiting delegates.

Washington Vision In Pageant Tonight

6,000 Expected to Attend Bicentennial Program at Auditorium.

With a special section reserved for the 1,000 invited distinguished guests, the doors of the Washington Auditorium will be opened tonight at 7 o'clock for the 6,000 people expected to witness the elaborate pageant, "Washington's Vision of a Triumphant Nation," beginning at 7:45 p. m. The presentation, sponsored by the Bicentennial committee, Order of Eastern Star, has been arranged as a feature of the Masonic Week entertainment program.

Mrs. Selma Klein, author and director of the pageant, announced yesterday that no more seats were available for the presentation. Final touches were given the pageant yesterday afternoon at the dress rehearsal held in the auditorium.

A feature of the program will be opening selections played by the U. S. Marine Band.

Mayors Are Urged To Seek Beer Tax

Dickstein Asks Support for Move Launched by Walker.

Representative Dickstein (Democrat) New York, said in a statement yesterday that every mayor in America should get behind the movement of Mayor James J. Walker of New York City for a tax on beer.

Dickstein said the people will stand for no more taxes and "there is no more money to be taxed in the United States." He added:

"The drys have had 12 years of experience, with little or no enforcement, making drunkards out of decent people. The Government has spent millions and millions of dollars to help dry up the United States. At this late date there is no appropriation that could be made to do something that is impossible and those that are receiving the benefits of the present law are bootleggers and racketeers."

Welsh, who rushed to the Lambert house.

He found Mr. Lambert lying face down on the floor. He was dressed in pajamas. Beside him lay a .45-caliber automatic pistol.

Opening a window, Mr. Welsh shouted to a neighbor, who summoned an ambulance and police officers.

In the meantime, the son had gone to the home of Mrs. M. J. Gorman, at 1500 Emerson street. She hurried back to the house with him. Mrs. Lambert was sent for.

Dr. Joseph R. Mascaro, on the Emergency Hospital ambulance, pronounced Mr. Lambert dead. He was shot through the chest. The bullet completely penetrated his body and glancing off the wall, buried itself in the floor.

Mr. Lambert was from Baltimore, Md. He came to Washington more than ten years ago. In Baltimore, he was connected with the same Lambert-Hudson Co. which has a branch there. He was 49 years old.

Members of the family attributed the man's act to his illness. He had been confined to his bed since the first of the year, and had been in poor health for several years.

At the head of the parade of five divisions came the first column of Grand Lodge Masons. Representatives of the naval and military forces of the United States had been marshaled 5,000 strong for the parade. Included were units from the Thirteenth Engineers, Third Battalion, Twelfth Infantry; First Battalion, Sixteenth Field Artillery; First Squadron, Third Cavalry; First Battalion, First Regiment Marines; a detachment of sailors from the Washington Navy Yard and a detachment from the Coast Guard. All of the service bands were in line, augmented by the Thirteenth Engineers Band and the Quantico Marine Band.

Virginia Cities Represented.

The next division of the parade, the third, was made up of commanderies from Richmond, Fredericksburg, Charlottesville, Portsmouth, Petersburg, Staunton, Harrisonburg, Norfolk, Bristol, Newport News, Old Dominion Commandery of Alexandria, Culpeper, Blacksburg, Martinsville, Lexington, Roanoke and other smaller towns.

The fourth division was mainly made up of Masons of the District of Columbia, led by Grand Master Reuben A. Bogley and his staff. It was the largest single group in the parade, representing 48 lodges. They had assembled in the rain at 7:30 o'clock in the morning to take the train for Alexandria. This division also comprised the Virginia Blue Lodge of Masons, other lodges from Fredericksburg, the Alexandria-Washington Lodge, Clarendon Lodge and units from Massachusetts, Georgia, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, Maryland, North Carolina and New Jersey.

Hoover Witnesses Ceremony.

As President Hoover arrived, six Marine buglers sounded a flourish as a signal for the Memorial Hall to open. The President was escorted to the platform in the auditorium, where he witnessed the symbolic rites of the dedication.

The ceremonies were presided over by Grand Master Green of the Virginia Grand Lodge, using a special ritual prepared by that lodge.

An exact replica of the memorial, placed at the rear of the platform, was used for the dedication. Among the symbols of the ritual were a pitcher of corn, borne by James H. Price; a pitcher of wine, borne by E. L. Cunningham, and a pitcher of oil, brought to the platform by John S. Bottimore. A part of the contents of each of these pitchers was poured on the replica and at the end of the ceremony Grand Master Green dedicated the building "in the name of universal Masonry to the memory of George Washington."

In the ritual he had said, "This building is not only dedicated to Masonry, virtue and universal benevolence, but to the memory of America's greatest son and Virginia's brightest star—Washington."

Washington Bible Used.

"Virginia honors him because he is her child, born on her soil and raised to Masonic light in one of her lodges. We present the Bible with which he was initiated, the charter of the lodge over which he presided and the trowel used by him in laying the corner stone of the Nation's Capital."

In turn, each of the grand masters of the thirteen original States was called upon for a tribute to Washington.

When these had been presented, the grand masters of the States made from the original Virginia territory were called upon for their tribute, then the grand masters of the Southern States and grand masters of States west of the Mississippi, in turn, spoke.

The invocation was by the Right Rev. W. Bertrand Stevens, of Los Angeles, and the benediction by the Rev. Dr. William J. Morton, rector of Christ Church, Alexandria, where Washington worshiped.

Masonic history in America and notably Washington's connection with it was reviewed by Melvin M. Johnson, past grand master of Masons in Massachusetts, in his dedicatory address.

"Shrine for Freemasons."

He termed the memorial a "shrine, a Mecca, for the Freemasons of the world." Continuing, he said:

"It is a symbol to all humanity of the ideals and purposes of Freemasonry. As the beacon light upon its summit will send out rays to all the compass in the hours of the night, so does Freemasony diffuse light, that it may penetrate more and more, further and further into the tenebrous recesses of human life.

Before you stands the tangible symbol of intangible ideals. It may crumble with the lapse of time and the ruthless hands of ignorance, but the ideals it proclaims must endure until time shall be no more.

"No one would contend that Washington owed the greatness of his character solely to Freemasonry, but naught but prejudice would deny the influence of Freemasonry. Amazing almost beyond belief is the exemplification of Washington's life of principles and teachings of our fraternity."

Mr. Johnson asserted that no authoritative spokesman of legitimate and recognized Freemasonry has ever engaged in a campaign against, or antagonized any religion.

Free of Religious Prejudice.

"Freemasonry never has been, is not now and never will be a party to the reviling of any faith, creed, theology or method of worship."

Masonic ceremonies and sessions will continue today in Washington and Alexandria.

The twenty-seventh annual convention of the National League of Masonic Clubs will resume its meetings at the Willard Hotel. It will open with an inspirational hour at 10 a. m. A trip around Washington has been planned for wives of the delegates and the delegates themselves will meet President Hoover at the White House at 12:30 o'clock. A banquet will be held at the Willard at 7:30 p. m. The convention will close tomorrow with sessions held in the auditorium of the memorial.

The annual conclave of the Grand Commandery, Knights Templar of Virginia, will open in the memorial today. A meeting of the Masonic librarians and educators of the United States will also be held at the memorial today.

Pickpockets Take $150 From 2 Mason Visitors

Two visiting Masons were robbed yesterday by pickpockets, they reported to police.

George L. Tusk, city manager of Bay City, Miss., lost $100 to a thief in Alexandria, Va., and Francis Seidel, of Reading, Pa., had his pocket picked, in a downtown theater, of a billfold containing $50.

GLASS SCORES KEAN IN SENATE SPEECH

(Associated Press.)

Charges that a Senate banking subcommittee economist sent confidential information to Paris newspapers which caused withdrawals of gold from the United States were denounced by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia, in the Senate yesterday as untrue and "childish."

His vigorous defense of Dr. H. Parker Willis against the accusations made on the Senate floor Wednesday by Senator Kean (Republican), New Jersey, came shortly before the Glass banking reform measure was laid aside temporarily, after four dramatic days of debate, to make way for the tax bill.

In agreeing to having his measure sidetracked, Senator Glass told the Senate earnestly that "if it or something like it isn't passed we are going to have another era of bank failures in this country."

In taking up Kean's charges, Glass accused him of having "descended to a level of which he may not be particularly proud" and of discussing the bill "in a vein of petty politics."

Emphatically, he told the Senate he resented the statements of the New Jersey senator, who, he said, "undertook to impute to members of the subcommittee actions which have no foundation in fact, and undertook to asperse unjustly and without warrant of fact, the technician of that committee."

Glass said Willis is "as honorable a man as I ever came in contact with in my life, not in any measure exceeded in that respect by the senator from New Jersey."

Senator Kean was not on the Senate floor during the Virginian's remarks. Among Kean's assertions yesterday were that the Glass bill was written at the suggestion of Willis, that he prompted Senator Glass in questioning witnesses, and that he obtained for his Paris dispatches confidential information from the comptroller of the currency to which no senator but Glass had access.

All of these statements Glass vigorously denied. He ridiculed the contention that Willis' cablegrams could have had any effect on French withdrawals of gold and said he was surprised that any member of the Senate was so "credulous" as to believe they could.

At one point Glass challenged Kean to prove that the economist had prompted him in questioning witnesses and offered to "resign from my seat in the Senate" if the New Jersey member could do so.

MEANS IS ARRESTED AGAIN AFTER FIGHT

Times. I said 'let me see your credentials.'

"He had no credentials.

"I immediately turned to my wife, drabbed him and held him, and told my wife to call for the police.

"Instead of arresting him, they arrested me.

"I believe that he's an undercover man.

"I violated no law. If he's an undercover man, he performed his duty properly. I take my hat off to him."

Somers told police Means assaulted him after he had mistaken him for a Department of Justice agent.

Somers told other newspapermen that he had an appointment to meet Means in the Willard Hotel yesterday afternoon, but when Means failed to appear, he left the hotel and walked across Fourteenth street.

"Then," Somers continued, "I saw Means near the National Press Building. He invited me inside the drug store to have a drink. When we got inside he demanded to see my credentials. Then he said I was a Justice Department man. He struck me in the chest during the argument."

Columbus, Ga., May 12 (U.P.).—Fred Sheram, former El Paso, Tex., police reporter and now United Press correspondent here, was questioned today by investigators of the activities of Gaston B. Means, former Department of Justice agent, in El Paso and Juarez, Mexico, in connection with the latter's asserted promise to return the Lindbergh baby for Mrs. Edward B. McLean, Washington society woman and wife of the publisher.

Sheram told officers that Means told him confidentially the identity of Mrs. McLean, whom he introduced as Miss Ane. The reporter also said that Means did not mention the Lindbergh baby, but intimated a "big story" was about to break.

Means, said Sheram, spent money lavishly in El Paso and Juarez.

Old Ironsides Is Set Adrift By High Wind

A strong gust of wind yesterday played an unscheduled part in the Masonic dedication ceremonies and provided a thrill for the crew and scores of visitors aboard the historic frigate Constitution.

The vessel, anchored off Alexandria, had attracted more than 50 persons, who were being conducted on a tour of inspection. A strong wind and tide suddenly tore loose the anchor, and with its tender, the U. S. S. Grebe, the famous craft started to drift downstream.

Had it not been for the quick action of Commander L. J. Gulliver, in charge of "Old Ironsides," the incident might have developed to serious proportions. A number of Coast Guard ships were anchored at various points along the river. With the aid of the Grebe, under Commander Gulliver's orders, however, the Constitution was maneuvered out of danger.

A short time later, as a precaution against further trouble, the craft was towed to its berth at the Washington Navy Yard. No damage was done and the visitors were safely placed ashore.

HUGE GOLD SUPPLY FREED BY NEW LAW

(Associated Press.)

Marshaling new reserves behind the Nation's currency, the Federal Reserve Board, utilizing the provisions of the Glass-Steagall law, last week used $97,000,000 of Government paper to release gold held as security for currency.

The recently enacted law permits banks to substitute Federal securities for eligible paper to secure circulation of Federal Reserve Bank notes. It requires that the notes must be secured by 40 per cent gold and 60 per cent eligible paper.

In making the announcement yesterday that first use of the measure's provisions had been authorized, the board said it had been determined that banks could pledge the Government's securities when they had exhausted their supply of eligible paper and the operating margin of gold at the bank had declined to the level which is necessary to assure the efficient functioning of the Reserve banks.

Margin Is Set.

The board set an unannounced margin for each bank and $400,000,000 for the entire system. It said the action would enable the banks to have available at all times a sufficient amount of Federal Reserve notes and free gold to permit unhampered operation of the Federal Reserve System.

In recent months the banks have put up gold in place of eligible paper to secure circulation of bank notes. The board's action enables the banks thus to release gold by depositing Government securities for portions of the 60 per cent eligible paper.

This releases gold to maintain their necessary operating margin of free gold. The eligible paper heretofore required consisted of 60-day commercial and nine-month agricultural paper.

Total of $1,400,000,000.

The board said that at the beginning of May the system's reserves in excess of legal requirements of 35 per cent against deposits and 40 per cent against Federal Reserve notes amounted to $1,400,000,000.

While the amount of Federal Reserve notes declined somewhat, the board continued, the decrease in the supply of eligible paper was greater, with the result that reserve banks took gold out of their deposit reserves and pledged it as collateral for Federal Reserve notes.

As a result of that transfer gold reserves held exclusively against Federal Reserve notes increased from 79.2 per cent on February 24, to 90 per cent on May 4; while the ratio of reserves available against deposits declined from 53.1 per cent to 40.2 per cent.

WORLD COURT GETS COMMITTEEBACKING

Bill Is Reported Favorably But Important Reservations Are Attached.

By HAROLD J. T. HORAN.

American participation in the World Court was favorably reported out of the Senate foreign relations committee yesterday. The opponents of the court, however, clamped a ball and chain to the measure in the form of a reservation put forward by Senator George H. Moses (Republican), of New Hampshire, which will automatically drag the issue back to where it was in 1926. This was a resolution to request all the foreign nations signatory to the World Court protocol to signify their understanding of the reservations which have been put around American participation.

It was learned, however, that protagonists of the court intend to start a movement to have this reservation stricken from the measure when it reaches the floor of the Senate for definitive action.

The next step in the storm-tossed passage of the World Court question seemed very much in doubt yesterday. Some adherents of the measure were satisfied with their work thus far and appeared to be content to let the resolution lie over until the next session. This possibility was by no means certain as Senator Thomas Walsh (Democrat), of Montana, the patron of the proposal, declared:

Senators Prepared for Fight.

Senator Hiram Johnson (Republican), of California, and Senator Moses would welcome this maneuver, as they have already girded themselves for the fight and are prepared to offer a stiff resistance to any attempt to put the court over this session. It is currently believed that the action of the court leaders in the Senate will depend to no small extent on the repercussions aroused by the action of the foreign relations committee yesterday. If a representatively popular reaction follows, they may decide to press forward in the face of an unfinished calendar of domestic legislation, in order to acheive the court now. On the other hand, the necessities of purely domestic policies may counsel prudence and postponement until next December.

The foreign relations committee considered three different propositions relative to the world court. On the major proposition, the ratification of the protocol of accession, the vote was comparatively clear cut. The advocates of the court won by a count of 12 to 9. The Moses resolution was appended to the measure.

How the Committee Voted.

The vote of the senators was as follows: In favor—Capper, Reed, Fess, Vandenberg, Swanson (Democrat), Pittman (Democrat), Robinson (Democrat) of Arkansas, Walsh (Democrat) of Montana, Harrison (Democrat), George (Democrat), Black (Democrat), and Connally (Democrat). Against the resolution—Borah, Johnson, Moses, La Follette, Robinson, Glenn, Cutting, Lewis (Democrat), Shipstead (Farmer-Labor). Senator Wagner (Democrat), of New York, was absent.

The vote in favor of the Moses resolution was 11 for, 9 against, and the same ratio voted down the motion of Senator Johnson which would have put the entire fifth reservation again into the ratification.

Senator Johnson delivered a violent criticism of the pro-court element after the result of the foreign relations committee had been made known. He said:

"It seems a most peculiar time, when America faces the greatest economic crisis within her knowledge, that a controversial subject such as the World Court should be reported to the Senate.

Refers to Action as Gesture.

"The object in reporting any measure is that it may be considered and considered without delay. If the World Court has been reported solely with the intention of putting it over until next session, this gesture becomes a mere pretense.

"If it has been reported with the intention of having it taken up and considered this session, it means interference at least with the grave problems now confronting the Nation, and with which the Senate is ready to deal."

"Of course those internationalists organizations, working on behalf of the World Court, consider it to be of greater importance than any other legislation that can be placed before Congress. It is their idea that we should halt our endeavors to relieve the distress in our own country in order to go into a League of Nations abroad. I emphatically dissent. They would doubtless have us look to Europe first, forgetful of our own."

Delay of Two Years Seen.

It was pointed out that if the Moses resolution is allowed to stand in the measure of ratification, it will require at least two years more of diplomatic exchanges before an expression of opinion is received from all signatories of the protocol. The protocol itself was adopted September 14, 1929, and it was signed by the United States conditional to acceptance and ratification by the Senate three months later.

Up to date all the principal European nations have signed the agreement, but the following countries have not: Bolivia, Brazil, Chili, Dominican Republic, Guatemala, Haiti, Liberia, Lithuania, Nicaragua, Panama, Paraguay, Peru, El Salvador, Uruguay, Venezuela, and Ethiopia.

Traylor Backer Scoffs At Minor Post Rumors

Fort Worth, Tex., May 12 (A.P.).—Frank Schofield, secretary and manager of the "Traylor for President" Club, said today that any intimation Melvin A. Traylor, Chicago banker, could be advanced as a Democratic candidate either for the Vice Presidency or a Cabinet post "was absolutely unfounded and without any truth whatever."

"We are advocating the nomination of Melvin A. Traylor to lead the Democratic ticket as we think he is the most logical man for the Presidency," Scofield said.

NEW IS MENTIONED IN LEASING INQUIRY

(Associated Press.)

Documents representing that former Postmaster General New in 1926 aided in rescuing from financial difficulties an unsuccessful bidder for a postal lease who later withdrew charges that the contract was illegally awarded were presented yesterday to a Senate committee.

Correspondence was laid before the Senate postal lease investigating committee charging that the lease was awarded to a "close friend of New's" and that the other bidder was threatening a congressional inquiry on the grounds that the contract was illegal.

The lease, for the Back State Station in Boston, was awarded to R. D. Brown, of Indianapolis, at an annual rental of $66,000 for ten years. Chester W. Hanson, one of the unsuccessful bidders, protested.

Says Financing Arranged.

The correspondence was from the files of P. W. Chapman & Co., of New York and Chicago. Brown, who was on the stand, testified that Hanson was under financial obligations to the Chapman firm to the extent of $15,000, but he denied that New had ever negotiated with him to aid Hanson.

One letter from the New York to the Chicago office of the Chapman firm said after Hanson protested to New and threatened a congressional investigation he was called to the Postmaster General's office to explain his attitude.

"Rather than kick up a big row which would take time and money," the letter said, "he took the position that he was embarrassed with his bankers and that if we received the financing from Brown he would drop the whole situation.

"The Postmaster General promised to see that he was gotten in touch with by Brown about this financing.

"Nothing has happened since except Hanson was advised today by telephone that New had requested Brown to get in touch with Hanson in regard to the financing."

Hurls Charge of Liar.

Brown testified that the financing of the lease was awarded to the Chapman company, but said he had made the arrangements before Hanson filed his protest. The witness denied ever talking with New about the financing and called Hanson a "big liar."

A later letter from R. W. Swart, of the New York office of the Chapman firm, to the Chicago office said:

"I would certainly take very seriously the commitment of Postmaster General New that we would get this financing if Hanson would release the claim he has on the Postmaster General's office, resulting from their method of conducting negotiations."

Hanson's protest was also placed in the record showing he contended Brown was not eligible to bid because the bidding was only open to those who had responded to a previous advertisement.

LOGAN AVERS REDS FINANCE COAL TRIPS

Kentucky Senator Questions Attorney as to Source of Strike Tour Funds.

(Associated Press.).

Long hair flying wildly and head jerking savagely, Senator Logan (Democrat), Kentucky, yesterday thrust before a Senate committee the indirect charge that funds from Moscow financed groups of Eastern writers investigating the Kentucky coal fields.

Mr. Logan, rising from his place near the committee table, pointed a finger at Allan Taub, a witness, and roared:

"These trips about the country are expensive. Who pays the cost?"

Mr. Taub, attorney for the International Labor Defense, who charged he was beaten, jailed without hearing, and denied bond and other constitutional rights in the Kentucky coal country, replied that contributions came from workers, sympathizers, students and organizations, naming the National Miners Union, Workers International Relief and the Labor Defense.

"Which is connected directly with Communist headquarters at Moscow?" Mr. Logan thundered, leaning toward him.

When Mr. Taub replied that if any "it is news to me," Mr. Logan shouted:

"You don't mean to say they don't receive money there?"

The Kentucky senator told Mr. Taub the "treatment" given him was a matter for a justice of the peace to look into, instead of the Senate, and asserted he went to Kentucky on "red money" to stir up trouble.

Mr. Taub replied he went as an attorney and that to bring in the question of communism was dragging a "red herring across the trail."

The Rev. Reinhold Niebuhr, of New York, of the Union Theological Seminary, and the Rev. W. B. Spofford, editor of the Witness, an Episcopal publication, appeared before the group as representatives of a committee of pastors who went into the area. They urged a Senate investigation.

The Rev. Niebuhr said miners were living under conditions "essentially peonage," while the Rev. Spofford charged "there is absolute denial of civil liberties and Constitutional rights," that people were beaten and kidnaped, living conditions "terrible," and the citizens violently opposed to "reds" without knowing "just what a red is."

The Rev. Spofford also asserted "a feeling of terrorism and fear" hung over the area, and that a senatorial inquiry would "open up things" and the force of public opinion would bring remedies.

MEXICO IS SHOCKED AT DEATH OF CHILD

Ortiz Rubio and Calles Send Messages of Sympathy to Parents and U. S.

Mexico City, May 12 (A.P.).—The news of the Lindbergh tragedy, given to the city first by the Associated Press late today, spread like wildfire from radio stations, bulletin boards and newspaper offices.

Deepest sympathy and shock were the first reaction.

"Informed by the Associated Press correspondent of the death of the child, President Ortiz Rubio and Gen. Plutarco Elias Calles prepared immediately to send messages to the grieved parents and to the Morrow home at Englewood, N. J.

"What infamy!" the general said. "The news of the death of the Lindbergh child causes me profound grief. I have only the deepest sympathy for Col. Lindbergh and his wife and Mrs. Morrow for this tragic outcome."

"I am terribly shocked," the president said, "by the cruel assassination of the Lindbergh baby, and I send my condolences and sincere sympathy to the relatives and the people of the United States. Mexico has the deepest affection for Col. Lindbergh, nor has it forgotten the work of Ambassador Dwight W. Morrow, who was largely responsible for the cordial relations now existing between the two countries."

Judge Will Tour Coal Mine Area

Cochran to Accompany Civil Liberties Group Through Fields.

London, Ky., May 12 (A.P.).—Federal Judge J. M. J. Cochran announced tonight he would accompany members of the American Civil Liberties Union investigating party on their tour of the southeastern Kentucky mine area.

The judge made his announcement before recessing until tomorrow morning the union's hearing for a Federal injunction to prevent Bell and Harlan County officials or citizens from molesting them while there.

"This does not mean I am granting this injunction," the judge said in announcing his intention of accompanying them. "I will decide that later."

Testimony will be resumed in court here tomorrow morning in the injunction proceedings. Most of tonight's session was taken up by Arthur Garfield Hays, general counsel of the union, questioning County Attorney Walter B. Smith, who was on the witness stand.

Writer's Initiative Gave Associated Press "Scoop"

Francis A. Jamieson Was First to Flash News of Body's Finding to World by Dash to Gov. Moore's Office at Trenton.

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—Here is how the finding of the body of Charles Augustus Lindbergh, jr., was first given to the world late today:

While working on another angle of the kidnaping, Francis A. Jamieson, Associated Press staff correspondent in Trenton, learned Col. Norman H. Schwarzkopf, superintendent of New Jersey State police, had summoned newspapermen to the Lindbergh home in Hopewell for an announcement.

Mr. Jamieson immediately raced two other Associated Press staff men to Hopewell. He himself dashed to the executive offices of Gov. A. Harry Moore, in Trenton.

Gov. Moore was not there. Mr. Jamieson called the governor at his home and while waiting, got the New York office of the Associated Press by telephone and held the wire open.

Gov. Moore said he had just learned Col. Schwarzkopf had been trying to get him by telephone. Mr. Jamieson asked the governor if he would call Col. Schwarzkopf immediately. While the governor talked on another line to Mr. Schwarzkopf, Mr. Jamieson held the wire he had into the Moore residence.

In a few seconds, Gov. Moore shouted to Mr. Jamieson:

"I have sad news for you. The Lindbergh baby has been found dead."

Then came the other details, quickly relayed by Mr. Jamieson to the New York office through the adjacent telephone, even as he talked with the governor.

Out over the Associated Press news circuits, running to all sections of the world, flashed one of the greatest news "beats" in newspaper history:

"Flash

"Gov. Moore announces Lindbergh baby found dead."

Commercial Radio Hit As Free Speech Peril

Minneapolis, Minn., May 12 (A.P.).—Describing commercially controlled radio stations as a "threat against free speech in America," Joy Elmer Morgan, of Washington, D. C., secretary of the National Education Association, in an address today advised establishment of broadcasting stations under State control.

Speaking at the National University Extension Association convention, he attacked commercial stations for what he called undesirable advertising and said they limit the activities of stations operated by educational institutions. He asserted a "serious mistake" was made when air channels were not allotted to the States for their exclusive control.

Baptist Women Urge Abolition of Lynching

St. Petersburg, Fla., May 12 (A.P.).—Eradication of lynching, strengthening of prohibition laws, increased financial contributions and membership campaigns were approved here today by the Women's Missionary Union of the Southern Baptist convention as major objectives for the coming year.

Without discussion and without a dissenting vote the organization adopted a resolution committee report containing these projects. A call for Baptist women to oppose opponents of prohibition was issued by Mrs. Jesse Daniel Ames, of Atlanta, woman's work director of the commission on inter-racial relations. She also called upon them to rise up against lynching as "a crime against Christianity."

Norfolk Lindbergh Agents Silent on Report of Death

Norfolk, Va., May 12 (A.P.).—Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, and the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, two Norfolk intermediaries in the Lindbergh kidnaping case, said they had no comment to make this afternoon when informed that Gov. A. Harry Moore of New Jersey had announced the baby had been found dead.

John Hughes Curtis, the third member of the trio, was still away today on another mission he had taken in an effort to recover the baby from the kidnapers. The three men had served since early in March as intermediaries in the case.

Dean Dobson-Peacock said some comment might be made later after he had talked with Admiral Burrage.

Mr. Curtis first entered the case as a negotiator on March 9, after he had been approached by a man representing himself as a go-between for the kidnapers. He later enlisted the aid and advice of Dean Dobson-Peacock, a friend of the Morrow family, and Admiral Burrage, who commanded the ship upon which Col. Lindbergh returned from his flight to Paris.

The three visited the home of Col. Lindbergh on March 22 and then engaged actively in negotiations to recover the baby. Numerous trips by plane were made by Mr. Curtis, while the clergyman later made a trip alone to confer with the famous flier. He returned with the announcement that Lindbergh had requested the three to carry on with their work.

Airplanes, and more lately a yacht, were employed by Mr. Curtis in frequent missions to make contact with the kidnapers and complete efforts to recover the child. He engaged on his latest mission in the case last Thursday or Friday, leaving here by plane for some unrevealed destination. A later report said he was working in the vicinity of Block Island, off the Rhode Island coast.

Capt. F. H. Lackmann, skipper of the yacht used by the negotiators, said tonight that the boat had been placed at the disposal of Mr. Curtis after "we had been given every possible evidence that Norfolk negotiators were convinced that the baby was alive and well upon a ship at sea."

The yacht, owned by Col. Charles H. Consolvo, of Norfolk, made eight cruises with Capt. Lackmann serving as pilot.

"Throughout the maneuvers looking toward a contact with the supposed kidnapers' ship," he said, "we had every evidence that every person involved, including Col. Lindbergh, was firmly convinced of the identity of the child sought at sea.

"We regret that we, along with the father of the child, the Norfolk intermediaries and others, including high officials of the United States Navy, apparently may have been the victims of a monstrous hoax, the perpetrators of which we hope will be brought to justice along with the murderers of the baby."

SENATE UNIT WORKS IN SECRET ON SAVING

Furlough Plan Apparently Favored in Drive for 300 Million Economy.

Jealously guarding all action on the new bipartisan savings program, a Senate appropriations subcommittee, economy bent, yesterday worked its way half through the omnibus retrenchment bill, reclaiming savings stricken by the House.

The fate of 813,000 civil employes hung on committee disposition of the first two titles in the bill. It was a case of pay cuts versus enforced Government furloughs, with furloughs favored to win out over the House pay slash of 11 per cent with $2,500 exemption.

Moving swiftly, with increased zeal for retrenchment, the committee yesterday reached the Shipping Board reorganization item, rounding out title 3 of the bill.

Pledged to Secrecy.

Under a "gentleman's agreement" to shed no light on what transpires in the secret sessions—a ban that seals their lips even before Senate intimates—members after a six-hour session left the committee room in silence.

Chairman Wesley L. Jones, committee spokesman in name only, had nothing to say. Later—he didn't say how much later—there will be an announcement. Meanwhile the committee has no intention of duplicating the performance of the Senate finance and the House economy committees, where decisions announced one day were renounced the next.

One thing appeared certain—the committee is not going to turn out any "weasel" economy bill. Whereas the House committee aimed at $200,000,000, the Senate economy group has set a $300,000,000 goal and is determined to reach it. If approved by the Senate, there appeared little doubt House conferees would accept the savings en masse.

Chairman Jones originally hoped to report the bill by Monday. Other members were less certain they could reach so speedy a conclusion, especially in view of the two months required by the House to survey the whole field of economies.

Pay Roll Central Issue.

The pivotal issue centers in how much can be lopped from Uncle Sam's $1,315,000,000 pay roll, comprising $1,056,000,000 annually for civil personnel and $259,000,000 for Army and Navy.

Under the pay cut plan agreed to by the House, only $12,000,000 of this would be touched, affecting but 30 per cent of the total number of Government employes.

EAST FALLS CHURCH BANK HELD UP BY TWO of one of the robbers' guns. Barbor said this blow dazed him and he was thrown to the floor, where the bandit continued to belabor his head with the weapon.

The other robber kicked him, Barbor asserted, and he was told that if he did not cease shouting he would be killed. The cashier quickly lapsed into semiconsciousness from the gun blows.

Swiftly the robbers rifled the till in the small branch bank, a connection of the Falls Church branch in the main village. No one saw them leave. Before they departed they tied Barbor's hands behind him with heavy wrapping cord. He was able to free himself and making his way to the telephone managed to murmur "Police!" to the operator.

The telephone operator first summoned A. W. McPherson, a special officer and operator of a gasoline station a block away. McPherson rushed to the branch bank and called for medical attention for Barbor. Dr. J. P. Smallwood, of Clarendon, responded and bandaged Barbor's wounds.

Then it was learned that H. H. Anderson, real estate man, with offices next door to the bank office, had seen two strange and rough looking men walk past his window, evidently going to the bank branch. He remarked on their appearance to Miss Mildred Presgrave, his secretary, who also noted the men.

Colorado Party Cleared.

Anderson and I. W. Nalls, a garage man, jumped into the latter's machine as soon as they had learned of the robbery and sped down the Lee highway in search of the robbers. At Merrifield they stopped a large sedan with Colorado tags and bearing three men and a woman. This party was brought back, but was quickly absolved of participation in the holdup and allowed to proceed.

It was presumed that the bandits had a getaway machine, but apparently no one saw them except Anderson and Miss Presgrave. Police worked on a theory that the men were accompanied by a man who sat in a machine parked nearby. A large sedan with dealers' license plates was seen in the neighborhood the day before and a car of similar description was reported speeding south on the Lee highway not long after the robbery.

The bandits were described as being between 30 to 35 years old, and of medium height and build. "They looked almost enough alike to be twin brothers," said Anderson, "except that one had a mustache." Miss Presgrave and Barbor's descriptions tallied with Anderson's. Both men wore slouch hats and topcoats, with collars turned up.

Rain Aids Robbers.

McPherson, the first officer on the scene, was followed shortly afterward by J. V. Turner, deputy sheriff of Falls Church, who obtained and sent to State police a description of the robbers. State, county and local authorities immediately joined in the search for the pair.

Sheriff Howard B. Fields, of Arlington County, immediately dispatched Deputy Sheriff Harry Woodyard and County Policeman John R. Burke to the scene to handle the county investigation.

A driving rain was falling as the holdup took place. This factor was cited as explaining why no one saw the bandits make their getaway. The streets of the hamlet were empty at the time.

Practically all State police of the vicinity were detailed to the Masonic ceremonies at Alexandria at the time of the robbery and this coincidence was pointed to as indicating the job was planned carefully in advance.

Mr. Barbor, who lives in East Falls Church, not far from the office, was sheriff of Arlington County from 1912 to 1915, succeeding the late Jake Burch, who died after serving a short term. The cashier is widely known in Arlington County.

SENATE WILL PRESS ACTION ON TAX BILL

Gives Proposed Legislation Preferred Status; Split on Tariff Provisions.

By J. B. McDONNELL.

The Senate yesterday set the stage for its tax battle when it made the billion dollar tax increase bill its unfinished business, to remain formally before it until disposed of.

Talk of completing consideration of the bill in a week or ten days was noticeably absent as the Senate voted the preferred status to the revenue bill. Senator James E. Watson (Republican), of Indiana, urged his colleagues to settle down to work and pass the bill so that it and other business could be completed in time to permit adjournment by June 10.

Furthermore, the majority leader said, the Senate would have to sit in night sessions from noon until 10 o'clock at night beginning next week, although the night sessions will not be held without interruption.

Tariff Provisions Criticized.

The tariff provisions of the bill came in for severe criticism in a minority report filed by Senator David I. Walsh (Democrat), of Massachusetts. Senators Pat Harrison, of Mississippi; Walter F. George, of Georgia; Edward P. Costigan, of Colorado, and Cordell Hull, of Tennessee, all Democrats, joined in the report.

Other Democrats on the finance committee couldn't indorse the report. Senators Tom Connally, of Texas; Thomas P. Gore, of Oklahoma; William H. King, of Utah, and Alben W. Barkley, of Kentucky, have voted to put tariffs into the tax bill. The tariff vote of Senator Barkley, incidentally, may prove politically costly to him. He has been urged as the keynoter of the Democratic national convention in Chicago next month. The Democrats intend to make as much political capital as they can out of attacking the Smoot-Hawley tariff law, the highest ever enacted by protectionist Republicans. Senator Barkley's tariff votes unfit him for the keynoting job, his critics say.

Called "Utterly Indefensible."

Inclusion of the tariffs in the tax bill, the minority report said, is under all circumstances "utterly indefensible."

"We believe," the signers said, "that it is unsound in principle and dangerous in practice to attempt to make the present revision of our domestic tax laws the vehicle of tariff tinkering. Furthermore, the prospective revenue yield of these proposed tariff taxes is negligible.

"More important is the fact that these tariffs, at best, will be of doubtful benefit to domestic producers, may adversely affect domestic consumers and will work most certain injury to our foreign trade and our foreign relations. The probable ultimate consequences of this further attempted tampering with a desperately sick economic situation throughout the world may well occasion the gravest apprehension."

WOOD QUITS AS HEAD OF GAS LIGHT FIRM

under way whereby Mr. Wood was to be paid $110,000 to resign. This would cover two years' salary at $30,000 to cover the unexpired term of his contract and a $50,000 commission on the purchase of the Hyattsville Gas System a year ago for the Central Public Service Co.

Col. William J. Donovan, who was reported to be Mr. Wood's personal attorney in the negotiations, was said at his office yesterday, to be in New York. Members of his firm declined to comment on the report.

The utilities body late yesterday ordered the gas company to send it a copy of the minutes of the session held last Monday as the result of a published report quoting Julian Pierce, a stockholder, that Mr. Wood was temporarily deposed as chairman of the meeting after he had declared that a quorum was not present because of the commission's order and that the minutes were thereafter altered so as to omit any reference to the order.

Long Business Career.

Mr. Weaver has had a long business career in Washington. For 30 years he was in the wholesale meat business, after which he assisted in organizing the Metropolitan Railway and was its president until 1916. He then became president of the Old Dominion Railway, but retired in 1924.

On April 11, 1930, he was elected vice president of the Washington Gas Light Company at the same time that Mr. Wood became president. Two months later, however, or on June 12, 1930, he was replaced by George B. Fraser and was reelected president of the Georgetown Gas Light Co., a position he had held previously as early as 1911.

Mr. Weaver was formerly vice president of the Farmers & Mechanics National Bank, which was absorbed by the Riggs National Bank in 1928.

Rumors that Mr. Wood was to be replaced as president of the Washington Gas Light Co. have been current since the Monday session of stockholders. Just what the reasons are for his ouster have not been revealed, but he is believed to have opposed certain policies of the controlling corporation.

BABY'S DEATH TOLD IN DRAMATIC SCENE

Reporters, in Lindbergh's Locked Garage, Hear Tragic Statement.

Hopewell, N. J., May 12 (U.P.).—Newspapermen assigned to the Lindbergh case were galvanized to action this afternoon when they were summoned, through official channels at Trenton, to the Lindbergh home.

The importance of the summons was manifest in the messages given to reporters, and there was an immediate race through a steady rain, to the big home of the famous flier.

The very atmosphere was that of tragedy.

The newspapermen were taken silently into the garage, which, since the kidnaping, has been used as an emergency police headquarters. There they waited, restlessly speculating on the drama, for several hours. It was explained that Col. Schwartzkopf wanted to assure himself that all were present before he made his announcement.

When he had convinced himself that all authorized newspapermen were in the crowded garage, Col. Schwartzkopf ordered the doors locked. The room was stuffy and silent. Reporters, seated at the long table used for the battery of telephones of the police squad, waited uneasily.

Rush to Doors Checked.

Then, in a droning voice, to the accompaniment of a steady patter of rain on the eves, the police official who from the beginning to the end of the drama has had charge of press relations, began reading his statement.

The silence was oppressive until he reached the words "body was found."

Instantly there was a concerted rush to the doors, as reporters sought to break through to telephone the tragic news.

"No, no," Schwartzkopp protested. "Not a man will leave this room until I have read all of my statement." He continued his droning recital while reporters tried desperately to keep pace with him and occasionaly interrupted him to catch a word.

He finished.

"That's all, boys," he said.

At once Col. Schwartzkopf was deluged with a storm of questions. He smiled, a little grimly, and stepped back toward the door leading to the house of tragedy within.

"I will answer no questions and say nothing more until I issue my regular bulletin at 9 o'clock," he said. Then he backed through the door.

Lindbergh Lauds Press.

Again there was a rush to the now unlocked doors. The roar of motors filled the Lindbergh yard, and a dozen cars leaped through the mud to the gates and out along the slippery, dangerous roads.

Communication services between Hopewell and the major Eastern centers were at once clogged with the outpouring of messages. The news, coming at the end of a week in which there had been little activity and less news in the case, was to atun the world.

Despite some reports to the contrary, Col. Lindbergh never resented the activity of newspapermen on the case.

"I will never forget the wholehearted and splendid way in which newspapermen have cooperated with our request that they leave the farm and leave us entirely alone," he said. "I am sure no similar request on a story of such wide interest had ever been made before and acceded to. When the newspaper people understood how important it was that we be not followed or disturbed in our work, they left us alone. Their spirit has been fine all the way through."

Maniac Theory Revived.

He had previously thought of danger to the baby at the lonely farm.

"It did not seem possible, however," he said. "Our baby had been widely publicized—probably more than any other in America.

"We are not particularly wealthy. I felt that if any one even gave the idea a thought that they would quickly realize the uproar which would result and would discover their chances of obtaining a large sum were not good. In that I made my mistake."

Immediately there was speculation, unofficial and official, as to the purposes of the crime and the mentality of the criminals.

A majority of criminologists, piecing together the circumstances and reviewing the conditions under which the body was found, clung to the theory that it was the work of a maniac. Supposition that the baby was killed soon after his abduction was widespread.

This in turn led to belief in many quarters that every supposed "clew" to the kidnapers, including that one which so convinced Col. Lindbergh that he readily paid over $50,000 for the promised return of his baby, was utterly false.

New York Millions Shocked by News

Papers' Offices Swamped by Calls From Residents Seeking Details.

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—Black headlines, "Lindbergh Baby Found Dead!" struck New York's millions at the dinner hour tonight. Park avenue's home-bound millions of motors wormed slowly along the rain-slicked pavement with scores of newsboys dodging in and out precariously, screaming:

"Baby dead!"

Telephone lines into all newspaper offices were choked with calls. "Is it true?" "Where was the baby found?" "How long had the child been dead?" The Associated Press, which made public first news of the finding of the baby, through an announcement by Gov. Moore of New Jersey, was buried under phone calls. Edition after edition rolled from giant presses as papers were snatched from the hands of the racing newsboys by a public eager for details.

Gen. Jay J. Morrow Badly Shaken at News

Englewood, N. J., May 12 (A.P.).—Gen. Jay J. Morrow, brother of the late Dwight W. Morrow, father of Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, appeared badly shaken when informed the Lindbergh baby had been found dead. He declined to make a statement.

AID IN DISCOVERING BABY TELLS STORY

Orville Wilson Describes Finding of Body Under Laurel Thicket.

Hopewell, N. J., May 12 (U.P.).—Orville Wilson, one of the men who found the body of the Lindbergh baby, disclosed tonight in an interview the circumstances surrounding the discovery in the woods at Mount Rose Hill.

"William Allen, who was with me on a truck, went into the woods about 75 feet from the road," Mr. Wilson said. "In a minute he came running back, and shouted: 'My God! I think I've found the Lindbergh baby!'

"I jumped from the truck and leaped over the fence and ran down a little gully and up the side of the hill. There I saw the body.

Body Lying Face Downward.

"It was lying face downward and badly decomposed. A few curly locks still stuck to the back of the skull. More hair was a couple of feet from the child.

"It made me feel terrible and sad for Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh.

"When we examined the body more closely, it appeared as if the child had been thrown under the bushes, and a hurried attempt had been made to cover the body with leaves and grass.

"There was a small piece of clothing—dirty and rainsoaked—resting in the small of the back. The spot where the body lay was such a distance from the road that searchers would be unable to find it unless they happened to go within a foot or two of the body.

Concealment Indicated.

"A thicket of laurel was within a few feet of the body. It looked like the person who put the body there had tried to hide it behind the thicket.

"There was no evidence of a band around the child's stomach, such as he was supposed to have worn when kidnaped.

"We stayed at the spot but a few minutes. Then we ran down the hill and drove back to Hopewell, where I reported to Charley Williamson, the police chief. He got the State police and Mr. Allen went back with them and they took the body away.

"About 5 o'clock they called me to the Lindbergh house to tell how we had found the body. I have a little grandson just a few months older than the Lindbergh baby was when kidnaped. I know how sad the Lindberghs feel."

The interview was in Mr. Wilson's house in Woodville about 3 miles from Hopewell, in the Sourland hills. Mrs. Wilson and their married daughter sat nearby.

Priest Sees Crime Challenge to U. S.

Rev. Coughlin, Who Made Early Radio Appeal, Says Gangster Must Go.

Detroit, May 12 (A.P.).—The Rev. Father Charles E. Coughlin, who broadcast a weekly sermon over a Nation-wide radio hookup during the winter months, tonight called the death of the kidnaped Lindbergh baby a challenge "to eradicate the gangster and hoodlum from our country."

His statement, made when he was informed by the Associated Press of the discovery of the body, follows:

"Now we have been challenged by the death of the Lindbergh baby to eradicate the gangster and hoodlum from our country. My deepest sympathy goes out to Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh. May their sorrow be an incentive to every American to make this a better country for the children of the growing generation. And yet my felicitations are extended to the Lindbergh family for their child is not dead but merely waiting for them in the land of eternity."

A few days after the child was kidnaped, Father Coughlin broadcast an appeal to the abductors to leave the child with any Catholic priest or at any Catholic institution.

Fiend Killed Baby, View of Secret Six

Chicago Crime Authorities Discount Gang Theory in Lindbergh Case.

(Associated Press.)

Chicago, May 12 (A.P.).—The opinion that the kidnaping and murder of Charles A. Lindbergh, jr., was perpetrated by a maniac rather than professional extortionists was expressed tonight by Chicago authorities.

Frank Loesch, head of the Chicago Crime Commission, said:

"Evidently authorities must look for clews in the immediate vicinity of the scene of the crime. I do not believe a gang was responsible for it."

Robert I. Randolph, head of Secret Six, said:

"The Lindbergh baby's kidnaping was done by a fiend. The finding of the body under the circumstances positively discredits gangsters' boasts that they could return the infant. Those with whom Col. Lindbergh was supposedly negotiating for the child's return have been guilty of attempting to operate a hideous confidence game."

Alexander Jamie, operating director of Secret Six, said:

"If the body found is that of the Lindbergh baby it would incline one to believe that the kidnaping and murder was the work of some fiend living in the vicinity of the estate. The Secret Six has investigated many reports that the child was in Chicago. All of these have proved to be without basis."

Lindbergh's Aunt Had Premonition of Death

Minneapolis, Minn., May 12 (A.P.).—Saying she had been "afraid that it would turn out that way," Mrs. W. A. Butler, of Minneapolis, an aunt of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, wept today when informed of the Lindbergh baby's death. "I've had a feeling for several weeks that the baby was dead. It's terrible," said Mrs. Butler. One of the things that touched her most was that she never had seen the child.

At Red Lake Falls, Minn., Mrs. Eva August Lindbergh Christie, half sister of Col. Lindbergh, was greatly shocked when informed of the baby's death.

CONGRESS TO SPEED CURB ON KIDNAPERS

(Associated Press.)

Determination that kidnapers in the future shall be forced to cope with relentless Federal laws echoed through Congress yesterday as highest officialdom expressed the Nation's grief at the Lindbergh tragedy.

President and Mrs. Hoover were among the first in the city to hear the sorrowful news that the baby had been found dead. Aids of the Chief Executive immediately communicated with New Jersey for full official information.

Plainly showing his deep feeling, Vice President Curtis said: "They have my deepest sympathy, and my most heartfelt condolences go out to the bereaved mother and Col. Lindbergh, and to their families, in their sorrow; it is a most shocking thing."

Early Action Forecast.

In both Houses of Congress, meanwhile, it was forecast that Federal antikidnaping laws soon would be passed.

Legislation is pending before the Senate judiciary committee to make interstate kidnaping subject to Federal jurisdiction, and Chairman Norris said it would be enacted.

"It is too awful to talk about," the Nebraska Republican said, in commenting on the Lindbergh case.

Representative Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, author of a bill to make transporting of abducted persons across State lines a capital offense, said there was no doubt that his bill would be speedily approved.

He explained that the House judiciary committee, before which the bill is pending, had been completely cooperative at all times but had mutually agreed that it would be better not to press the legislation until the Lindbergh case was closed.

"The mothers of this country never will be satisfied until they know the United States Government is solidly behind the protection of their children," Cochran said.

Second Bill in Senate.

A second kidnaping control bill sponsored by the Missourian, which would outlaw the sending of threatening letters through the mails, was passed by the House and is before the Senate judiciary committee.

While these legislators looked to safeguarding against future kidnapings, J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the Department of Justice's Bureau of Investigation, promised aid in running down the Lindbergh abductors.

"It is quite possible that now the police may have definite clews to the kidnapers," he said. "It is certain that they will go after them hard, and we of course will help in any way we can."

Senator Logan (Democrat), Kentucky, said: "I very deeply sympathize with Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh. It is one of the saddest tragedies in American history. I am intensely grieved with them."

LINDBERGH BABY MURDERED; BODY IS FOUND NEAR HOME

search for his stolen son, spending thousands of dollars, and even paying a $50,000 ransom to the supposed kidnapers, was absent as the formal statement of the finding of the body came from police headquarters at his hilltop home. He was notified, and was expected home by dawn.

State troopers said he was not on the estate. Latest reports were that he had been in Virginia for more than two weeks attempting to establish contact with men posing as the kidnapers.

Mrs. Anne Lindbergh, daughter of the late Senator Dwight W. Morrow, who expects the arrival of another child within several months, also was not seen. She and her mother, Mrs. Morrow, were known to have been in the house, however.

A wind howled over the Sourland countryside that March 1 night when the kidnapers crept up a ladder to the second-story window and took the baby from his crib while his parents and nurse were in other parts of the house. A drizzling rain fell in the dusk of the late afternoon today as those who had been summoned by police assembled in the garage.

Police Head's Announcement.

The formal police statement:

"We have to announce apparently the body of the Lindbergh baby was found at 3:15 p. m. William Allen, a Negro, was riding from Mount Rose, N. J., to Hopewell with Orville Wilson on a truck load of timber. They stopped the truck near a woods. He, Allen, went into the woods on the Mount Rose Hill in Mount Rose, N. J. Going under the bush he lowered his head and as he raised a branch he saw a skeleton on the ground, and a person's foot.

"He called back Mr. Wilson. Mr. Wilson ran into the woods, saw what it was and decided to go to Hopewell to get police. They notified Chief Wolf of the Hopewell police, who notified these headquarters. Inspector Walsh, of Jersey City; Sergt. Moffett, of the Newark police; Lieut. Keaton, of the New Jersey State police, and a number of other detectives immediately went to the scene.

"They reported finding the body of a child estimated to be between 1½ and 2 years old in a bad state of decomposition, having blonde hair and wearing what appeared to be an undershirt and a flannel band around the body.

"Not satisfied with this as identification the men sent back to Hopewell to the Lindbergh estate to get samples of the undershirt the baby wore and of the flannel shirt the baby had on the night of the kidnaping (March 1). This flannel shirt had an embroidered collar on it. These articles were taken back to the scene and were compared with the clothing found on the body and were matched closely enough to afford an identification of the body as that of the Lindbergh baby.

"The statement of William Allen and Orville Wilson says that the body was pretty well concealed by leaves, dirt and brush.

"The skull had a hole in it about the size of a 25-cent piece above the forehead. There apparently had been an attempt to bury the body face downward. It was in a bad state of decomposition. Mercer County coroner and the county physician were immediately called. The physician is Dr. Charles H. Mitchell. The coroner is Walter Swayze, both of Trenton.

"The body was found about 75 yards off the road in the woods."

To this dramatic denouement the reaction of Gov. Moore was expressed tersely in these words:

"Every attempt should be made now to find the murderers of the Lindbergh baby."

His sentiment was echoed in a second statement from Col. Schwarzkoff, which was as follows:

"As long as there was a possibility of the baby being alive, the police have been acting with a certain amount of suppressed activity in order not to interfere with any negotiations that might result in the safe return of the baby.

"Now that the body of the baby has been found every possible effort will be used and all men necessary will immediately exercise every possible effort to accomplish the arrest of the kidnapers and murderers. We have had under suspicion a group of persons suspected of being the kidnapers and immediate steps will be taken and are being taken to accomplish their arrest.

"Emergency telephone lines for this case are lying on the ground where they were placed by telephone men within 75 feet of where the body was found."

Far-Flung Search for Child.

The discovery of the body in the very countryside where the kidnaping occurred followed more than two months of whirlwind investigation.

Ships at sea had been searched. A New Jersey State police officer had been sent to Europe to pursue one phase of the inquiry there.

Wild tips came to the Lindbergh estate by mail and cable from almost every nation on the globe. Special translators were employed to handle the foreign mail that poured in when the investigation was at is height.

One peak in the long-drawn-out search came when it was learned that Dr. John F. Condon, aged New York educator, on April 2 had paid $50,000 ransom money, as an agent for Col. Lindbergh, to a man in the shadow of a Bronx (New York City) cemetery.

This development followed a long series of communications between Dr. Condon and men who represented themselves as agents of the kidnapers. Some of this communication was by notes and the rest through a series of newspaper advertisements which Dr. Condon signed with the name of "Jafsie."

Finally, convinced he was in contact with the actual kidnapers, he paid the money. He later said Col. Lindbergh himself sat in a car a block away while the money, in bills of small denomination, passed hands.

False Tip After Ransom Paid.

The colonel and some of his associates immediately left for the Massachusetts Coast, where Dr. Condon said the receiver of the ransom had said the baby would be found.

Two days of futile search followed. Finally, convinced that those who received the money were not going to live up to their part of the bargain, Lindbergh gave a list of the serial numbers of the bills to the Treasury Department.

The numbers were sent far and wide. Some of the bills were reported found, but the discoveries did not lead investigators any nearer to a solution of the mystery or discovery of the child's whereabouts.

Meanwhile, three other intermediaries—a retired admiral, a clergyman and a shipbuilder—were making diligent efforts in Norfolk, Va., to establish contact with men they believed the abductors.

After frequent mysterious trips by plane they announced they had succeeded, but their hope of bringing about the child's return grew bright only to dim again as weeks wore on.

MOTHER MAINTAINS CALM UNDER SHOCK

President William A. Neilson, of Smith College, said the Morrows left by train.

Miss Morrow was deeply moved tonight when told that her little nephew had been found dead.

"Are you sure?" she asked excitedly. "Are you positive?"

Then, when she was read a news bulletin quoting Gov. A. Harry Moore to the effect that he had been told the child's body was found, Miss Morrow said, in trembling voice, "I think you had better call Hopewell." She apparently was unable to talk further.

SENATOR REED OUT FOR LIQUOR SALE

urday of the State committee and the delegation to the national convention. He said in his letter:

"In a nutshell my opinion is this: That the eighteenth amendment represents a positive benefit in that it put an end to the licensed saloon and this benefit ought not to be lost by any action that we take now.

"I have no illusions on the subject of speakeasies and bootleggers nor on the subject of racketeering and encouragement of criminals, and I believe that a change in the law is urgently needed.

"I should support a system such as either the Swedish or Quebec systems, which would provide for the licensed sale of spirits in Government-owned or Government-controlled dispensaries.

"I refused to sign the Tydings petition (to legalize and tax beer) and will oppose any outright repeal that does not provide for the continued prohibition of the licensed saloon. Needless to add, I favor the continuance of complete prohibition in those States which by referendum votes decide that they want to retain it.

"My views as set forth above will not meet with the approval of either the wets or the drys, but in that regard I am merely out of luck and must take the consequences.

"I have not talked much about this subject in the Senate or in public speeches, because it has been my hope that my service might be remembered by something other than activity on the subject of liquor."

Baby Death News Comes Five Years After Fame

St. Louis, May 12 (A.P.).—Revelation of the death of his child came to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh exactly five years after he hopped off here in the Spirit of St. Louis for New York to make the ocean flight that won him fame.

It was May 12, 1927, that he left St. Louis after having flown from San Diego, Calif., the previous day. Flags were ordered at halfstaff at the Municipal Airport, from which Col. Lindbergh once flew in the air mail service.

Five Die in Blast; Eight Are Injured

Boiler in Ohio Pulp Mill Explodes; Two-Story Building Wrecked.

Franklin, Ohio, May 12 (A.P.).—Five men were killed, three critically injured and five sustained minor injuries in an explosion that wrecked the two-story building of the Chaney Pulp & Paper Co. here late today.

The dead are Sam Thompson, 47; Richard Thompson, 24, his son; Sam Hawthorne, James Young, 55, and Finley Couch, 30. The critically injured are George Carpenter, 42; Glenn Cook, 18, and Presler Young, son of James Young, one of the dead.

RULE FOR 1ST AD

The explosion which almost pulverized the brick and concrete of the building, occurred in a steam boiler used for cooking rags for manufacture into paper pulp. David Patrick, superintendent of the plant, said the only reason he could advance for the explosion was too much pressure in the boiler.

J. H. Murphy on Local Police 40 Years, Dead

Detroit, May 12 (A.P.).—Jeremiah J. Murphy, for 40 years a member of the Washington, D. C., Police Department and holder of the Congressional Medal of Honor for valor in the Indian Wars, died here today at the home of his daughter, Mrs. James McDermott.

Murphy, who was 74 years old, came here after his retirement from the Washington force. He had been ill only a few days. The funeral will be held in Washington, with burial in Mount Olivet Cemetery.

Gasoline Bootlegged To Evade 7 Cent Tax

Memphis, May 12 (A.P.).—A smuggling ring that slipped 20 tank cars of gasoline into Memphis labeled as crude oil in order to evade the State tax of 7 cents a gallon was revealed by authorities today.

No charges have been preferred and the officers mentioned no names but they said a broker sold the tax-free gasoline to dealers at 5 cents a gallon less than it could be bought otherwise.

Woman Observer Hopeful of Geneva

Katherine Devereux Blake Is Guest of Honor at Reception Here.

Some action toward real reduction in armaments will be taken by Geneva disarmament conference, is the belief of Katherine Devereux Blake, of New York, who was sent to Geneva by the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom.

Miss Blake was guest of honor at a reception in the Carleton Hotel given by the Washington Disarmament Council of the league. With the Tardieu governmnet out of power in France, she said, there is more to hope from the disarmament conference.

The place where the peace work should be done, she said, is in the United States, for, "if public opinion here is sufficiently strong, our delegation will take the lead to bring about some definite action by the conference leading to real reduction in world armaments."

A TERRIBLE ENDING.

Sorrow and outraged feelings are inextricably mixed in every heart over the tragic end of the search for the Lindbergh baby. Public grief for the desolate parents is only equaled by the wrath against the perpetrators of this cowardly crime of kidnaping to which must now be added murder. The sympathy of the entire world goes out to the sorrowing Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh. Their brave and ceaseless efforts to recover their first born, and the hope that they might be crowned with success, have been a vital concern of every nation of the globe. That unprecedented measures were so futile and the end so sorrowful will bring renewed expressions of compassion from everywhere.

Mingled with bitter resentment are feelings of national humiliation that such an outrage was possible in the midst of a civilized community. Society will feel that the least it can do in atonement is to organize without delay to whatever extent and by whatever means may be necessary to rid the Nation of the menace of such crimes.

The first demand will be for the punishment of the criminals who are responsible for the death of the baby. It is of little moment now how this was caused. The perpetrators of the kidnaping are responsible. Constituted authority and all good citizens will join in the desire to track down these fiends and bring them to speedy justice.

This sacrifice, furthermore, must serve to bring about the eradication of criminal elements that have become a standing reproach to security and justice. A terrible price has already been paid for the brigandage of organized crime. The loss of the Lindbergh baby must mark the inauguration of a definite campaign to end the depredations of these marauders.

ECONOMY IN THE SENATE.

New hope of substantial economy arises from the creation of a special committee to deal with this difficult problem in the Senate. This group will have many advantages over the House economy committee, whose program was torn into shreds by an insurgent stampede. It will have the aid of both the President and the House economy leaders. The Senate is not quite so susceptible to political hysteria on the eve of the national campaigns as is the House. Furthermore, the Senate has seen the disastrous results of the House's failure, and is more fully aware of the urgent demand from all parts of the country for real economy.

It is notable that the economy movement has developed just as President Hoover requested. Several weeks ago he asked for a cooperative effort by representatives of the Senate, House and White House. At that time Congress did not take his advice seriously. The House set out to formulate its own economy program. It was soon evident, however, that the House could accomplish nothing by itself. The President was called upon for assistance.

Until now the Senate has remained outside of the economy movement. But the failure of the House makes it imperative that the Senate now take leadership of the drive to eliminate waste and extravagance. The strength of the new movement lies in the fact that the House group and the President are cooperating with the Senate economy committee, just as President Hoover suggested at the beginning.

Another encouraging sign is the strictly bi-partisan nature of the Senate action. Three Republicans and three Democrats compose the committee. Partisan division would result in a complete deadlock. The two parties must agree to secure action.

Coordination of these special economies with the appropriations bills is assured by the postponement of the latter until the economy measures have been acted upon. Heretofore the economy movement has been chaotic because the House was attempting to make special cuts while the Senate was slashing regular appropriation bills. Obviously, the two must be brought into harmony to avoid serious disruption of the Government service.

The success of this new economy drive will depend upon the attitude of the Senate committee. Another attempt to cripple vital agencies of the Government, while preserving wasteful expenditures for the sake of political influence, would mean the collapse of the entire economy movement. The schemes to consolidate the Army and Navy and to make Government workers bear the brunt of economy ought to be laid aside. Real economy can be achieved by eliminating waste, pork-barrel expenditures and unnecessary functions. To impair the essential services which the Government renders would be only another form of waste.

It remains to be seen whether the Senate is equal to this task. Steps already taken have revived confidence to some extent. If senators put their ears to the ground and carry out the widespread demand for reduced expenditures as an aid to recovery, they will rescue Congress from the cloud of disrepute which has been hovering over Capitol Hill ever since the House riddled the economy bill.

COOPERATION ON RELIEF.

Yesterday's developments take much of the sting out of Senator Robinson's plan for a $2,000,000,000 bond issue to relieve unemployment. President Hoover's statement, following a conference with the Democratic leaders, indicates that unemployment relief will not be made a partisan issue, and that no action will be taken until after the budget has been balanced. Efforts are being made to combine, simplify and put into concrete form the various relief proposals, which suggests that Senator Robinson will not insist upon a gigantic bond issue. This puts quite a different face on the relief movement.

Foremost among the points of agreement between the Democratic leader and the President is that the relief proposal will not be used to delay or obstruct essential measures now before Congress. The tax bill, the appropriation measures and the economy bill must be disposed of before the relief program can be considered in the Senate. In the meantime the administration and congressional leaders may work out a non-partisan plan of extending aid through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to cities that are in distress. Whether such a plan could secure the approval of Congress is problematical, but at any rate it would not interfere with the retrenchment program nor the plan to adjourn about June 10.

Senator Robinson has shown good judgment by cooperating with the administration on this project. Emergency relief ought not to be a partisan issue. Rather it should be governed by actual conditions, the status of the Treasury and sound public policy. The consequences of opening the Treasury to States and cities which have the same powers of taxation as has Congress ought seriously to be considered. Neither party can afford to take the responsibility for plunging into unsound financial policies in this critical period.

Ill-advised legislation on this subject might lead to greater disruption of business and industry and, therefore, to more unemployment. Cooperation of the heads of the two parties insures the anxious public that no radical action will be taken. It may be assumed that if President Hoover approves the financing of any relief program with Federal funds, it will be on sound banking principles.

The White House conference seems to have averted the possibility that Congress might be thrown into tumult over a relief program before the budget is balanced, and to have mitigated the threat of a huge bond issue.

MILITANT JAPAN.

Undeterred by the heavy concentration of Russian troops on the Siberian border, Japan is pushing her aggressive campaign against irregular Chinese troops and bandits into the far reaches of Manchuria. This latest move has accentuated the growing suspicion of Soviet authorities and has precipitated an active campaign of preparation and propaganda to arouse the nation to the possibility of trouble.

Russia insists that Japan has already broken the pledge to Soviet officials by military leaders that operations along the Chinese Eastern Railway would not proceed farther than Hailin, which is about 150 miles east of Harbin. Recent encounters have already taken place east of that point, and officials representing Moscow and railway interests in Harbin are expressing "grave concern" over this extension of the expedition against the insurgents.

Rail and wire communications east of Harbin were cut in so many places early in the week that the Japanese expeditionary force seemed to have been surrounded. Reports to this effect were followed by Japanese denials and claims of a decisive victory in which 400 Chinese were killed. However, as the campaign is pushed into the rough and wooded country, the Chinese opposition gains advantages in guerrilla fighting while the Japanese, encountering rivers swollen and roads deep in mud, find more difficulty in the effective use of modern war equipment.

At home in Tokyo the Fascist movement that has been quietly growing for some time has begun an open drive to secure control of the cabinet. This party is closely allied with the army and its success would, of course, mean virtual military control of all departments. The army, waging victorious war in China, and conducting its operations without control of cabinet officials, has not been satisfied with the support it has had from the finance department in the matter of funds, or the foreign office with regard to the establishment of the Pu-Yi government in Manchuria. With the assembling of the Diet at the end of this month the fight for Fascist control will be brought to a head. The attempt will be made to supplant Premier Inukai and his cabinet by a Fascist super-party cabinet, with the probable selection as premier of Baron Kiichiro Hiranuma, privy councillor and former president of the supreme court.

The war enthusiasm has aided in the consolidation of the reactionary groups in Japan and they are strengthened by the acquisition of a number of prominent leaders, just at a time when the government party ranks are divided by dissensions in various matters of policy. The Fascists openly advocate the abolition of parliamentary government, and if the next few weeks see them in control of the cabinet it will mean momentous changes for Japan and even more determined prosecution of military operations in China.

THE MASONIC MEMORIAL.

The weather was unkind, but the dedication of the magnificent George Washington Masonic Memorial at Alexandria yesterday was nevertheless an event of outstanding significance. The temple itself is a beautiful and inspiring creation, a worthy addition to the architectural beauty of the environs of the Capital. The fraternal organization by which it was built has an eminent place in the past and present history of the Republic.

Perhaps the most heartening fact about the service yesterday is that it marks the conclusion of a splendid co-operative effort on the part of men of every class and condition representing every part of the Nation. Like the cathedral builders of the Middle Ages, the modern Masons have toiled and sacrificed together that the noble structure now consecrated might be raised.

It is an axiom that the Federal Government binds men together. Industry and commerce create unity of interest. Likewise the Alexandria Memorial represents the influence of common ideals of faith and fellowship. This great cohesive power existed on this continent before there was either political union or commercial development here. It is the bedrock upon which America stands. A monument growing out of that spirit is a fitting memorial to the immortal Washington.

A SMALLER WHEAT CROP.

Farmers throughout the country are gratified to learn from the Department of Agriculture that the winter wheat crop this year will be substantially smaller than average. The acreage planted to winter wheat is about 20 per cent less than was actually harvested last year, and is considerably below the average over the last five years. Furthermore, the condition of this year's crop is reported as 75 per cent of normal, compared with 90 per cent at the same time in 1931. Present indications are that this year's harvest will be about 44 per cent smaller than last year's bumper crop.

Unless the spring crop is above average this year's production of wheat probably will not exceed the demand. A large carry-over is still on hand, but it is being gradually disposed of. Wheat exports show substantial gains in recent months. Chances of a return to normal conditions for wheat growers appear better than they have since the Farm Board's price-fixing adventure ended in failure.

Farmers can not be given credit, of course, for the adverse weather which has reduced the estimated yield of their wheat fields. But they have shown good judgment in reducing their acreage more nearly in accord with the domestic demand. So long as American wheat growers insist on producing for the export market the domestic price of wheat can not be raised substantially above the world price. But when they produce for the domestic market only the tariff becomes more fully effective.

LOW PRICES COME HIGH

From the Christian Science Monitor.

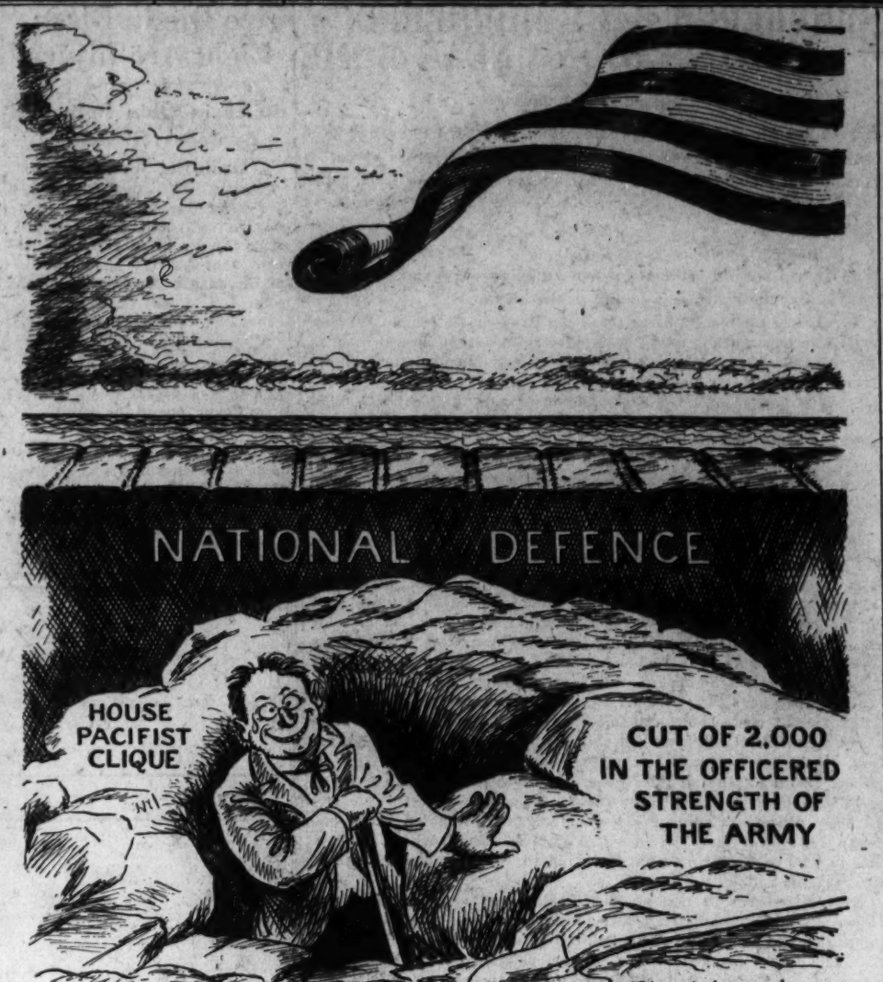
To the American housewife the move to boost prices may seem uncalled for. Today her meat and her vegetables, her clothes and her miscellanea, are cheap, and she may be rejoicing in the fact. But this does not apply to all housewives. Cheapness has been bought with a price. And many family budgets have been adversely affected by economic distress and unemployment caused by declining prices, and especially by disparity of decline.

While certain things are cheap, a long line of manufactured goods are relatively dear. This has interfered with the exchange of goods upon which depends the smooth working of the economic system. Money is merely incidental in this operation, being simply the medium. It is no use producing cheap wheat for the urbanite if the farmer can not obtain with the proceeds a fair return in the desirable goods that the urbanite makes. Such a situation causes plants to close and the urbanite to lose his job, and then he in turn can not buy the products of the farm, no matter how cheap they are. Thus the vicious circle is complete. Exchanges break down between the rural and urban sections of the same community and between the agrarian and industrial countries.

This is exactly what has been happening. On April 23 the price index of the products sold by the farmer, issued by the United States Department of Labor, stood at 49.4 per cent of the 1926 figure. In other words, the farmer gets half of what he used to receive. But city commodities have not shown the same decline.

The other price problem is the inflexibility of such "prices" as rents, taxes and debts. If all prices came down simultaneously, exchanges would not be disturbed; but the problem would still remain that much more production would have to be set aside for the payment of fixed obligations contracted prior to the drop. In this category the farmer places most prominently his mortgage debt. A Middle Western writer in Current History points out that it now takes 1,200 bushels of wheat to pay the interest on a $10,000 mortgage. In 1920 it would have taken only 240 bushels. Think of the extra effort which has been loaded on the farmer's back so fortuitously. And there is $40,000,000,000 of this type of debt outstanding in the United States.

If it is impossible to adjust indebtedness to the new price level, save by a long train of foreclosure and bankruptcy, clearly something must be done to advance the price level. All the efforts of the administration and the Federal Reserve System are now being devoted to this end.



In the Name of Economy!

POST HASTE

In the sixth month of the session Senator Robinson throws in his bond-billions monkey wrench, there being only 104 similar measures before Congress.

Senator Hayden would have Uncle Sam accept a silver lining for his mantle of debt, even if it is less than half size. Hush! What difference does it make that Arizona is one of the Big Four silver producers?

Moronia thinks this talk about the decline in the price of primary commodities means that nominations are cheaper.

The Japanese seem to be seeing red again in Manchuria. They'd better beware that it is not a reflection from the Siberian border.

Senator McKellar shows the economy committee, groping for a mere $300,000,000, how to grasp a machete, shut its eyes, and lop off a billion.

Iceland is preparing to legalize strong drink again, having discovered that "the bootleg trade and home brewing are on the increase." There seems to be no possibility of such increase in this country.

Senator Dill says Americans will not tolerate radio monopoly or too much blatant advertising, and Government operation may be demanded. But that will hardly be a Vice Presidential campaign issue before 1964.

The numerous visitors to the Capital must be assured that the Washington heavens are not weeping for any actions on Masonic Hill.

Stabilization a la Goldsborough would be as practical as trying to get milk from the flivver because it was kept in the cow barn.

Only Democratic jugglery can convince itself that to a billion-dollar balancing act two billions more can be added at one end without disturbing the equilibrium.

Another New York committee for the imposition of relief is on its way to Kentucky to get thrown out of the coal fields.

"The two billion aid plan is sound." And also containeth a bit of fury, as ole Bill Shakespeare would agree.

The Texas Club, located in New York, is trying to disentangle Mr. Traylor, of Kentucky, the Chicago banker, from the Lewis and Garner favorite-son conveyances.

Senator Lewis says the United States should stop making foreign loans. Senator, if you have a stop that is any stopper than present conditions, please spare us.

RETURN.

Time was he used to scoff and sneer
And laugh at simple faith and creeds,
But now when there is much to fear
He finds 'tis simple faith he needs.

When all was well and skies were fair
In arrogance the path he strode;
But now alone he kneels in prayer
And asks for strength to bear the load.

He called old teachings dull and trite
And thought success held peace of mind;
But now when things aren't going right
He seeks the joys he left behind.

Though cruel are the hurt and pain
When once the flood of loss recedes,
Men may at last return again
To simple faith and simple creeds.

To Teach Savages to Be Saints, You Must First Teach Them to Be Men.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

BEFORE the Wright brothers built their first plane, men of understanding said to one another: "If a flying machine should suddenly appear on the earth, nobody would know how to fly it."

Sons of the rich lost their inheritance quickly because they did not grow as it did. It is only by building a fortune that a man develops the strength to hold it.

Freedom may be given to an undeveloped people; a teacher's favorite may be given undeserved promotion; a factory owner's untrained son may be placed in charge of production; but the result in every instance is disastrous; for those who can not win an advantage are not qualified to hold it.

What is true of machines and fortunes and all advantages is equally true of ideas.

The ethical standards of the white man are meaningless and unprofitable to the savage. Only the race that develops an idea has the wit to comprehend and use it.

In process of evolution the race develops exceptional men who are centuries ahead of their times.

The teachings of such men shape the destiny of mankind, but they never are wholly accepted until the race grows up to them.

The teachings of Christ were the basis of modern civilization, but the world accepts them only "in principle." Christianity is a beautiful ideal, but it is practiced nowhere because the race hasn't yet grown up to it.

Jesus taught complete unselfishness. The earliest Christians, accepting His teachings as literal rules of living, established a society of perfect communism. They had all things in common. And the plan failed because men were selfish and greedy. They hadn't grown up to it.

The most ardent supporter of capitalism will agree that perfect communism—which has nothing in common with Russia's "dictatorship of the proletariat"—would be the ideal solution of all earthly problems.

All men purged of selfishness, despising personal gain, and devoid of all ambition except a desire to help one another—each doing his part for the common good and all sharing alike the fruits of their common labor—that would make earth Paradise.

But perfect communism requires perfect men. The race hasn't grown up to it.

We must deal with facts and work with the tools we have. Wishing won't alter reality.

And the able idealist who labors to make a silk purse of a sow's ear is wasting the talent that might work wonders if applied to the prosaic business of raising better pigs.

PRO AND CON

Hoover's Business Sense.

New York Times.

Two things gave point, or sting, to the President's statement. One was his detailed array of the failures of Congress, and of both parties in it, to meet the financial emergency in which this Nation finds itself. A balanced budget is essential. Maintenance of the credit of the Government is indispensable. But both are imperiled by what Congress has thus far done. This is bad enough, but the President added something worse—worse, that is, for hesitant or derelict lawmakers to hear. Is it that they have been disappointing and even outraging the expectations of the country. Where they were looked to for help in restoring confidence they have lessened it; to promote recovery, they have retarded it. The President flatly declared that the actions of Congress "do not reflect the will of the country." He rubbed salt into the wound by adding: "I refuse to believe that the country is unable to reflect its will in legislation."

If this be politics, make the most of it! But it is not. It is hard business sense. It is an honest effort to bring to bear upon Congress that public opinion which it can disregard or defy only at its own peril.

Champion of the Navy.

Senator Hale has made a gallant effort to prevent the Navy from being reduced to the danger point. Opposed by the administration and by the all too powerful pacifist organizations, he has succeeded in commanding support from both the major parties in the Senate.

Thrifty Congressmen.

St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

They may spend other people's money with gay abandon, but in their own affairs they are thrifty folk. They, meaning our senators and representatives in Congress, officially believe in, or practice, that economic dictrine of "all the traffic will bear." Their individual allowances of $5,000 a year for clerk hire are apportioned largely, in some instances entirely, among members of the family. This, with the salary, foots up an annual income of $15,000—a respectable increment at any time, and, in the present circumstances, something of a masterpiece. The word for this is nepotism.

The Tax Leech.

The tax leech seems securely to be fastened upon the body of the Government. Its detachment should be the proper task of Congress, but a very real alarm exists because of the irresponsibility and incapacity of the Nation's lawmakers—especially because of the seeming reckless madness of the House.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Mr. Donnelly Calls for National Courage to War Against Depression.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Where two or three people foregather, the subject of their conversation suggests that we have reached the nadir of disaster. Defeatism is rampant and our people are wallowing in the slough of despond.

True, many are out of employment. Many are objects of charity. Fear and worry have so obsessed us that reason is paralyzed.

Physicians admit that the will to recover is more helpful to a patient than medicine. The imperative need today is the development of an inflexible will to recover on the part of the people. No longer can we permit the cancer of fear to destroy our spirit and morale. We must arouse the individual to new hope and revitalize his spirit.

One hundred and twenty million people can not be beaten if they unselfishly unite and present a bold front in a concerted offensive against depression.

Every instrumentality must be enlisted in the contest which confronts us. Business, finance, labor, press, pulpit, civic organizations, must all unite in a major engagement with the common foe.

We need the courage and sublime faith of the Pilgrim fathers, which sustained them in their battle against savages, famine and disease to get a foothold here. Has our materialism and prosperity made us a soft, spineless, saffron-blooded race, too proud or lazy to fight the challange of the present economic emergency? Are we worthy of the "right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness?"

Let us banish fear. Let us resolve that the fervent American spirit still lives. Let us dedicate ourselves to the work that confronts us.

Our Nation, once aroused with renewed hope and ambition, can prove to the world that the worst is past, that we are now headed for the heights of prosperity and normalcy.

With courage, faith and perseverance, we can show the world "America triumphant."

"Consumer" Asks Why Price of Bread Remains at War-Time Figures.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I would like to ask, through your widely circulated paper, why, in the face of the marked reduction in the price of many groceries and other necessaries, including flour, the price of bread keeps at or near war figures. With flour at or near $4 a barrel, sugar at about 4 cents a pound, and all other ingredients selling very low, why can we not get cheaper bread?

A baker told me the other day that he is working only three days a week, owing to the installation of new automatic baking machinery, and now the companies are trying to cut down his wages 20 per cent. If extra orders for bread come in, new men are not put to work; the machinery is simply speeded up and those on duty have to work the harder with no extra pay. The bakers of Washington paid $10,000 out of their own pockets to help fight the introduction of 5-cent bread so they could hold their jobs, but that did not prevent their employers from cutting the working time in half. Now they are threatened with further cuts in wages as improvements are made in labor-saving machinery.

In these times of unemployment, the price of bread is a very serious matter to many.

What has become of the movement sponsored some time ago by Senator Capper to lower the price of bread? What has Congress done, and what does it propose to do, to help the people in this important matter?

CONSUMER.

Providence Reader Suggests Taxing Overproduction.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The present business depression is obviously traceable, in a large measure, to the increased use of automatic machinery during the past 10 or 15 years, and resultant overproduction. Increasing the productive capacity of the individual worker should lead to a decrease in the working hours, and unless some means is provided for automatically decreasing the hours of labor as the productive capacity of the individual worker increases, workers are thrown out of employment and the whole business structure is dislocated.

I suggest the following plan: Determine, in a given industry as at present constituted, the number of hours per day or week that it is necessary to employ the workers to produce the amount of goods necessary to supply the domestic market; then, assuming the determined number of hours per day to be eight, provide a corporation or other tax if a given corporation, &c., causes its employes to work for nine hours, and provide a higher tax if such corporation causes its employes to work ten hours, the tax being progressively increased for each hour of employment in excess of the determined number.

Maj. Kyle Approves The Post Editorial on Army Officers.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is not often that I can agree with an editorial in The Post, because you are so intensely Republican. However, I must compliment you on your leading editorial of Wednesday.

While I am a banker by profession, I was a National Guard officer in my State for many years. When the war came I went to the border with my company, giving up my lifetime work in order that the high personnel of my outfit might have an opportunity to perfect themselves in the art of war, as I knew that good officers were going to be needed. As a result 92 of my men were commissioned almost at once upon our return. Four of them were killed in France.

Trained men and trained officers can not be made in a day. Peace talk is no good unless backed by trained soldiers. Our peace-loving friends don't seem to know just how to obtain it.

16 MARYLAND VOTES PLEDGED TO RITCHIE

State's Democrats Riotously Acclaim Governor in Formal Candidacy.

Baltimore, May 12 (A.P.).—Maryland formally placed Gov. Albert C. Ritchie before the Nation today as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination when his party, in State convention, pledged to him its sixteen votes in the national convention:

The State delegates, gathered from all parts of Maryland, bound the nominating vote to its four-time governor in riotous, unanimous acclamation, and then rocked the Maryland Theater with cheers as the executive pledged his full efforts to "the assured Democratic victory in November."

Gov. Ritchie's name was placed before the convention by Richard F. Cleveland, son of the late President Grover Cleveland, in a speech in which he called the executive "the leader to guide the Nation out of the morass into which the Republican maladministration has plunged it."

"His nomination," Mr. Cleveland said, "will be followed by his election as President of the United States and in him the country will have an administrator and leader equipped and ready to perform the great task."

Eugene Beer, chairman of the convention, loosed a vitriolic attack on the present administration, assailing "its wastefulness and extravagance which has led it into the greatest deficit it has ever known."

The convention picked 45 delegates to cast the State's votes at the Chicago meeting, to be headed by Gov. Ritchie himself and National Committeeman Howard Bruce, reelected to the committee along with Mrs. Elizabeth R. Menafee, and renominated Senator Millard E. Tydings to succeed himself.

HOOVER STATEMENT ON RELIEF PLANS

are a large number of economically sound and self-supporting projects of a constructive replacement character that would unquestionably be carried forward were it not for the present situation existing in the capital markets and the inadequate functioning of he credit machinery of the country.

No Dearth of Capital.

They exist both in the field of public bodies and of industry. There is no dearth of capital, and, on the other hand, there is a real demand for capital for productive purposes that have been held in abeyance. The problem is to make the existing capital available and to stimulate its use in constructive capital activities. This involves under existing conditions resort to special machinery which is adapted to furnish the necessary element of confidence.

It is proposed to use the instrumentality of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation which has a Nation-wide organization by authorizing the corporation either to underwrite or make loans for income-producing and self-sustaining enterprices which will increase employment whether undertaken by public bodies or by private enterprises.

In order to safeguard the program beyond all question, it is proposed that there must be proper security for the loans, that as said projects must be income-producing, that borrowers must have sufficient confidence to furnish part of the capital and that the project must contribute to early and substantial employment.

It is proposed to provide the necessary funds as they are required by the sale of securities of the Reconstruction Corporation and its total borrowing powers to be increased up to $3,000,000,000. It is not proposed to issue Government bonds. It is hoped that this further process of speeding up the economic machine will not involve any such sum. But in view of the early adjournment of Congress it is desirable to provide an ample margin.

Opposes Public Works Plan.

It is necessary to sharply distinguish between the use of capital for the above purposes and its use for unproductive public works. This proposal represents a flow of funds into productive enterprises, which is not taking place today because of abnormal conditions. These being loans on security and being self-liquidating in character, do not constitute a charge against the taxpayer or the public credit. The issue of bonds for public works, nonproductive of revenue, is a direct charge either upon the taxpayer or upon the public credit, the interest on which and the ultimate redemption of which must be met from taxation.

An examination shows that to increase Federal Government construction work during the next year beyond the amounts already provided for would be to undertake works of largely artificial character far in advance of public return and would represent a wasteful use of capital and public credit.

The President's earlier statement on the compromise relief plan follows:

At a conference this morning, the President and Senator Robinson canvassed the plan of Senator Robinson and the plans of the President to provide for relief and to stimulate enlarged employment.

Methods were considered of combining, simplifying and putting into concrete form the different proposals so as to secure united nonpartisan and immediate action and not to delay completion of the work at this session.

The President expressed his high appreciation of Senator Robinson's action in opening the way for unified action and his confidence that a solution will be found.

It was agreed that the prerequisite of any plan is balancing of the budget.

U. S. Arms Delegation Near Limit of Funds

(Associated Press.)

The American delegation at the Geneva conference, headed by Ambassador Hugh Gibson and consisting of a personnel of 21 persons, will not be able to continue its work after the end of August unless additional funds are provided. Secretary Stimson will face this problem upon his return to the United States the end of this week.

No steps have been taken to get additional funds as yet, as Stimson's opinion is desired as to the status of the negotiations and the prospects as to how long the conference will last.

LEADERS NEAR AGREEMENT ON BIG RELIEF PROGRAM

the sale of securities of the Reconstruction Corporation and its total borrowing powers to be increased up to $3,000,000,000.

"It is hoped that this further process of speeding up the economic machine will not involve any such sum, but in view of the early adjournment of Congress it is desirable to provide an ample margin."

There was every indication of harmony at the White House, although Senator Couzens, of Michigan, who was the first to leave, remarked, "I do my own thinking, that's all."

Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, expressed confidence that the compromise was advancing to a solution.

Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, who has proposed a $2,000,000,000 bond issue, said after a conference with his colleagues that progress was being made and "there is general sympathy" for an understanding on the Federal relief and construction programs. The Democrats will meet again today.

It was assumed the compromise proposal discussed yesterday between President Hoover and Senator Robinson, of Arkansas, the Democratic leader, was the center of the White House discussion.

Secretary Mills of the Treasury, a member of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation board, joined in the conference as did Walter H. Newton, one of the President's secretaries.

None of the Democratic members of the banking committee was present. Absent also were Senators Brookhart, of Iowa, and Blaine, of Wisconsin, Republican members.

The senators present were Norbeck, South Dakota, chairman; Goldsborough, of Maryland; Townsend, of Delaware; Carey, of Wyoming; Walcott, of Connecticut; Watson, of Indiana; Couzens, of Michigan, and Steiwer, of Oregon.

Comes Out of Conference.

The agreement came out of a conference between President Hoover and Senator Robinson, who only Wednesday advanced his bond issue idea in the Senate.

Developments were quick and fast. Before calling in Robinson, the President consulted at breakfast with Senator Watson, of Indiana, the majority chieftain, on the relief problem which it was agreed must be met by the Government in some manner before adjournment is taken.

After the Robinson parley, the President summoned officers of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, headed by Charles G. Dawes, Secretary Mills of the Treasury, and Gov. Eugene Meyer of the Federal Reserve Board.

Watson and Robinson returned to the Capitol to consult their colleagues. Robinson drafted the legislation before calling in members of the party steering committee for a study of the problem last night.

Pending further development of the gigantic scheme, all were wary of predicting or commenting, but there was a distinct undertone of confidence in the Senate over the future of the project.

The program contemplates loans to States up to a total of $300,000,000, the money to be used exclusively for relief purposes. The remainder of the new emergency fund would be employed to make secured loans to assist private and public construction.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation, with a capital of $500,000,000 appropriated by Congress, has the power now to issue debentures up to $1,500,000,000. This borrowing capacity would be doubled.

There have been increasing signs of late that the President and his advisers were seriously considering the whole national relief situation.

Mr. Hoover has always stood firm against direct Federal appropriations for the unemployed. His special employment committee has maintained that the States and cities can and should meet the situation.

Consideration Allowed For.

But with Congress about to adjourn for the summer, it was believed best by some high in the administration that there should be an authorization for emergency help if it is found necessary.

Senator Watson, without discussing the details of the relief program, told the Senate during the day that "ample opportunity" for consideration of the relief problem would be available before June 10, the date of adjournment which leaders of all parties have agreed upon as the goal for quitting.

He made this assurance in reply to Senator Wheeler (Democrat), Montana, who asked if unemployment and farm relief would be included in the scope of legislation to get preferred status in the closing drive. He made no prediction about farm relief. No farm measures are pending.

Robinson Outlines Plan.

Senator Robinson went over the compromise relief program and the whole subject of relief with members of the Democratic steering and policy committee last night but no conclusions were reached.

"We discussed relief and construction," said Robinson after the meeting, "and will resume our discussions tomorrow. No conclusions were reached. There was general sympathy with the proposal but the details will have to be developed. I am very hopeful of something coming out of the discussions and of enactment of legislation."

The Democrats will meet again this morning. It is evident that further compromises on the relief program probably will be necessary.

SECOND AD RELIEF

Plan for Making Loans.

Under the compromise plan, loans would be made only on projects capable of repaying the funds expended. The President believes public works in general have been expanded to the limit of their reproductive value.

Senate leaders have been informed of proposals to introduce a new measure providing for the expenditure of $5,000,000,000 on all kinds of public works. The President was revealed as opposed to this and Robinson also is expected to be against it.

The Chief Executive has had under consideration with leaders of the Reconstruction Corporation for more than two weeks a plan for expanding its borrowing power. Dawes, Mills and Meyer have seen the President frequently during this period.

Would Use Present Corporation.

Mr. Hoover strongly favors using the Reconstruction Corporation for disbursing new funds for relief and construction, rather than creating a new organization.

Various administration organizations have completed and submitted to Government leaders reports tending to show that no huge amount of money will be required by the States for relief purposes. The suggestion brought forward yesterday of placing Reconstruction Corporation loans to States for relief purposes at $300,000,000 it was said, was done to insure public confidence in fulfilling relief necessities.

In another quarter it was learned simultaneously that administration leaders on Capitol Hill will make a fresh effort to push the President's plan for a home loan discount bank system in conjunction with the present plan. Enactment of the home loan plan would complete the President's reconstruction program.

CHILDREN TO STAGE 'FESTIVAL OF YOUTH'

Thousands of Pupils to Join in Bicentennial Fete Here Tomorrow Afternoon.

Thousands of children, representing schools and playgrounds throughout the city, will participate in the "Festival of Youth," a feature of the George Washington Bicentennial Celebration, to be held tomorrow afternoon at the Monument Grounds in Potomac Park.

Athletic events, games and music by various bands and organizations, dances and contests will all be included in the program. The Sylvan Theater will be the center of activities.

Under the direction of the Community Center Department, a program of dancing and music will be offered for the hundreds of visitors expected to attend the exercises. The day's activities will be continuous from 1 to 4 p. m.

At the Lincoln Memorial reflecting pool, boys and girls who desire to enter the model yacht regatta will find varied events under the auspices of the Model Yacht Club. Exhibits of model aircraft maneuvers will be held by the Boys Club of Washington.

The Boy Scouts of America will also take part in the exercises. The successive stages in advancement among Boy Scout ranks will be demonstrated by various District troops.

The Langley Junior High School Band will open the program at the Sylvan Theater. Dances by boys and girls from the Thomson Community Center will follow, and an old-fashion Virginia reel will be presented by the Friendship House groups.

The Harmonica Band, of Hyattsville, Md., will be given a prominent place on the program. Dancers from the Southeast Community Center, the Langley Community Center, the Georgetown Community Center, the Macfarland Community Center and many others will also present programs of entertainment.

The activities will conclude with a mammoth procession honoring the name of George Washington. Headed by high school and independent bands, the line of march will form at Fifteenth and E streets northwest and proceed to the Monument, where the oath of allegiance to the flag will be given and the entire gathering will join in the national anthem.

Prominent officials of the Government will review the procession.

"Garner for President" Office Opens in Chicago

Chicago, May 12 (A.P.).—Headquarters for the Democratic presidential campaign for Speaker John N Garner, of Texas, were opened in the Congress Hotel today by Silliman Evans, of Fort Worth, Tex.

Representative Samuel Rayburn, of Texas, head of a "Garner for President" committee, will arrive here before June 11 to take charge of the headquarters, Evans said.

Phi Gamma Delta Will Give Banquet at University Club.

As a testimonial to George F. Snyder, prominent Washington lawyer who has served for more than ten years as international secretary of Phi Gamma Delta, the District of Columbia graduate chapter of the fraternity will give a dinner at the University Club this evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. Snyder is a former president of the local University Club and is a trustee of the University of Pennsylvania. His term of office as secretary of the fraternity will expire next month and he is not eligible for reelection.

Herbert Wilson Smith will serve as toastmaster and the principal address will be made by Horace I. Brightman, of New York City, president of Phi Gamm Delta.

TWO RENOMINATED IN WEST VIRGINIA

Representatives Shott and Hornor Overcome Contests for Seats.

Charleston, W. Va., May 12 (A.P.). Representatives Lynn S. Hornor, Democrat of the Third District, and Hugh Ike Shott, of the Fifth, were virtually assured of renomination today on the basis of returns from two-thirds of the districts in the West Virginia primary election.

The other four West Virginia representatives in Congress—Carl G. Bachman, Frank L. Bowman and Robert L. Hogg, Republicans, and Joe L. Smith, Democrat—were renominated without opposition.

James S. Lakin won the Republican nomination in the Sixth District and John S. Wolverton was nominated by the Republicans in the third. Democratic contests in the first, second, fourth and fifth districts are undecided.

Kump Gubernatorial Leader.

Judge H. G. Kump, of Elkins, retained a lead of approximately 10,000 votes for the Democratic nomination for governor, with less than 400 districts still to report. Tax Commissioner T. C. Townsend increased his lead to more than 60,000 votes for the Republican nomination. Kump, who pledged himself to a program of governmental economy and equalization of the tax burden on home and farm owners, had 54,330 votes in returns from 1,945 of the State's 2,342 precincts. His nearest opponent, J. Alfred Taylor, had 45,649.

Townsend campaigned for revision of what he called the "broken-down" tax system. Returns from 1,913 districts gave him 120,996 votes and Mont Z. White, president of the State Senate, 59,622.

Herbert Ahead in Ohio.

Columbus, Ohio, May 12 (A.P.).—Col. Thomas J. Herbert, of Cleveland, held a lead of 41 votes over L. T. Palmer, of Middletown, on complete unofficial returns for one of the two Republican nominations as representative at large from Ohio.

The complete unofficial vote from the 8,701 precincts gave Herbert, 125,501; Parker, 125,460.

George H. Bender, of Cleveland, won the other nomination by leading the ticket with 152,079.

Summer is Coming . . .
Is your skin ready?

If your skin is like most women's, it is threatened at this season with three unhappy conditions: dryness, droopiness, and lack of color.

The reason?

Well, more than likely, too much heated indoor air, rich Winter foods, and the general weariness that comes as Winter merges into Spring.

The treatment?

Delightful. Lots of cream: Cream for cleansing, since that is the only way your skin can be made immaculate and soft at the same time . . . cream for soothing and nourishing to bring back the fresh, moist look of health and youth. And exercise . . . to bring the color flying again to the cheeks. Pat the skin briskly with Skin Tonic or Special Astringent, using the ingenious little patter which Miss Arden has designed to stimulate circulation in a scientific manner.

Have a silken skin for summer . . . and then keep it that way, simple daily care. Miss Arden tells you how in her book "The Quest of the Beautiful." Ask for a copy at the Toilet Goods Counter.

SOCIETY

Mrs. Hoover to Attend Iowa State Society Reception; First Lady Present at Masonic Memorial Rites.

MRS. HERBERT HOOVER will be the guest of honor at the evening reception of the Iowa State Society on May 18 at the Willard. Mrs. Hoover was born at Waterloo, Ia., and has long been interested in the activities of the society of her former State.

Those on the committee arranging for this final reception of the Iowa Society for the season are Col. Henry Spencer Merrick, president; Mr. Leo Paulger, vice president; Mrs. G. L. Bowman, Mr. E. F. McMahon, Miss Sarah Kemmerer, Miss Maud Phillips, Miss Gertrude Louis and Dr. H. M. Dudley. Many prominent women who were residents of Iowa plan to attend this reception.

Mrs. Hoover accompanied the President to Alexandria yesterday for the dedication ceremonies of the Masonic Memorial to George Washington, which was formally dedicated by upward of 100,000 Masons from all parts of the country.

Mrs. Hoover was present for a short time at the luncheon of the District of Columbia Federation of Music Clubs given at the Mayflower yesterday in honor of the national officers of the Federated Music Clubs of the country. Several hundred members of the federation were present. The officers of the National Federation are Mrs. Elmer James Ottoway, of Port Huron, Mich., president; Mrs J. A. Jarding, of North Dakota, first vice president; Mrs. T. C. Donovan, of Pittsburgh, Pa., treasurer; Mrs. Henry Schurmann, of Indianapolis, Ind., recording secretary; Mrs. Abbie L. Snoddy, of Mexico, Mo., editor; Mrs. Edgar Stillman Kelley, chairman of legislation; Mrs. Grace Godard, chairman of the junior division; Mme. Olga Samaroff, Mrs. Ernest Hutcheson, Mrs. Emily Roosevelt Cook, of Stamford, Conn.; Mrs. H. W. Bayly and Mrs. Joseph C. Byron, Hagerstown, Md.

The French Ambassador and Mme. Claudel with their family will attend the high mass to be celebrated today at noon in St. Matthew's Church in memory of the late President of the French Republic. The public will be admitted, but the two main aisles will be reserved for official guests.

The British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay have issued invitations for a garden party on June 3, at the embassy, in celebration of the birthday anniversary of King Geoge V.

This party will be a departure from the usual celebration at the embassy, which in former years has been a men's dinner given by the ambassador.

Miss Doherty to Be Guest Of Senora de Puig Casaurane.

The Mexican Ambassador and Senora de Puig Casaurane will leave early next month to spend the summer in Mexico City. They will have as their guest in July, Miss Helen Lee Eames Doherty, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry L. Doherty, of New York. Miss Doherty is a close friend of Senorita Maria Reyes Spnidola, sister of Senora de Puig, who has been visiting her in New York. Miss Doherty has been in Washington for several days stopping at the Shoreham where she has as her guests for the week-end Mr. and Mrs. Fenton Turck, of New York.

Miss Doherty will be one of the bridesmaids in the wedding party of Miss Lillian Emerson, daughter of Mrs. Franklin Silas Terry, and Mr. William Weight Harts, jr., of New York, which will take place on June 28 in St. Bartholomew's Church in New York.

Senator Arthur Capper, Representative Mary T. Norton, Mrs. John Allen Daugherty, Mr. Walter F. Tidswell, president of the National League of Masonic Clubs, and many others prominent in official and social Washington attended the reception given in honor of the members of the National League of Masonic Clubs at the Willard last evening. The Circle Club of Master Masons, who acted as official hosts to the hundreds of Masons who came here from all sections of the country to attend the ceremnies in connection with the official Masonic week of the Bicentennial, planned the affair.

An elaborate program of entertainment was given. One of New York's best known orchestras furnished music for the dance which followed the reception.

Senator and Mrs. Joseph T. Robinson shared honors with Representative and Mrs. Claude A. Fuller at dinner last evening, given by Mr. and Mrs. August King-Smith preceding the recital of Miss Ruth Fuller, daughter of Representative and Mrs. Fuller, in the King-Smith Studios. Miss Fuller gave a varied program, playing piano solos as well as singing.

Representative and Mrs. Richard Wigglesworth are spending a short time in Hot Springs, Va., where they have been joined at the Homestead by the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Percy N. Booth, of Louisville, Ky.

Representative Guy U. Hardy And Wife Hosts at Dinner.

Representative and Mrs. Guy U. Hardy had as dinner guests Wednesday night in their home Representative Ernest W. Gibson, Representative Frederick C. Loofbourow, Col. and Mrs. Louis H. Tripp, Mr. and Mrs. George Sanford Holmes, Miss Gibson, Miss Loofbourow, Miss Marion Hardy and Mr. Earl D. Chesney.

The Charge d'Affaires of the Persian Legation and Mme. Azodi entertained last evening at a buffet supper for the retiring First Secretary of the Egyptian Legation and Mme. Ismail Bey. The party was most informal and included a group of friends of the Azodis and the Ismail Beys.

The Surgeon General of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Edward Riggs have moved from their home at 1802 R street to 3100 Thirty-first street, where they will be for the early summer months.

The director general of the Pan-American Union, Dr. Leo S. Rowe, will go to Annapolis today to make an an address before the cadets of the Naval Academy.

Mrs. Hoover to Attend Wooster College Fete.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson Compton left Washington last night for Wooster, Ohio, to take active part in the Color Day festivities of Wooster College on Saturday and to witness the pageant depicting 125 years of the growth of the city, of which Mrs. Hoover's great-great-grandfather, William Henry was one of the three founders and incorporators. Mrs. Compton, as the only woman among the trustees of Wooster College, her's and Mr. Compton's alma mater, has had much to do with the arrangements for entertaining Mrs. Hoover. The college will bestow upon the First Lady the degree of Doctor of Humanities and she will be the guest of the city for the pageant. She will be the honor guest at the luncheon of the faculty and trustees of the college which will follow the conferring of the degree.

Mrs. William Fitch Kelley closed her city home here yesterday and went to Aurora, Ill., to visit her son, Mr. McClure Kelley, and family. She will then go to Mount Pleasant, Iowa, to visit her sister, Miss Martha McClure, Republican national committee woman from Iowa. Mrs. Kelley will return to her country home on the Rockville pike after the convention.

THOUSANDS WITNESS FUNERAL OF DOUMER

Murdered French President Is Buried Beside 4 Sons Lost in War.

Paris, May 12 (U.P.).—The great bells of Notre Dame tolled slowly and the melancholy beat of muffled drums sounded in the streets of Paris today as France buried Paul Doumer, thirteenth president of the republic.

Eight black horses drew the hearse while 1,500,000 persons stood in final tribute to the assassinated executive. A king, princes of the blood, famous statesmen and diplomats followed the hearse from Elysee Palace to the cathedral.

Overhead, the somber skies reflected the funereal atmosphere of the capital, to which thousands had come from all parts of France for the service.

10,000 in March.

About 10,000 persons participated in the funeral march. It stretched from the presidential palace to Notre Dame, and was comparable only to the great demonstration of sympathy and admiration when Marshal Foch was buried.

Behind the hearse were six funeral cars, loaded with wreaths sent by dignitaries, including President Hoover, and drawn by coal black horses.

Thousands of troops in dress uniform marched behind the cars to the slow beat of drums and the sound of muted fifes.

Behind the soldiers came robed barristers, and members of the academies and then Premier Andre Tardieu and President Albert Lebrun, marching with members of the Doumer family. And with them were the representatives of twoscore governments. The Prince of Wales, Albert, King of the Belgians; the Duke of Aosta, Prince Paul of Serbia, American Ambassador Walter E. Edge and many others.

Veterans Join Procession.

Troops with fixed bayonets stood shoulder to shoulder along the two-mile route, where detectives were scattered thickly through the crowd to prevent any disturbance.

Aged men and women knelt as the procession approached, passed by and moved slowly on the Notre Dame. Along the route many war veterans joined the procession in tribute to the man who gave four sons to France during the war and then, at the peak of a long career, sacrificed his own life because a crazed Russian saw him as the symbol of the nation he wished to drag into a war with Soviet Russia.

Fifty thousand persons knelt before the cathedral, where gas lamps and black crepe drapings created a ghastly atmosphere even in daylight. About 2,000 crowded into the cathedral, where Cardinal Verdier officiated at high mass while the coffin rested on a catafalque under a high black crown suspended in the central nave.

Temporarily in Pantheon.

Cavalry and artillery units with the famous "75" guns lined up before the cathedral during the mass, and later participated in the procession when the body was removed to the Pantheon and placed on a catafalque, with four smoking urns at the corners and the historic battle flags of France in the background.

Premier Tardieu stood beside the catafalque to deliver the funeral oration, in which he denounced the assassination as "an odious absurd crime aimed against arbitration and conciliation, against a man of peace."

Temporarily Doumer rested at the Pantheon—beside the ashes of Victor Hugo, Voltaire, Zola—but later the coffin was removed to Vaugirard Cemetery at the request of the widow. There at a simple ceremony which was not announced because of the family's desire for privacy, the murdered president was buried beside two of the four sons who fell on the battlefield.

Typhoon's Toll 136, Roosevelt Reports

Manila, May 12 (A.P.).—Gov. Gen. Theodore Roosevelt, who arrived today at Jolo Island, Southern Philippines, reported 136 persons were killed in the typhoon of April 30, and 920 houses were destroyed. The monetary damage was $2,500,000.

The food problem and general relief measures were being adequately handled by the Red Cross under Charles Forster, the governor said.

Jewelry Robbery Nets $24,500.

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—The store of Moe Hammerschlag, Inc., refiners, which for 30 years has been at its present address, 174 Park Row, was robbed today by four men who escaped with $20,000 in gold bullion and scrap gold, platinum and silver, $4,000 in cash and two bags of loose diamonds valued at $500.

Siam Off Gold Standard; Now Let World Tremble

By JOHN J. DALY

TUCKED away on an inside page of a newspaper, in a remote corner, buried under an ad., of all places, was this momentous news from Bangkok:

"Siam has abandoned the gold stapdard, adopting voluntary deflation to compete with other rice exporting countries. The rate of the raht, or tical, unit currency, was fixed at 11 per pound sterling."

Simply that and nothing more. No screeching headlines, not even on the front page. Yet, this is something that intrigues the imagination. Siam going off the gold standard must mean that the Siamese—who have not exploited a set of twins since John Barrett was director of the Pan-American Union—have ceased to hunt the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. Or, if they have hunted, they could not find it.

At any rate, the Siamese are not looking for gold any more—gold, and all that it means.

In this respect, Siam is like the rest of the world. The Siamese have come down to hard, cold facts.

Gold means romance, adventure, dreams—even of avarice; lovely ladies spangled with the precious metal, gold-headed canes, emblems of the gentry, gold gauntlets, gold caparisons and trappings for the steeds of the knights courageous. That, now, is all story-book stuff since Siam is off the gold standard.

* * * *

IT was a wise editor who buried this story from Siam. Too much should not be made of it, nor should it be brought to the attention of other nations. They might go and do likewise, following the example of Great Britain that led the way for Siam. Then, what would become of all the gold bullion? What would become of the gold mines? What would become of the gold miners, mining in the major fields of gold the world over? What? The world would probably have to do on a diamond diet.

With Siam off the gold standard anything can happen. Soon, Senator Borah may stand up on the floor of the Senate and call attention to this, citing figures furnished by W. J. Dwyer, the greatest enemy gold ever had, the man who worked with that other William, Jennings Bryan, on the 16-to-1 silver basis, and who is still at it, the man who was writing letters to the newspapers when Dana edited the New York Sun.

By this time, these gold advocates ought to be shaking in their boots, seeing what is taking place around the world. If other nations follow Siam, gold will be cheap as sand on the shore. Who wants gold, anyway, now that Siam has proved its inconsequences? Nobody! Time, yes; gold, never!

* * * *

THEY are pulling down the gold standard; ruthless hands laid on that old rag that has been through many a fight since Juno—you know, Juno—in whose temple, in a grove on the Esquiline, money was coined which started a run of gold from the mines. She was the goddess of womankind, was Juno, and women wanted gold. They got it, too; but these many years after we find that Juno—whose surname was Moneta—chose the wrong standard, and here is Siam to prove it.

In that quaint little country, Siam,
Like in verses of Omar Khayyam,
The minters are told
To lay off gold.
If I'm wrong, I am sorry I am.

EPISCOPAL DIOCESE OFFICERS SELECTED

H. L. Rust Is Reelected as Treasurer at Annual Convention.

The Washington Diocese of the Episcopal Church reelected H. L. Rust as treasurer yesterday at its annual convention at St. Mark's Church, Third and A streets southeast.

Other officers elected by the delegates are: Standing committee, the Rev. G. F. Dudley, the Rev. Joseph Fletcher, the Rev. F. J. Bohanan and the Rev. H. S. Smith, for the clerical, and the laymen elected are H. T. Nelson, Melville Church, and W. S. Bowen. Deputies to the Provincial Synod are the Rev. G. F. Peter, the Rev. H. A. Griffith, the Rev. George Atkinson and the Rev. D. W. Curran, for the clerical, and S. E. Kramer, H. T. Nelson, A. C. Houghton and James Malcolm for the laymen.

Those elected to the executive council are the Rev. Z. B. Phillips, the Rev. W. R. Moody, the Rev. F. J. Bohanan, the Rev. C. E. Buck, the Rev. Robert Johnston and the Rev. H. A. Woolfall for the clerical, and for the laymen, H. P. Blair, W. S. Bowen, S. E. Kramer, H. T. Nelson, B. S. Adams and Busey Howard.

Progress on the tentative program to raise $1,000,000 to be used to pay a part of the church debts and to insure the clergymen of the denomination in the diocese at least $2,400 if married and $2,200 if not married was reported by Canon Anson Phelps Stokes.

No date has been set for the start of the movement, but Canon Stokes predicted success when actually undertaken. According to him, numerous other cities have raised that amount or more for religious and educational purposes.

Canon Stokes suggested that each church member should increase their donations at least $10 more a year, and this contribution with anticipated special gifts of large sums would probably more than subscribe the $1,000,000 fund within four years.

He aslo suggested that each person that signs a pledge for the increased donation should agree not to reduce customary parish donations. The fact that none of the money collected in the proposed drive would be used to wipe out the deficit of the Washington Cathedral was stressed by Canon Stokes. No action was taken at this convention on the proposal.

New York Boy Sought Here.

Police of Mineola, N. Y., have asked local police to search for Jerome Meline, 15 years old, who has been missing from his home, and is believed to be in Washington. The boy is described at 5 feet 3 inches in height, weighting 115 pounds, and has brown hair and brown eyes.

Horse Show Events Set For Today After Delays

Scheduled events on the program of the National Capital Horse Show were postponed again yesterday because of the rain. Weather permitting, the first events of the show, originally scheduled to open Wednesday, will be held this morning beginning at 9 o'clock at Bradley Farms opposite the Congressional Country Club.

Boxholders include the President and Mrs. Hoover, and the patrons' list includes practically the entire Cabinet and other prominent public officials.

METHODISTS DROP 7 EPISCOPATE REGIONS

Bishops Weep as Economy Ends Domestic and Foreign Areas.

Atlantic City, N. J., May 12 (A.P.).—Seven Episcopal areas were eliminated today by the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church to effect economies calculated to save the church $400,000 in the quadrennium.

Disappointment was apparent among the bishops as they listened to the debate and it became evident the economy movement was sufficiently powerful to force adoption of the program. Tears streamed down the cheeks of many of the bishops as they met in little groups to ponder the future of those of their number whose Episcopal regions had been wiped out.

The ruling put an end to the Episcopal existence of three domestic areas, Buffalo, Indianapolis and Helena, Mont., and to the foreign episcopates of Paris, Korea, Peiping and Calcutta. It was adopted as the conference admittedly acknowledged an insistent demand from the church that ecclesiastical overhead be reduced sharply to meet current financial conditions.

The debate occupied most of the day's session.

The delegations of Buffalo and Indianapolis, representing two of the largest Episcopal areas in the church, branded the abolition of the areas as "cruel economy." Their arguments brought the answer from the economy bloc that retrenchment absolutely was necessary. They pointed to a deficit in the Episcopal fund of $275,000 and asserted that debt must be met.

During the debate, in which phases of Episcopal supervision were under fire, Dr. James E. Skillington, of Altoona, Pa., asserted that since 1920 the bishops of the church had lost much of the esteem in which they formerly were held. He said the area eliminations would do much to restore to the bishops the esteem they once enjoyed.

OXFORD GROUP HERE FOR FAITH MEETINGS

Dr. Freeman Will Welcome Members; Purpose of Movement Outlined.

The Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Bishop of Washington, will deliver the address of welcome to members of the Oxford Group Movement, who will convene at the Shoreham Hotel tonight for the first of week's series of fellowship meetings.

A reception will be held for visiting members. Persons prominent in official, diplomatic, civic and religious circles will attend.

The Oxford Group Movement, as it is known in England, or "A First Century Christian Fellowship," as it is known in the United States, will endeavor to "recapture the spirit and power and joy of the early church," according to Dr. Frank N. D. Buchman, founder, who will lead the group on arrival here.

Answer to World Problems.

The movement is "the answer to all the world's problems in the time of crisis," Dr. Buchman said.

In answer to critics who have called the movement a new cult or creed, and a form of "highbrow" evangelism, Dr. Samuel Shellabarger, former Princeton professor, who is in charge of the meetings, said that it is in no sense a cult.

With most denominations today officially recognizing the need of a revitalizing evangelism within the church, the meetings of the Oxford Group are expected to have a significant appeal to churchgoers regardless of creed. The strength of the movement, it was said, lies mainly in its interdenominational interests.

Prominent Members of Group.

Dr. Buchman will be accompanied by nineteen prominent foreign members of the group upon his arrival. Among the prominent nonresident members of the movement who are expected to attend the meetings are Harvey S. Firestone, Akron, Ohio; Mr and Mrs. Russell A. Firestone, also of Akron; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Vrooman, Bloomington, Ill., and the Rev. and Mrs. Samuel M. Shoemaker, jr., of New York.

From Washington the Oxford Group is scheduled to go to Asheville, N. C., Detroit, Montreal and Boston, where similar fellowship campaigns will be conducted.

How to Be Beautiful

By ELSIE PIERCE

Hairdressing Hints That Affect the Shape of the Face.

SAGGING muscles, double chin and similar signs of age are not the only contour questions of the modern woman. The actual shape of the face is a matter of deep concern to her and she has become so "contour conscious" that she is constantly on the lookout for flattering fashions, hairdressing hints and make-up modes that will help her to achieve the perfect oval. For the true oval has long been considered the beauty ideal.

Elsie Pierce.

Every day brings hundreds of queries—"My face is long, how can I make it wider, without changing my figure," or vice versa, "my face is wide, but I am not overweight, how can I reduce just my face?"

Bone Structure of Face Can Not Be Changed.

The bone structure of the face can not be changed. Nature put it there and there's nothing to be done about it. The muscle, fat and flesh covering is made rounder as the general weight of the entire body is increased, and thinner as avoirdupois is shed.

But there are dozens of subtleties that affect the shape of the face. Yesterday, we discussed brows. Make-up can be applied to lend apparent width or length to the face. Necklaces and necklines that fit the face should be chosen.

A clever coiffure can affect the shape of the face. And more, it can help to soften prominent features and make irregularities less noticeable.

Center Part.

Take the center part for instance. It definitely tends to make the face seem wider and fuller. Therefore, it is splended for the long and thin face. However, the center part emphasizes contours and is therefore trying unless the features are quite regular and perfect. The woman with thin face and irregular features often finds a part slightly to one side of the center best.

Hair parted at the side, particularly if the part is quite high adds apparent length to the face. A low part emphasizes width at the top of the head.

The new bangs covering the forehead add a look of width to the face while hair combed back, revealing the forehead tends to make the face seem longer and narrower. Hair combed off the forehead and piled high on the head not only adds greater length but also reveals contours thus emphasizing feature irregularities. This style is, however, recommended for the short face with regular features. Hair worn low on the forehead emphasizes the size and brilliance of the eyes.

Expose the ears and the face looks wider. But here again regular features are necessary as this arrangement is severe and reveals feature imperfections. Hair covering the ears and part of the neck has a widening influence on face and neck. If only the tips of the ears are exposed neck and face seem more slender.

Experiment with various hair arrangements, vary your style of hairdress, but be sure that the frame for your face fits.

All this information and more about hair arrangements as related to features, profile, &c., is included in a new bulletin called "Concentrating on the Coiffure." A self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request will bring this to you.

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Black marocain makes a dress with white crepe collar and tie and little bolero effect, and the coat that matches shows the same collar worn as a scarf-neck finishing. (Courtesy of Bernard et Cie, Paris.)

NEW YORK, May 12.—Oh-h-h-h the bugaboos will gecher if yer don' wachout!

Today, the most awful of days, Friday, the thirteenth!

The bugaboos of "I can't afford it" and "I havent time" and "I don't give a fap for style," and, oh, others too numerous too mention. And once any one of these gets you—good-by to loveliness, to poise, to beauty, elegance—and to love!

Oh, you may not believe it, or don't want to believe it—but deep down in your heart you know that these are just excuses for laziness. If they weren't, how would women who have less time, or less money, or less of a lot of things than you have, achieve the elegance and inevitable poise of elegance that every man admires and every woman envies?

Tell you what—this being the mos' awful of awful days, why not go and set yourself in your da-r-r-r-rk closet right this minute and think it over?

* * * *

'N' when you emerge, the first step in the right direction will be to dash to your desk and address an envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post and one for yourself—and send them quickly. Because the negligee that this week's leaflet tells you—oh, so carefully—how to make, will start you on the right path toward chic and loveliness and love. You can afford it. You can make it. You do have to shop for the materials to make it, and, most of all, time to wear it—oh, hundreds of times that you can't even remember! 'Nif you send for this negligee design today, the bugaboos will just all up and fli-i-i-e-e out of the window. Promise!

* * * *

Lingerie collars and cuffs on coats are delightful and somehow an appropriate finishing for a summer coat.

Bernard et Cie., of Paris, has another idea along these lines—a white marocain collar that ends in a tie on the dress, and the same collar and tie to show on the coat which goes with the dress! The dress and coat I have sketched for you today, and they are both of crepe marocain. The cuffs of the dress are not white, however, even though they do show under the wider cuffs of the coat. And the whole ensemble is one of those chic and delightful little things that one sees a millyun uses for at a glance.

* * * *

'Member during the war how every dance frock had a swirl of tulle, called "maline," around the shoulders? Then when the few-cent stores started selling this for so few cents that all the world and her sister had a wisp of "maline" around her shoulders, this flattering whimsy fell into disfavor. Today it is shyly looking up to see how it will be received and calls itself tulle, and is a few cents.

Rather than a careless drape, it appears in ruffles, capelets, various cuts and sewn to the dress places. The most popular is a sash and bow of varying dimensions, usually in a decidedly contrasting color to the frock, as pink on a black dress, or black on a pale blue.

"Tulle" is tulle in French, but means really net. So tulle trimming of a Paris frock might be any degree of coarseness and stiffness or fine fragility. The finer ones are stiffened with something to give them body, which accounts for the impossibility of reviving them once crushed or wilted. One has but to retulle, as it were, at a few dollars a yard and a few thousand yards to a costume, and there you are!

Au revoir.

MENUS FOR WEEK-END ARE MOST INTERESTING.

OOOH—another Friday, the 13th—but our fingers are crossed, and it's never our policy to walk under ladders just by way of general precautions against falling paint buckets, &c., so we expect to clear the day without mishap and wish the same for you all, especially to you, Mrs. A. J. O., to whom we now pass along the fried oyster recipe, late though it be, with the admonition to use the largest oysters obtainable, not to bread them too heavily, or have the fat too hot, when frying them.

Fried Oysters.

(For Mrs. A. J. O.)

24 large oysters
1 teaspoonful salt
Cracker crumbs
Flour.
Egg
Dash of pepper.

Wash oysters and dry. Season with salt and pepper. Dip in flour, beaten egg and then in cracker crumbs. Fry until brown in deep fat, hot enough to brown a piece of bread in 40 seconds (375 degrees Fahrenheit). Drain on brown paper.

SUNDAY'S DINNER.

Tomato Juice Cocktail
Scallions Radishes
Pot Roast of Beef
New Potatoes with Parsley Butter Sauce
Spanish Lima Beans
Jellied Carrot Salad
Strawberry Meringue
Coffee

SATURDAY'S SUPPER.

Green Peppers Stuffed with Salmon
Potato Rosettes
Grilled Tomatoes
Shredded Lettuce Salad
Rhubarb Shortcake
Coffee

Green Peppers Stuffed With Salmon.

6 peppers, parboiled.
1 small can salmon.
1 cupful diced cooked potato.
2 tablespoonfuls flour.
2 tablespoonfuls butter.
1 cupful milk.
½ teaspoonful salt.
Dash of pepper.
1 teaspoonful scraped onion.
Drop of Worcestershire sauce.

Remove all bones and flake the salmon. Heat the butter in a saucepan until it bubbles, add the flour, onion and seasonings and stir to a smooth paste. Gradually add the milk, stirring all the time until smooth and boiling. Combine with the salmon and finely diced potato. Cut off tops of the peppers and remove the seeds and fiber. Drop into boiling water and let stand for ten or twelve minutes. Drain and fill with the fish mixture. Cover with grated cheese and bake in a hot oven (400 degrees Fahrenheit) until brown.

Rhubarb Shortcake.

2 cupfuls flour.
5 tablespoonfuls shortening.
2 tablespoonfuls sugar.
4½ teaspoonfuls baking powder.
About ¾ cupful milk.
1 teaspoonful salt.
2 cupfuls stewed, sweetened rhubarb.

Sift the flour, sugar, baking powder and salt together. Blend the shortening with the dry ingredients. Add the milk to make a soft dough. Form into individual biscuits about one inch thick and bake in a quick oven from ten to twelve minutes. If desired, these may be baked in greased muffin pans. Split and butter while hot and pour the already prepared rhubarb between the layers and over the top. Serve immediately.

Culbertson on Bridge

APPLYING THE BRAKES.

WHEN the Dealer, at the Contract table opens with a Forcing bid of two in a suit, and Second Hand passes, the Responding Hand faces a serious responsibility. He may be too conservative, and stop the bidding at game, when a Slam was easily attainable in the bidding, and makable in the play.

On the other hand, he may be too optimistic, and bid for a Slam on playing-tricks, neglecting to take into account tricks that must be lost in the play to adversely held Aces and Kings.

In the recent World Bridge Olympic held by the National Bridge Association simultaneously throughout the world, more than 30,000 players, for the first time in history, played the same hands in competition with each other. Hand No. 6 was one of a number of the hands opened with a Forcing bid of two in a suit. The responsibility for the reaching of a safe contract on this hand rested with North, for South had a very big hand, and one well calculated to cause him to yield to the lure of a Slam try. The responsibility, in the play, however, came back to the Declarer, and those who failed to follow the correct principles of hand development, found that their contract, instead of being achieved, was defeated. The hand and bidding were:

South—Dealer.

The Bidding:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
2♣(1)	Pass	2NT(2)	Pass
3♠(3)	Pass	4♣(4)	Pass
5♣	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—With two biddable suits and 5½ honor-tricks, the Opening Forcing bid of two is, of course, clearly indicated.
2—North has no other response.
3—Offering partner a choice.
4—While many players might here bid three notrump, South's Opening bid and his Rebid should suggest to North the danger of playing the hand at notrump, as neither diamonds nor hearts are stopped in the North hand, and the bidding has indicated that either one of these suits or the other is short in the South hand. Game at clubs appears more probable than game at notrump.

In order to make the contract of five clubs, an appreciation of the correct principles of play was required. West opened the heart King, and South ruffed the second round of that suit with the Ten. The adverse trumps were drawn in two leads, the second round being won with the club 9, and a heart led from Dummy, which was ruffed in the closed hand. The Ace, King and Queen of spades were then cashed, and the losing spade in the closed hand trumped in the Dummy. Thus, both hearts and spades were eliminated from the North and South hands. To the tenth trick, the Ten of diamonds was led from the Dummy, and East naturally covered with the Knave. South played the queen, West won with the King, but could do nothing then except return the suit or lead a heart which would permit the Declarer to ruff in one hand and discard in the other.

TODAY'S POINTER.

When the bidding is opened with a Forcing bid of two in a suit, the Responding Hand has a double responsibility. If he holds values that make a Slam probable, he should disclose them to his partner. If his holding is such as to make a Slam well nigh impossible, his first response to the Force should be a minimum.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

The bidding and play of the hand printed below will be discussed tomorrow:

North—Dealer.
Neither side vulnerable.

Study the hand, decide how you would bid and play it and then compare the results you obtain with those shown in tomorrow's article.

Wives of Tomorrow

FRANCES McDONALD

The Weak and Strong.

DEAR Frances McDonald: May I come to you for some information?

I am married to a widower, who has some children by his first wife, all of whom have received a very good education, high school and business, some a college education, and all over 21 years of age.

Their mother died and she warned their father to look out for himself as he need not expect the children to look out for him, as they were not that make up.

There were many quarrels after her death, among the children, about the home, so finally, after some time, to have peace he signed over the home to them.

He then decided he wanted a home of his own and a wife, and trouble started again. They did not think he should desire such a thing, and they wished to order his life for him.

About two years ago he married me and, when he purchased the home that we now live in, he was abused and insulted most horribly, he told me. They knew they would lose his bank account, also his insurances and his salary, along with his car.

They even went so far as to threaten me.

We are now comfortably settled in our little home, and he is very happy and contented and, the best of all, he does look and feel 100 per cent better than when I married him, as I cook well for him and take good care of him.

Here is my problem. Our home is in his name, with three more years to pay on it. I asked him to have my name with his on the deed and he says he can not without a third party. He said that when it is paid for he would give it to me.

He has a $1,000 insurance policy with the Knights of Columbus and has not had my name put on the policy. He said it was not necessary as they would give it to his widow.

There is other insurance given in the place that he works.

He has other policies besides and all made "payable to the estate of the insured."

I told him I wanted him to protect me in these and have my name put on them and he said he would make a will, but wills can be broken.

What must be done for my protection and to prevent future trouble, with the stepchildren.

I am 40 years of age and my husband nearly 65. He is a good living man, clean and respectable, kind and loving and I can not deny that I am very happy and contented with him, and he is good to me.

I have no children of my own and I feel doubtful that I will be blessed with any, and I want my future protection.

MRS. C.

Your husband may be kind, but he seems not to be very intelligent. If he were to die tomorrow, all that he has would go to his children, who have made his life a burden, while you would receive only one-third as his wife.

It is quite possible that he wishes this very thing and is merely evading your demands when he tells you these various stories. You are a very foolish woman if you do not at once have an attorney protect you in the proper manner. Any woman might well dread the prospect of dealing single-handed with the family you have described. A pack of hungry wolves would seem like harmless, playful pals compared to his offspring if you would attempt to explain to them their father's wishes regarding his widow's rights. So, if he means what he says, let him prove it by assigning to you now, while he is still alive, whatever he wishes you to have after his death. If that is nothing, then it is best for you to know that, in order that you may at least begin now to collect each week salary as housekeeper. He will be regarding you as nothing more if he refuses to assign to you at least your home and some of his insurance.

Know where you stand. Tell him that you do not wish to face the fury of his brood after his death. If he continues to refuse to act you may feel sure it is because he really does not wish you to inherit. And you can do as you think best if that is his attitude. But at least find out just where you stand.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

It's full of charm and so thoroughly wearable.

To be certain, it has the best known slimming features—the deep V-front that reaches to the waistline. Then there's the softly falling jabot revers that detract so beautifully from breadth.

The hip yoke of the circular skirt is the smartest depth to give the matronly figure slenderness.

There are many lovely materials that adapt themselves admirably to this model as flat crepe silk in plain or print, crinkle crepe silk and sheer woolens.

Style No. 2859 is designed for sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. Size 38 requires 3¾ yards of 39-inch material with ¾ yard of 35-inch contrasting.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

CHARACTER TRAINING OF CHILDREN.

A GREAT many thinking people are of the opinion that the financial difficulties in which the American people now find themselves result from a lack of what is sometimes called old-fashioned morals and old-fashioned religion. From the Federal Government down and from the high to the low of the people there is a lack of character and basic honesty. There has been a shortage of discipline and training, and this, persisted in for generations, has caused a lack of respect for law, fair dealing and fundamental honesty. Among governments and among individuals, if one could cheat or take an advantage, or play the game in an unfair manner, or secure a favor for himself at the cost of his neighbor, or get some advantage over his neighbor—do any one of these or all and "get away with it," the tendency was to look up to him. The children learned by example, if not by precept, that might made right; that nothing counted but thrills; that success wiped out all else, and that lawlessness in childhood went under the name "the spirit of youth," and in manhood made men great heroes.

There are many who say there will be no continued prosperity until we forget the fabulous "whoopee" stuff and balance all budgets from that of the capitol to that of the man in tin-pan alley. Others go still further and say prosperity will not be here until we can bring up a generation trained from childhood on in the fundamental virtues.

In Long Beach, Calif., there is a children's clinic in which the training of children from babyhood on in character is an outstanding feature. In this clinic they teach mothers how to breast feed and also how to fix the baby's bottle, how to weigh, measure and even how to clothe a baby. They teach mothers of older children how to keep their offspring growing normally in strength and vigor.

But, what is more important, they begin character building very early in life to be continued through all the formative years, at least. Young children are parasitic. Of course, some one owes them a living. They have no idea of property. What they have they did not earn. Of course, they have a right to take what they want, regardless of whose it is. The desire to have is a fundamental urge in some cases. People call it an instinct, and instincts are so mysterious in their origin that some call them God-given. Why should so basic an urge to appropriate to oneself be crossed by man-made laws of property? Babies naturally steal, cheat, and disregard all social laws—only we give these proclivities other names.

Dr. G. Hardy Clark, who runs the clinic, starts when the child is less than two years of age to teach him to regard himself as a responsible member of the family. The property there, including the food on the table, is owned by all. The child is trained to contribute and to use with some regard for the rights of others. He is taught restraint and this leads him not to eat out of bounds; to play fair with his mother as well as with his brothers and sisters. This kind of training goes a long way toward protecting his health.

AN ANNOYING SYMPTOM.

B. F. H. writes: What is the cause of continuous ringing in the ears, which started about two months ago? I used to have this trouble when taking quinine to excess, but in this case I have not taken it. I am worried.

REPLY.

As a rule, ringing in the ears does not mean that one is in danger of losing his life. It is an unpleasant symptoms and one that is not easily remedied.

KNOW AND FEAR THEM.

S. T. P. writes: Is the common expression, "growing pains in childhood," recognized at all by the medical world? Whether recognized or not, what is generally the condition that is so characterized?

REPLY.

Physicians not only recognize "growing pains" but they have a deep fear of them. They call them rheumatism, and they hold them responsible for some St. Vitus dance, and a great deal of heart disease.

Advice on Gardening

By JANE LESLIE KIFT

GARDEN INCLOSURES.

EVERY lot, whether it be located in the city or suburbs, should be surrounded by a wall, fence or hedge. Walls, however, while beautiful when draped with vines or converted into wall gardens, are costly and therefore out of the question for the average home owner.

Whether or not a fence contributes to the beauty of a garden depends on its design. Also, aside from the decorative possibilities of a fence, there is the upkeep to be considered. It must from time to time be painted and repaired.

A hedge is in most cases not only practical but, if well placed, carefully chosen and cared for, very beautiful. Privet is the most popular of all hedge plants. While it lacks the charm of a hedge of flowering shrubs or rugosa roses, it has much to recommend it.

First, it is not one bit particular about the soil in which it grows nor the location in which it is planted. It will stand all sorts of neglect and has no insect enemies, nor is it prone to any disease, and, as a last asset, it is cheap; in fact, a splendid hedge can be started from clippings from a neighbor's hedge. All that you have to do is to make the cuttings five inches long and plant them where you wish the hedge. Of course, you must keep them watered the first season.

The California privet (ligustrum ovalifolium) is the privet that is usually used for hedge, but if you wish a hedge in a shady stretch better choose ibota privet (ligustrum ibota). And should you wish it for a garden in the northern part of the country, better plant amur privet (ligustrum amurense).

Should you want a hedge to merely outline the dividing line between your property and your neighbor's, where privacy is not to be considered, there is nothing better than Japanese barberry. This low-growing, berry-bearing shrub will attract the birds and lend a note of color to your garden in the winter.

Rugosa roses (rosa rugosa) make a beautiful hedge. Unlike most roses, the rugosa is free from insect enemies or diseases. The Van Houttei spirea (Spirea Van Houttei) and the Pekin cotoneaster (Cotoneaster acutifolia) are also desirable hedge plants.

What Today Means

"TAURUS."

IF May 13 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 a. m. to 10:30 a. m., from 2 p. m. to 3 p. m., and from 8 p. m. to 9:50 p. m. The danger periods are from 6:30 a. m. to 8 a. m., and from 4 p. m. to 5:30 p. m.

Life will run in its normal course on May 13, and there are no previsions of any immediate turning points, or unforeseen business developments. If employed, you have nothing to fear; if unemployed, there are no new hopes. Dreary prospects for young people, who will find themselves temporarily "world weary."

The girl born on this May 13 will have an ambitious, restless nature, and will be unconscious of her charms. She will be somewhat of a tom-boy and will show few budding traits of a housewife. The boy born on this May 13 will be studious, manly, affectionate and a good sportsman.

You, if born on May 13, will have a silent, self-absorbed nature, and rather shrink from the give and take of social life. Your interests are few, and circle around the home fires. You have no desire to play the nomad, and are satisfied with what your country or city has to offer. No amount of travel could ever make you an internationalist. You have a cherishing, possessive love for all things to which you can attach the word "my," and in your mind they are all elevated to exalted positions unrecognized by the outside world. You will be indelibly colored by your early environment, the dye of which no future earthly life can ever erase.

You appear to have a strong will power, but it is to a large extent unadulterated stubbornness, often unbacked by your better reason. A false pride keeps you from admitting defeat or error. Your powers of discernment are not critical, and you often see things through unprejudiced eyes. You like and dislike people and things almost for no rhyme or reason. You instinctively feel things.

You are fussy about your work, but are unsystematic, which accounts for your long hours and anxious mind. You never try to spare yourself, although you are not too robust for a breakdown if you do not husband your strength.

Successful people born on May 13: Thomas Rees, newspaper publisher. Frank Woolworth, 5 and 10 cent store merchant. The Rev. Percy Stickney Grant, clergyman. William Boyce Thompson, capitalist. Johnson M. Mundy, sculptor, "The blind sculptor." Arthur Rotch, architect.

AKRON ON LAST LAP; IS SHORT OF HELIUM

Navy Dirigible Reduces Crew for Trip to Sunnyvale, Near San Francisco.

Camp Kearny, Calif., May 12 (A.P.).—Hampered by the loss of helium gas, the Navy dirigible Akron sailed northward along the California coast tonight, on the last stage of an interrupted flight to her base at Sunnyvale, Calif., near San Francisco.

She was sighted through a fog at Lompoc near Gaviota, 30 miles north of Santa Barbara, at 5:05 p. m., (8:05 p. m. Eastern standard time), today. Visibility was very poor. To watchers it appeared the Akron was turning southward, possibly to obtain new bearings.

Thirty-three per cent of the precious noninflammable gas, which provides the lifting power of the huge sky cruiser, was reported to have been lost in the delayed crossing of the continent from Lakehurst, N. J., and the maneuvering to make an emergency mooring here yesterday in which two blue jackets were killed.

Personnel Is Reduced.

The Akron cast off here at 11:40 a. m. (Pacific standard time), with a personnel of 56 instead of 80. Two officers and 22 men were ordered off the ship by Lieut. Comdr. C. E. Rosendahl to lighten the load for the northern trip. They proceeded to Sunnyvale by naval transport planes.

Lieut. Comdr. Rosendahl announced that the shore line would be followed and all mountains would be avoided on the 500-to-600-mile flight. He hoped to reach San Francisco Bay by dawn tomorrow.

An ample supply of helium to replenish the gas cells of the dirigible awaits the sky queen at Sunnyvale and aboard the fuel carrier Patoka in San Francisco Bay.

Just before the departure, Lieut. Comdr. Rosendahl was summoned before a naval court of inquiry into the deaths of Robert Edsall and Nigel Benton, ground crew men. Carried aloft when the dirigible pulled away from the mooring mast yesterday, they lost their hold on a landing rope and fell to the ground. The hearing was secret.

Ground Crew Rehearses.

Sunnyvale, Calif., May 12 (A.P.).—With two rehearsals today, the ground crew at the Navy's new dirigible base here completed preparations for the mooring early tomorrow of the dirigible Akron—the first visit to what will be her permanent home.

Thomas R. Reed, of the San Francisco Weather Bureau, forecast a low-hanging fog forming over Santa Clara County would prevent landing of the Akron before dawn.

A message from the commander of the Akron, Lieut. Comdr. Charles E. Rosendahl, to the Associated Press late today said:

"The Akron will arrive in the vicinity of San Francisco about midnight and moor when conditions permit at Sunnyvale, which will probably be during the sunrise period tomorrow."

San Diego, Calif., May 12 (A.P.).—Cheers were replaced by shouts of "squads right" and "shoulder arms" today for C. M. "Bud" Cowart, the 19-year-old apprentice seaman who hung two hours to a tailrope of the Navy dirigible Akron and dismissed the feat with, "I didn't do anything," as drilling again.

Capt. Sinclair Gannon, commander of the naval training station where the plucky youngster began the preliminary work of a sailor two months ago, called Cowart into his office.

"How do you feel, my boy?"

"I had a fine sleep," the lad replied. "I feel fine, sir."

"No ill effects?"

"No, sir. I'm ready for duty."

He sought no sympathy for rope-blistered hands.

Colorado State Dry Law Will Face Voters

Denver, Colo., May 12 (A.P.).—Colorado voters will have an opportunity to express their views on the wet and dry question at the November election.

An initiated amendment to the State constitution was filed with the secretary of state today calling for the repeal of the State prohibition laws and putting enforcement directly up to the Federal Government.

3 Killed in Plane Crash.

Rio de Janeiro, Brazil, May 12 (A.P.).—An army airplane which was to have started a trip to Paraguay today caught fire in the air during a short trial hop and crashed, killing two officers and a sergeant.

CONGRATULATED ON ESCAPE

Charles Cowart being congratulated by Lieut. Comdr. Charles E. Rosendahl, of the U. S. S. Akron, on his narrow escape from death during the mooring of the giant airship at San Diego, Calif. Cowart clung to a landing rope for more than an hour before he was pulled into the ship. Two men were killed during the first unsuccessful mooring.

WALKER GOT BOND GIFT, SAYS BROKER

J. A. Sisto Testifies Mayor Accepted $26,535 as Gratuity.

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—The wavering searchlight of the Hofstadter investigation turned squarely on Mayor James J. Walker today with the assertion he had accepted a gratuity from a Wall street firm while in office.

The long-heralded inquiry into his financial affairs began when Counsel Samuel Seabury produced testimony he had received in November, 1929, a gift of bonds with a market value of $26,535 from a brokerage house involved in the financing of the Parmelee Transportation Co.

J. A. Sisto, member of the firm of J. A. Sisto & Co.—a slight acquaintance of the mayor but a fervent admirer—testified he sent Walker thirteen bonds of the Hi-Grade Food Corporation, ten of the Reliance Bronze & Steel Corporation and ten of the Parmelee concern, representing part of a profit of $87,960 he made on a sale of Cosden Oil stock.

Mayor Walker, meeting him some time later, thanked Sisto, the witness continued, and appeared "astonished" that he should have remembered what he called a vague promise at Atlantic City five months before to "take the mayor in" on his dealings in Cosden Oil.

Sisto, who refused to sign a waiver of immunity, but promised he was "willing to help you in any way," described a meeting with the mayor and several others in an Atlantic City hotel room in June. He had met him only once before, but had "great admiration" for his public life.

Starting out as a social affair, the conversation turned to the stock market, he said, and "some one made reference to the fact that I was in Wall street and dealing in securities."

Questioned as to their talk about Cosden Oil, the witness said:

"Some one asked me if I didn't think it would be a good thing for the mayor to own some."

"What did the mayor say?" Mr. Seabury asked him.

"He said he didn't have any money," was the reply.

The conversation lasted only about ten minutes and when it was over Sisto left the room with an indefinite promise to "see what I could do about it and that I would do what I could." Accordingly, he purchased and sold 1,000 shares of Cosden Oil with the determination "that I would try to make him (the mayor) some money."

He subsequently transmitted the bonds instead to the mayor, the witness continued, because the tight money market at the time—a month after the stock market crash—would have made any other procedure embarrassing.

Sisto closed his testimony with a statement that he had anticipated a profit of about $250,000 on a $5,000,000 Parmelee bond issue his firm was underwriting and an additional profit from distribution of the company's common stock. It was intimated that the stock market debacle spelled the end of these profits.

Reached at a meeting with real estate men, Mayor Walker merely smiled at accounts of the testimony and said he would make his reply at the proper time and before the proper authority.

GREEN TO ADDRESS CHAMBER MEETING

Notable Men and Women to Be Commerce Body's Guests Tonight.

Members of the Washington Chamber of Commerce and their guests will assemble tonight at the Mayflower Hotel at their May meeting in honor of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, who will speak on the various proposals to reduce Government salaries.

Among those who have accepted invitations to be present are: Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, Senators Arthur Capper, William H. King, Royal S. Copeland, Jesse H. Metcalf, Representatives Mary T. Norton, James M. Mead, Joseph W. Byrns, Florence Kahn, John J. O'Connor, John McDuffie, Ruth Pratt and William P. Connery, jr.

Other guests will be: Commissioner Jessie Dell, Civil Service Commission; Mrs. Bessie Parker Brueggeman, chairman Employes Compensation Commission; Frederick M. Feicker, director Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce; Col. U. S. Grant 3d, director of Public Buildings and Parks; Herbert D. Brown, chief of Bureau of Efficiency; Gen. Herbert B. Crosby, Corporation Counsel W. W. Bride, Gen. Mason M. Patrick, W. W. Mooney, postmaster; Ernest N. Smith, vice president A. A. A.; Fire Chief George S. Watson, Theodore W. Noyes, John H. Hanna, Lloyd B. Wilson, Frank R. Jelleff, John Poole and Joshau Evans, jr.

The vexing problem of taxicab regulation will finally be acted upon at a luncheon today at the Raleigh of the chamber's committee on transportation. Their report will be presented at the evening meeting.

Wanamaker's Grandson Seeking Reno Divorce

Reno, Nev., May 12 (A.P.).—John Wanamaker, jr., grandson of the late John Wanamaker, the "merchant prince," and head of the Wanamaker stores in New York and Philadelphia, has established a residence here to divorce Mrs. Pauline Disston Wanamaker.

Wanamaker arrived here two days ago and has rented a house in the exclusive Newlands Heights section of Reno, Clyde Souter, his attorney, said. The grounds on which the divorce will be sought were not disclosed. The Wanamakers were married at Newport, R. I., in 1917 and have two children, John Rodman and Fernanda Pauline.

Ted Husing Goes Under Knife.

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—Ted Husing, radio sports announcer, underwent an operation for appendicitis today at Harbor Sanatorium. His condition was reported as satisfactory.

REICHSTAG RIOTOUS; GROENER IS OUSTED

Nazis Eject Member of Cabinet Who Disbanded Hitler's Tropps.

Berlin, May 12 (A.P.).—Germany's political turbulence was raised to new heights today by a disorderly session of the Reichstag, in which Adolf Hitler's National Socialists came off second best, and by a successful Nazi assault on the Bruening cabinet.

The Reichstag was suddenly adjourned by Speaker Paul Loebe after a hurried investigation had established that four Nazi members had mauled a Social Democrat newspaperman in one of the lobbies.

Adjournment was decreed after the government had defeated a motion of no-confidence by a vote of 387 to 257. The sudden ending of the session so astonished the Hitlerites they didn't know what to do. They herded in corridors where there were scenes of the utmost disorder.

The Hitlerite success of the day's doings was the ousting of Gen. Wilhelm Groener from the post of minister of defense. He has been a marked man, so far as the Nazis were concerned, ever since he dissolved Hitler's storm troops.

Curtis Reprimands Long For Violation of Rule

(Associated Press.)

Huey Long, who does what he wishes in Louisiana ran afoul of an ancient and sacred Senate rule yesterday and was abruptly told to take his seat in the midst of a speech attacking Senator Robinson, the Democratic leader.

Vice President Curtis sternly ordered the quick-tongued Louisiana senator to sit down while he was making a personal attack on the Democratic leader which had drawn crowds of "thrill seekers" to the Senate galleries.

But, a few minutes later the Senate voted to allow the self-styled "king fish of Louisiana" to proceed as long as he did not violate the Senate rule which forbids a senator to "impute to another senator conduct or motives unworthy or unbecoming a senator."

The unusual incident developed out of an almost unprecedented attack by Long on Robinson which held senators in their chairs and created the tense atmosphere which usually precedes a storm in the Senate.

Robinson was not in the chamber. Long drew attention again to the list of clients who have retained Robinson's law firm in Arkansas.

"When a man comes into the Senate without enough clients to make up a corporal's guard and ends up with a lot, it means something," Long shouted.

"Why don't they hire me? Why has this monstrous practice grown about this man who is supposed to represent the common people?

"Why is it that except that he be leader of the Democrats he has no clients, but when he is leader he represents every nefarious corporate interest on the face of the globe?

"Men sit here in the Senate and try to tell somebody 'Oh, no, the mere fact that this man represents the Standard Oil Co. or rather the Texas Co., which is a coworking ally of the Standard Oil, that will not affect his vote in the Senate. Oh, no.'"

At that point Senator Reed (Republican), Pennsylvania, interrupted and said:

"I make the point of order that the senator is in violation of rule 19."

"The senator from Louisiana will take his seat," Curtis ruled.

Long sat down, then stood up again, as though he did not know what to do.

Senator Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, then moved that Long be allowed to proceed "in order." The motion was carried without a record vote.

Long then asked Reed which part of his remarks he had objected to.

"It seems to me," Reed replied, "that the words are capable of no interpretation but that Senator Robinson would be influenced in his votes because these firms employed him."

The galleries laughed as Long called attention to his words, "Oh, no" and Vice President Curtis warned them to be in order.

Demurrer Filed By Pitts Counsel

Raichle Attacks Indictment on Two Counts, Alleging "Serious Defects."

Frank G. Raichle, former chief defense counsel for G. Bryan Pitts, former head of the F. H. Smith Co., yesterday filed in the District Supreme Court a demurrer to the two counts of an indictment that remain against him here.

Previously the Buffalo lawyer had filed a motion to quash the indictment when it contained four counts. Two of the counts were dropped in open court.

Raichle's new attack on the indictment alleges that it contains several "serious defects." The date set for his trial, May 23, is expected to be put back a week or more pending disposition of the demurrer.

$25,000 Asked in Suit For Loss of 4 Fingers

The District government was named defendant in a suit filed in the District Supreme Court yesterday by a former inmate of the Lorton Reformatory who lost four fingers and part of the palm of his left hend while working on a machine that numbered tags in the refermatory.

Through Attorney Alvin L. Newmyer, the complainant, Francis O. Beall, 828 D street southeast, claimed that the machine on which he was working was not sufficiently protected because it did not have a guard rail about it. The suit asks for $25,000 damages.

A BIG GAS REFRIGERATOR

$20 for your old icebox—no other down payment necessary—36 months to pay the balance. On these easy terms you can buy and operate a big gas refrigerator for 32c a day!

For less than the daily cost of one movie ticket, your family can have the comfort, convenience and health which dependable automatic refrigeration gives.

Subtract from that 32c your present cost of refrigeration and preventable food spoilage, and you'll probably find that a gas refrigerator with all its advantages will actually cost nothing.

Besides lower cost of operation, the gas refrigerator has other vital features. It is permanently silent; it has no moving mechanism; and it provides constant cold because it does not have to stop and start.

Before you invest in automatic refrigeration, investigate them all. The more carefully you test and compare, the more certain you will be to want the silent, economical, lifetime gas refrigerator.

HOWARD U. SINGERS GIVE SACRED DRAMA

Cantata, "The Atonement," Featured by Fine Solo and Chorus Work.

Sponsored by the committee on coordinating activities among colored people for the George Washington Bicentennial celebration, headed by Garnet C. Wilkinson, assistant superintendent of schools, "The Atonement," a sacred cantata by S. Coleridge Taylor, Negro composer of England, was given last night by the Musical Arts Society of Howard University, in the auditorium of the Metropolitan Methodist Episcopal Church, under direction of Roy W. Tibbs.

The presentation proved a sincere choral setting of the passion of Christ, set to original verses rather than scriptural texts, in three scenes, which followed an extended dramatic and descriptive prelude, for organ masterfully executed by Dr. Melville Charlton, colored organist of the Union Theological Seminary, New York.

The first scene, at Gethsemane, featured R. Todd Duncan, barytone soloist, as the Christ, whose "Lo! I am He," and "Oh, Little Flock," were sung in manner befitting the magnificent musical setting. The "Prayer of the Holy Women and Apostles," which followed, represented the finest choral work of the sacred rendition, its "Father Omnipotent" chorus being commented on with fervor by Hall Johnson, and other New York choir leaders, who were in attendance.

Louise Burge, contralto, as Mary Magdalene, proved highly effective in a brief solo in the final scene, "Calvary." The trio, composed of Miss Burge, Ethyl Wise and Virginia Quivers, afforded the gem of entire oratorio in rendition of a stanza of only five lines at the dramatic climax on Calvary. Miss Mary L. Europe and William D. Allen were at the piano.

WOMEN IN SESSION AT MOUNT VERNON

Grand Council of Ladies' Association Will Hold Week's Conference.

The sixty-sixth grand council of the Mount Vernon Ladies' Association convened yesterday at Mount Vernon for a week's session at the mecca of the year, George Washington's home and resting place.

Yesterday's session was devoted to routine business, including committee reports, inspection of the grounds and mansion and the annual address of the regent. Twenty-six vice regents, from as many States, besides the regent, compose the conclave.

Officials of the association said last night that no mention of the Treadway resolution, recently killed in committee, was made in the regent's address. The resolution would have directed the Secretary of the Interior to find out under what terms Mount Vernon might become Federal property.

The twenty-seven conferees are being sheltered during their stay in buildings adjacent to the famous mansion. On Sunday they will attend historic Pohick Church, where Washington often attended services, in a body.

O'Connor Renomination Approved.

The Senate commerce committee yesterday reported favorably the renomination to the Shipping Board of T. V. O'Connor as chairman.

ABOUT THE SHOWSHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

WELL, here it is, Friday, the 13th, an epochal day on F street.

Today the much-heralded "road-show" engagement of "Grand Hotel" will get under way at Loew's Columbia with a matinee performance at 3:30, all seats reserved.

Observing the customary 11 a. m. to 11 p. m., all-day "grind" schedule, Loew's Palace today becomes an exclusively sound-screen picture theater, sans stage show and orchestra, but emphasizing the quality of the grade "A" picture bookings, presented, when business warrants, for extended runs.

The entire resources of the Loew organization in the matter of stage entertainment, beginning today, are centered in Loew's Fox, where Wesley Eddy, the Capital's favorite performing master of ceremonies, will crack the whip over the Loew "Blue Waves" revue, for his initial week, and remain indefinitely as ringmaster de luxe.

A reminder may not be amiss that with today's revolutionary changes in the F street amusement skyline, the scale of admission charges has been revised downward at Loew's Palace, a process that it is understood will be repeated at the Columbia upon the conclusion of the reserved seat engagement of "Grand Hotel," a picture of such superlative excellence, however, that it should run to packed houses for many weeks to come.

John and Lionel Barrymore, by the way, are together on the screen for the second time in "Grand Hotel." In "Arsene Lupin," recently seen at the Palace, they worked together for the first time since their joint appearance on the New York stage in "The Jest," something over a decade ago. They were together, too, in "Peter Ibbetson," in which the principal feminine role, opposite John, was played by Constance Collier, who a fortnight ago closed the season at the Belasco in a revival of Noel Coward's gay lunacy, "Hay Fever."

Although other famous brothers of the stage and screen have "teamed" at various times, the Barrymores linger in memory as the first to achieve any very substantial success in joint appearances.

Records reveal that theatrically-minded brothers, while they may reach the heights by individual effort, seldom score decisively when cast in the same pictures.

Wallace and Noah Beery tried it once, some ten years or so ago, in "The Trap," which Robert Thornby directed. It was an interesting enough sea picture but not particularly successful for the Beerys as a "brother act."

Ernest Torrence and his brother, David, two sterling Scotch actors, were no more successful in their single appearance together in the early days of the silents. Separately each can boast of a notable picture career.

Charles and Syd Chaplin appeared together in an early Keystone comedy, now lost in the dim mazes of the past, but alone each is vividly remembered for such hilarious bits of foolery as "Charley's Aunt" and "The Better 'ole," for Syd, and "The Kid," "The Gold Rush," "The Circus" and "City Lights," for Charlie.

Jackie Coogan and his small brother, Robert, have never been filmed together, although when Jackie was making his last picture for M-G-M and Robert was on the set there was talk of his doing a "bit." But the Coogan brothers are young yet!

There is, of course, always the exception that proves the rule. The most successful brother team in pictures has four members—Groucho, Harpo, Chico and Zeppo, not necessarily in the order named.

But the Four Marx Brothers never have worked singly, so you don't know what might have happened. Anyhow, they are not so much a team as they are a syndicate!

A new feature took the air through WRC last Tuesday night at 8:15 and will continue to do so—although its newness will probably be looked after by time—every Tuesday at the same hour. The "RKO Columnist" symbolizes the practical utilization of the close alliance between N. B. C. and Radio-Keith-Orpheum. Practically inseparable, as you might say.

A former Washingtonian and a descendant of two of America's most prominent families, will be seen with Nancy Carroll, Richard Arlen and Pauline Frederick in "Wayward," opening at Warner Brothers' Metropolitan today.

The actress' name is Elmira Sessions. She is the great-niece of Gen. Winfield Scott and a direct descendant of John Quincy Adams. Her father was Judge Joseph Sessions, of the Washington State Supreme Court. Miss Sessions made her debut in the Capital and resided here for many years.

Her stage debut was made in the National Theater in this city when Milton and Sargent Aborn conducted their Summer Light Opera Company season after season in the E street playhouse that now shelters the National Theater Players at the same period of the year. Miss Sessions later transferred her activities to vaudeville and appeared in headline acts on both the RKO and Publix circuits. She had a prominent role in the stage version of "Topsy and Eva," with the Duncan Sisters, and the leading part in Joseph Santley's comedy, "As We Were."

Miss Sessions, back in those early days, once created considerable consternation among the Aborn forces by refusing on short notice to appear in tights!

Lois Weber, remembered as the first and greatest of the women directors of pictures, emerges from a four-year retirement devoted to ranch life at Fullerton, Calif., to resume active studio work in the adaptation of the past season's successful romantic tragedy, "Cynara," in which Philip Merivale appeared in New York and Sir Gerald du Maurier in London.

Merivale is scheduled for a Los Angeles appearance in the play within a few weeks. Ronald Colman is to be starred in the screen adaptation to be produced by Samuel Goldwyn, according to word just to hand from that erudite young publicist, Mr. Lynn Farnol, who probably resents the recent implication that he is principally concerned with the elephant stories denied his coworker, the adventurous Mr. Robert Edgar Long.

On many of her outstanding pictures, "The Marriage Clause," in which Billie Dove enjoyed her greatest success, for instance, Miss Weber also prepared the script. Because "Cynara" was along the lines of Miss Weber's most notable silent screen work, involving triangular marriage complexities, Frances Marion sent her a copy of the stage play with the suggestion that she try her hand at adapting it to the celluloids. Samuel Goldwyn was so impressed by Miss Weber's enthusiasm and her first rough treatment of the story, or so says Mr. Farnol, that he invited her to become a member of the staff, specifically assigned to bring her ideas into the final treatment of the screen play for Colman.

"Cynara" will be Goldwyn's second Ronald Colman photoplay this season, "Way of a Lancer," adapted by Sidney Howard from the book by Richard Bolesiavsky, is to be the first.

Maybe if they'd fire a cannon into the air it would make it rain and break this drought we've been having!

This MORNING with SHIRLEY L. POVICH

LATEST reports from the baseball front guarantee that Washington will win the American League pennant—if it keeps on raining throughout the circuit for the rest of the season.

Bleacher seats in the American Association have been reduced to 25 cents, but certain big league clubs have been playing 25-cent baseball for many years.

"Ladies' Day" at Griffith Stadium is sad news for the office force, which usually can tell the progress of the game by the volume of cheers and groans from the fans inside the park, but with the women howling with equal favor whether the cause be a foul pop or a three-base hit the front office workers must learn the result of the game from the late afternoon papers.

The worst thing that has happened to the Nats recently is the indication that Johnny Allen, of the Yankees, is a pitching "find." Allen, who held the Nats hitless in a relief shift for 5 1-3 innings two weeks ago, followed up this effort the other day by blanking Cleveland with five hits.

The Cardinals, laboring in fifth place for lack of hitting strength, can take no consolation in the fact that Chick Hafey, who was sent down the river to the Reds, is setting the pace for the National League hitters with an average of .413.

A pay cut that strikes a popular chord has been discovered. The Pacific League has reduced the salaries of the umpires by 20 per cent.

A feature of the recent wrestling show at Bolling Field was the fact that the wrestlers all but outnumbered the spectators.

If Burgoo King wins the Preakness tomorrow he will take rank with Gallant Fox and Sir Barton as the only thoroughbred to win both The Pimlico classic and the Derby, but a mile and three-sixteenths of muddy track are between the Bradley colt and the honor.

The United States meets the Mexican Davis Cup team in the first match of the series at New Orleans today and if the Mexicans win as much as a set it will be the daddy of all upsets. A former Mexican Davis Cup player, now competing in Washington circles, is No. 87, or thereabouts in the Washington rankings.

Tommy Loughran may have regained some of his fistic prestige when he lost a decision to Steve Hamas the other night, but the Loughran of three years ago would have thought it a poor night's work if Hamas had laid a glove on him in ten rounds.

Candidates for the Navy Leech Cup Tennis Team will assemble on June 11 at Annapolis for the matches to be held here on July 11, which gives the Navy team more preparation for the tennis battle than the combined military and naval forces of the United States had for the World War.

With Frank Crosetti slashing the old apple for an average of .275 and Jack Saltzgaver banging away at an even .100 clip, the Yankees' second-base combination of February and March appears to have been overestimated, or words to that effect.

Tick On Given Workout In Mud

Burgoo King Shipped to Scene Following New York Trial.

BALTIMORE, May 12 (A.P.).—Under a driving rain which has turned the racing strip at Pimlico into a sloppy morass, candidates for Saturday's renewal of the $50,000 Preakness stakes completed their training today.

Tick On, the hope of Mrs. L. G. Kauffman for the rich classic of the Maryland racing season, was the only one of the probable starters to work, but he turned a mile and an eighth in 2:02 in a breeze. His time for the mile was 1:44 4-5.

The Kaufman entry, which could finish no better than sixth in the Kentucky Derby, when he was favorite, will in all probability be pitted against the winner of that classic, Edward R. Bradley's Burgoo King, gallant son of Bubbling Over.

Derby Winner Shipped To Pimlico.

The King, given his final satisfactory workout in New York, was shipped to Pimlico today, ready for his effort to become the second horse in history to win the Derby and then go on to take the Preakness.

The driving rain, which has been practically continuous since Monday, has made it impossible to get the Pimlico track in any semblance of fast condition by the time for the start of the mile and three-sixteenths run on Saturday.

Because of the sloppy track and the inability to work their candidates, owners withheld their decisions on whether to start.

Daisaburo Proves Ability in Mud.

Daisaburo, hope of Leslie K. Kieffer, qualified for the Preakness yesterday when he whipped Barcelona Pete, Pennywise, Ladino and Paramour, all eligibles, in the sloppy going, and was rated a certain starter.

Curacao, the Greentree Stable's eligible, which made a good debut in the Wood Memorial, is due to arrive at Pimlico tomorrow and is considered a sure starter.

Cards Stop Phils, 8-2 As Haines Makes Debut

St. Louis, May 12 (A.P.).— The St. Louis Cardinals, pounding four Philadelphia pitchers for a total of ten hits, scored in all but two innings today to take the series from the Phillies, 8 to 2.

Jess Haines, starting his first game this year for the Cards, allowed nine safeties, but they were well scattered.

Association Votes 25-Cent Baseball

New Bleacher Price Back After an Absence of 15 Years.

Chicago, May 12 (A.P.).—Twenty-five-cent baseball is coming back to the American Association after an absence of fifteen years.

Faced with the necessity of attracting larger crowds in a season already riddled with 30 postponed games because of bad weather, the club owners of the class AA loop met in a special conference today and voted to admit bleacher fans for 25 cents a head effective June 1. They also agreed to admit women and boys under 12 to the grand stands for the same price except on Sundays and holidays.

Continuance or abolition of ladies' days was left to the discretion of each club owner. The proposal to slash player salaries was discussed but no action, if any, was revealed.

Rain and cold weather were blamed entirely for the bad box office showings this season by the club owners, who argued loudly for fully four hours in a Loop hotel.

MEXICO-U. S. OPEN DAVIS CUP PLAY

Vines Opposes Unda, Allison Faces Tapia in Singles Today.

By LEN WOOD BOWMAN.

NEW ORLEANS, May 12 (A.P.).—The United States will begin play tomorrow in the second round of the North American Davis Cup tennis zone, with Wilmer Allison meeting Rickardo Tapia, Mexico's No. 1 star, in the first of the singles matches.

Their match, starting at 2:30 p. m., will be followed by the clash of Ellsworth Vines, United States national champion, and Alfonso Unda, No. 2 player of the Mexican team.

Other drawings announced today place Allison and John Van Ryn in doubles against the Mexican pair of Unda and Eduardo Mestre. They will be played Saturday. The wind-up of the singles Sunday brings Vines and Tapia together in the first match, and Allison and Unda in the second.

The final day of singles matches, however, is subject to change by either team. Fitz Eugene Dixon, non-playing United States captain, said he would await the outcome of the first matches before deciding whether to use Frank X. Shields in the last day's singles.

Because of his lack of experience in big time tennis, Young Angel Dolan is being held back by Capt. Ernesto Lopez, of the Mexican squad.

The present line-up of the United States team duplicates that used in the matches several weeks ago against the Canadians, which the Americans swept through with five straight victories. Shields has improved steadily but is not yet considered at the top of his form. He sailed through to a victory, however, in his Canadian match on the last day of singles play at Washington.

Equipoise Scores As Belmont Opens

Whitney Star, Workman Up, Near Record in Feature Race.

Belmont Race Track, May 12 (A.P.).—C. V. Whitney's Equipoise and Jockey Sonny Workman, a combination that has played a prominent part in the creation of modern turf history, emerged with chief honors as the Westchester Racing Association threw open the gates to beautiful Belmont Park for a 25-day spring meeting here today. Conceding chunks of weight to a field of brilliant sprinters, Equipoise won the thirty-ninth running of the Tobaggan Handicap, to continue his victorious comeback campaign following nearly a year of retirement.

The 4-year-old son of Pennant—Swinging swept past the pagoda pole a length and one-half clear of the lightly regarded W. M. Jeffords' colorbearer, Ironclad. The latter beat the Brookmeade Stable's Hellanthus by a length for the place. Hi-Jack was fourth.

In registering his third straight triumph of the season, Equipoise ran the 6 furlongs of the Widener straightaway in 1:09 3-5, just one-fifth of a second away from Balko's track record. The Whitney star had the wind behind him under his 129 pounds. The victory was worth $6,550, and Equipoise ruled favorite at even money.

Dodgers Bunch Hits To Win From Reds

Cincinnati, May 12 (A.P.).—Silas Johnson, of the Reds, held the Brooklyn Dodgers to six hits in seven innings today, but lost a ball game when Brooklyn bunched five of them for three runs in the fifth inning. The score was 5 to 2.

Babe Phelps pitched shutout ball after Babe Herman's triple and two singles in the first brought in two runs. He also knocked in the deciding counter in the fifth. The last two runs came off Eppa Rixey in the eighth.

Szabo Loses Rough Mat Feature

Cantonwine Winner Over Hungarian in 21 Minutes.

Kley, Calza, Aberg Among Victors at Auditorium.

By BOB CONSIDINE.

A RASSLING reputation was made last night at the Washington Auditorium, amidst an orgy of blows to the chin and resounding flying mares on the loose plank, as Howard Cantonwine, 220-pound pride of Webster City, Iowa, got up off the floor to beat Sandor Szabo in 21 minutes.

It rated with the roughest matches ever staged here, and was witnessed by the smallest crowd of the year. Cantonwine's victory, achieved on two great elbows to the jaw and a rousing body slam, was not particularly well received, but it nicely elevated his stock to a point where he is a feature man, and at the same time seems to do no particular harm to Szabo, who gained quite an ovation when he was scraped up and assisted to his dressing room.

Szabo found what looked like a weakness in Cantonwine's horny armor at the start, pulling the former gridman's arm to beat the band. Cantonwine, a college man of undeniable mentality, let loose many primitive howls in response to this arm stretching. He turned on Szabo with great rage and threw the light heavyweight around like a sack of cork shavings. Szabo failed to land in the approved acrobatic style once and it really hurt him.

Szabo Butts Well.

Szabo was on the defensive for the next five minutes, but then unleashed two flying butts which sprawled Cantonwine about the premises. They next tried strangling each other, and when Umpire Burns protested at this affront to his presence in the ring he was unceremoniously shoved aside. Twice Burns' "National Boxing Association" shirt disappeared beneath the bulk of the wrestlers.

Tiring of the strangulation, the boys turned to the honest plying of fists to each others' chasses. Szabo got in a pretty uppercut to Cantonwine's groin that was as honest as a bead of sweat. Cantonwine toppled over and lay against the ropes. Burns counted up to six after about a five-minute delay, and the battle went on. They began to hit each other with the side of their elbows.

Szabo rattled Cantonwine's head from side to side with lefts and rights and then threw him three heavy times with the arm lock and back drop which no one in the Curley circus is allowed to use except himself. But Cantonwine met Szabo's next attack with a biff on the Hungarian's hickey and the circus hands began to take down the tent.

Kley Shows His Tricks.

Fritz Kley, the cunny-thumb rassler, threw a perfect foil in Mike Romano. It took eighteen minutes. Kley has never appeared to better advantage. He wormed his way out of holds in unbelievable fashion. He did a standing split once, kicked completely over Romano's head another time and won on some strange hold which the official hold identifier could not find in the book.

George Calza earned the big cheer of the night by beating Frank Speers. Speers is rapidly becoming about half as unpopular as Tiger Nelson.

Doc Wilson and George McLeod drew in 30 minutes. Alex Aberg, I regret to report, defeated George Hagen, when Mr. Hagen fell backward and knocked himself out, even though he hit on his head. Hagen won last week. It is feared that they will be rematched.

Lowe, Horse Trainer, And Woman, Injured

Baltimore, May 12 (A.P.).—John Lowe, a race horse trainer for Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson (U. S. N. retired) and Mrs. H. Edna Gebhardt, of Sykesville, Md., were seriously injured in an automobile accident here will not be trimmed to 24 until June early today. The car, which police said was driven by Mrs. Gebhardt, crashed into a traffic light at Charles street and University parkway.

At Union Memorial Hospital physicians said Mrs. Gebhardt was suffering from a fractured skull and that possibly Loew's skull also had been fractured.

Loew's home was said to be in Chicago.

BRAVES BEAT CUBS IN OPENER

Seven Errors Hurt Chicago Team in 8 to 3 Defeat.

CHICAGO, May 12 (A.P.).—Dutch Brandt southpawed the Chicago Cubs into submission today and the Boston Braves won the opening game of their important series, 8 to 3.

Brandt had the Cubs completely locked up until the ninth, when he became a bit careless and Johnny Moore hit a home run with two on, for all the Chicago runs. The defeat cut the Cubs' first-place margin to two games, and was their fourth of the season at Wrigley Field.

Seven Errors Charged To Cubs.

The Boston left-hander had permitted only two hits, both in the seventh, until he eased up in the ninth. Charley Root, the Cub pitcher, was combed for nine hits, most of them bunched for runs. The famous Cub defense suffered an attack of the jitters, and seven errors afield added to Root's woes. Billy Herman made four of the misplays.

3-Day Suspension, Fine Penalty for Durocher

Cincinnati, Ohio, May 12 (A.P.).—Leo Durocher, of the Cincinnati Reds, drew three days suspension and a $50 fine today for his eighth inning melee with Dick Bartell, of the Phillies yesterday.

The Red shortstop floored his Philadelphia rival with a smack to the jaw in a squabble at second base which Durocher tried to steal but missed. Sliding in, his foot scraped Bartell's wrist, and the argument began.

Dismissal of $100,000 Suit Is Sought by Max

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—Supreme Court Justice John Ford today reserved decision on a motion by attorneys for Max Schmeling, heavyweight boxing champion, to dismiss a suit brought by Primo Carnera, Italian boxer, for $100,000 damages for alleged breach of contract.

Carnera's counsel told the court the suit was based on an oral agreement made by Leon See, Carnera's manager, and Joe Jacobs, Schmeling's manager, under which the two boxers were to fight for the world's championship not later than September 31, 1931. This oral agreement was preceded, the lawyer said, by a written agreement between Carnera and the Madison Square Garden Corporation under which Carnera was to box the winner of the Schmeling-Stribling fight in July, 1931.

Counsel for Schmeling argued that the complaint was based on the contract between Carnera and Madison Square Garden, to which their client was not a party.

Lott, Annoyed by Putting, Predicts U. S. Cup Victory

By JOHN W. STAHR.

CHICAGO, May 12 (A.P.).—America's No. 2 tennis star is annoyed about his putting.

George Martin Lott, jr., insisting he is through with international, even national, tennis, is enthusiastically mixing golf these days with the insurance business, for which he forsook the courts.

And the former University of Chicago baseball and racquet star and several times Davis Cup questor, true to golf lore, finds only one thing wrong with his game—at a time.

"If I could only cut down on my putts," he's saying now. "I get to the green in regulation style, but——"

In spite of what must have been a heartening experience just last week, Lott is adamant about his renunciation of Davis Cup play. In an exhibition match here he quickly conquered Ellsworth Vines, to whom he lost in the national singles final last fall.

But he resisted the temptation to rejoin the cup seekers, here en route to New Orleans, for further matches.

Lott has great faith in the ability of the young American quartet to regain the cup France has held since 1927. He is even more convinced that, in any event, France will lose the glittering bowl this year.

"The winner of the interzone final probably will win the cup," he said. "Australia, probably our toughest opponent in the American zone play, and England, almost certain European zone finalist, stand between our boys and the challenge round.

"Either England or the United States ought to be able to wrest the cup from France, which will have only Henri Cochet to depend on. Bunny Austin and Fred Perry, the British aces, are mighty dangerous."

Lott thinks Vines, the Pasadena youth, ought to be good for at least ten years, but he says none of the present crop of American hopes will "ever touch the game of Big Bill Tilden or Little Bill Johnson."

Harris Says Club Vastly Improved

Gehringer's Return to Old Form Has Been Big Asset.

Fischer and Wyatt to Be Opponents in Box Today.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

A. L. Manager Walter Johnson and his charges are asking of the "Friday the Thirteenth" combination is an opportunity of playing a game this afternoon. If they get this, they will take their chances on winning. Bucky Harris and his Detroit Tigers are here and the manager of the visitors last night seemed even more anxious to get his men into action than is Skipper Johnson.

"Yesterday's postonment was our sixth on this trip," said Bucky, "and I don't mind saying that this enforced idleness isn't doing us any good. You know a team sort of gets in stride and lay-offs do a whole lot of harm, not to mention the fact that they mean double-headers later in the season when you might not be well prepared for them, especially several in a row."

Harris is most enthusiastic over his team, although he is not claiming any pennants for it yet. "The season is young yet," he said last night, "and all I can say right now is that we are about 50 per cent stronger than we were last year. There's a fine spirit among the players. They are out there hustling and are playing heads-up ball.

Gehringer's Return To Form Helps.

"Of course, the return to form of Charley Gehringer has helped us more than anything, while this young fellow, Davis, at first, also has bolstered our defense a great deal. In addition to this, we have been getting good pitching and fair hitting, and I don't mind saying that we've got a pretty good club."

Carl Fischer, held over since rain first started butting in last Tuesday, is scheduled to draw the Washington pitching assignment this afternoon, if the game is played, while Harris will call on Whitelaw Wyatt, a speedy young right-hander. Earl (Dapper Dan) Whitehill, whose regular turn it is to toil, has a wrenched knee and has gone back to Detroit to nurse it.

Club officials have had the big canvas cover over the infield for several days and every effort will be made to play this afternoon, providing it is not actually raining at game-time. The fact that there has been no baseball here since Monday, when the Nationals turned in their ninth victory out of the ten games played since this home-stay started, plus the usual Friday's "ladies' day" invitation, means that a goodly crowd will be on hand provided the weather man does not interfere.

Reynolds' Catch Set Record.

According to one of those fellows who always asks "Do you know——" Carl Reynolds' catch of Vosmik's liner in the first inning of Monday's game was made farther back and farther toward center than any other ever made by a right fielder in Griffith Stadium. This may or may not be

TRIBE BEATS RED SOX IN NINTH

Webb Lets Drive Go as Double and Indians Win, 5-4.

BOSTON, May 12 (A.P.).—Earl Webb's temporary loss of vision on Dick Porter's drive to right field with two out in the ninth inning today gave the Cleveland Indians a 5 to 4 victory over the Red Sox.

With Jack Russell pitching in the ninth and the score tied at 4-4, Bill Cissell singled for his third hit of the game. Porter then hit to right center and Webb never saw the ball coming. By the time Oliver retrieved it, the hit had gone for a double and Cissell had scored the winning run.

Sox Knot String In Eighth.

The misplay spoiled a fine uphill struggle for the Sox, who had tied the score in the eighth. Cleveland scored its first four runs off Eddie Durham in the third inning, when Mel Harder and Cissell hit successive doubles and Porter and Eddie Morgan followed with singles, with a walk and a sacrifice coming between the last two hits.

In the fourth, Marty McManus hit a homer for the first Boston run. The Red Sox drove Harder to cover with four singles that netted two runs in the sixth and tied the score off Sarge Connally in the eighth when Urban Pickering came through with a pinch single after Oliver had walked

TEREUS SCORES EASILY IN BILLY BARTON STEEPLECHASE

Victor Drives Past Bandit At Finish

Somerville's Hunter Strong Contender From Start.

By WALTER HAIGHT
(Post Staff Correspondent).

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, May 12.—Annapolis, with 170 pounds up, did not win the Billy Barton Steeplechase, today's Pimlico feature, but Tereus did, and Mrs. T. H. Somerville, owner of both horses, is pleased. In fact, Annapolis did not appear to relish the slippery and soggy course, but Tereus did. Ridden by Mr. C. K. Bassett, this son of Zagreus gave a convincing demonstration of the art of clearing fences and running over the grueling 3-mile layout.

Billy Barton himself saw the race from the infield after leading the field to the starting point. The old warrior, who finished second in the Grand National, pawed the turf as the horses started as if he wanted to try his hand once more.

Two and a half lengths behind Tereus at the finish came Bandit, the property of Augustus P. Goodwin. Some 30 lengths behind Bandit came Kim, to take third honors.

Discolored Sets Fast Pace.

Discolored was first to set the pace as the journey of 3½ times around the infield course began. Tereus was in the trailing group. At the fifth jump Coral Reef II was showing the way, followed by Discolored, Bandit and Tereus. With half of the distance behind, Bandit and Tereus moved up to take the lead, and the race was strictly between these two from that point on. They came over the next to last jump together, but Tereus drew away on the flat and was eased at the finish in contrast to the drive put to Bandit.

Annapolis managed to pick up a little ground on the last swing, but was never a factor.

Fair Jack, from a mud running family, proved a winning mount for Johnny Gilbert in the first race. He drew away from Tulach Ard in a stretch drive. Grand Ace, a long shot, was third. Fair Jack, odds-on favorite, was just another horse in this race for two furlongs, while Baboo and Tulach Ard were eating up the mud out front. But Gilbert found racing legs under him with the far turn reached and Fair Jack began to swing for the leaders. In the stretch the son of Fair Gain fairly skidded through the slop to score an easy victory.

Jimmy Smith rode Tremendous to victory in the second, having a half length advantage over Vendace at the finish. Lough Port was in the third hole. Lough Port held the advantage from the break until well down the stretch, where Tremendous came up on the outside to win going away. Vendace outfinished Leugh Port for the place.

Spanfair defeated the cheap field that gathered in the mud for the third scramble. The gelding wrested the lead away from Fife on the back stretch and had enough left to stall off a rousing finish of Tuffy G., a rank outsider. Fair Judge came with a rush in the stretch to take third money from Traffic Judge.

Pencader upset the favored Sunvir in the fifth, winning over the Hitt color-bearer by a length after trailing the field at the start of the 11-16-mile test. Gusto won third place by a head from Annimessic.

Hagerstown Races Will Start Tuesday

Hagerstown, Md., May 12.—The annual spring meet, with seven running races each day, will open here Tuesday, May 17, with post time at 2:30 p. m., Eastern standard time. This will enable the completion of the last race by 5:30 o'clock. Each race has been limited to eight starters. From the number of applications thus far for stable room there will be about 300 horses here.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIR JACK, $3.20, $2.40, $2.40; TULACH ARD, $3.80, $2.80. GRAND ACRE, $7.80.

FAIR JACK, outrun for the first half mile, came stoutly when placed to punishment and, coming to the outside for the final drive, wore TULACH ARD down and was drawing clear under stiff pressure. TULACH ARD raced BABOO into early submission, but could not resist the winner's rush. GRAND ACRE, a forward factor from the start, held on gamely to outstay FAIR BOB and LILLYBET. FAIR BOB, far back early, swung wide for racing room and closed full of run. LILLYBET was racing gamely at the end. TARQUIN was never dangerous. BABOO stopped badly.

SECOND RACE—Four and one-half furlongs. Purse, $1,300; allowances. For 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:35. Off at 2:38½. Winner, J. E. Davis' ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—TREMENDOUS, $13.50, $7.30, $5.20; VENDACE, $7.90, $4.70; LOUGH PORT, $5.50.

TREMENDOUS, away in the first flight and showing good ability in the footing, came out into the middle of the track during the stretch run and, wearing LOUGH PORT down, was under vigorous handling to withstand VENDACE. Latter, away slowly, displayed high speed to reach contention and finished gamely when racing next the inner rail. LOUGH PORT, raced GRACE BLOTTER into defeat, but weakened during the closing furlongs. SNAPLOCK began slowly and was forced wide for racing room. He closed a big gap. GRACE BLOTTER and BLUE EMPEROR had no excuses. The others were outrun.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:05. Off at 3:09. Winner, Mrs. R. Pollard's b. s. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SPANFAIR, $10.40, $8.70, $4.80; TUFFY G., $73.60, $34.70; FAIR JUDGE, $4.80.

SPANFAIR, rated close up in the early running, displaced the pacemakers midway of the far turn and, placed to punishment in the final drive, outstayed TUFFY G. Latter, slow to get going, improved his position on the outside around during the stretch run and closed with good courage. FAIR JUDGE improved his position steadily and was making up ground during the final drive. TRAFFIC JUDGE weakened after the first six furlongs. MISS LILUNA was outrun. DONYA and FIFE stopped when put to a drive.

FOURTH RACE—Three miles. Purse, $2,500; allowances. The Billy Barton Steeplechase. For hunters. 5-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 3:33½. Off at 3:35. Winner, Mrs. T. H. Somerville's br. h. (6), by Zagreus—Tern. Trained by T. H. Burch. Value to winner, $1,500; second, $500; third, $300; fourth, $200. Time, 6:31 2-5 (19 jumps).

†Mrs. T. H. Somerville entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TEREUS (Somerville entry), $4.30, $2.90, $3.70; BANDIT, $4.10, $3.70; KIM, $7.30.

TEREUS, going in the thick of contention from the start, raced reserved for the first three miles, took command at the seventeenth fence and, stalled hereafter, left BANDIT safe. Latter, racing under restraint for two miles, gained a slight lead at the fifteenth fence and continued with good energy when displaced. KIM showed a good test throughout, but was tiring at the end. GOLDEN STAR was held safe after two miles. ANNAPOLIS did not appear to like the going and was never a factor. CORAL REEF was racing well when he fell at the sixteenth fence, was remounted to complete the course. BOLTON was outrun. DISCOLORED was done after a mile. WILLIAM KENNETT fell at the sixteenth jump.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; allowances. The Towson. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:07. Off at 4:09½. Winner, Brandywine Stable's br. c. (3), by Chilhowee—Nyasa. Trained by P. M. Burch. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:25, 0:51 2-5, 1:17 2-5, 1:44, 1:51 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—PENCADER, $12.80, $4.60, $4.50; SUNVIR, $3.20, $2.60; GUSTO, $7.30.

PENCADER, slowest to get going, entered contention when midway of the back stretch, swung to the outside when reaching the leaders, wore SUNVIR down and was gradually moving clear approaching the finish. SUNVIR, blocked and forced to take up going to the first turn, shook off HIGH PROOF when reaching stretch, but faltered when kept in the deeper footing in the final furlong. GUSTO, reserved in the early racing, came courageously in the final drive. ANNIMESSIC was always outrun. HIGH PROOF floundered at the far turn and dropped out of contention. COLOSSAL could not keep in contention.

SIXTH RACE—Mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300. For maiden 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:35½. Off at 4:37. Winner, G. W. Y. †A. J. Hughes entry.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—DARK HOPE, $4.00, $3.20, $2.60; HIGH SOCKS, $8.00, $5.40; PLUCKY GIRL, $6.10.

DARK HOPE, appearing at home in the going, shook off BLACK DREAMS when settled on the back stretch and held sway after going into a long lead. HIGH SOCKS, hard ridden the entire trip, finished gamely, but was unable to threaten the winner.

SEVENTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,300. For 3-year-olds and upward. Claiming. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 5:05. Off at 5:11. Winner, J. D. Baker's b. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—HAGERSTOWN, $21.50, $8.30, $6.10; PETABIT (field), $5.10, $3.90; WORTHINGTON, $9.00.

HAGERSTOWN, sent into a forward position at once, wore the pacemakers down when approaching the home stretch and, kept under urging, had enough in reserve to stall off PETABIT. Latter worked her way up on the outside and came stoutly in the final drive. WORTHINGTON, well placed, came with good energy when put to a stout drive. DON ROMIRO tired after setting the pace for five furlongs.

AT THE POST

with Bill Bennings

PIMLICO RACE TRACK.

DEAR AL:

I sincerely hope you were not among those who booed Mr. (Brother Pete) Bostwick yesterday. He rode Colossal out of the money virtually unnoticed; but when the voice came over the loud speaker, "Your attention, please, in the sixth race. The jockey on No. 6, Trews, Mr. G. H. Bostwick," the boys in the stands gave the well-known Bronx cheer and there was no cellophane wrapper. A similar anhouncement for the seventh brought a like response. After all, Al, if we don't like Pete's riding, we don't have to play his mounts.

They'll probably be booing me tomorrow, although yesterday I gave them the Tereus-Annapolis Entry, Fair Jack, Dark Hope and Hagerstown. But that's what makes racing, Al.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—MUSKOGEE can jump for me. Has turned in two creditable performances here and has taken care of both MOONSTRUCK and MY CARE. Fences well and has the necessary turn of speed on the flat. MY CARE is rated second among these with MOONSTRUCK for the third money.

SECOND RACE—DROMBO has not only turned in some fair races this spring, but has worked impressively and, I understand, is a capable little animal in the mud. May step down to take it all today at a good price. SPOT POT was spotted in that last test. Looked good from the crow's nest and I expect a show of speed today. GALA TIME is a well-bred juvenile which I am taking for third.

THIRD RACE—ILLUSIVE and APPREHENSIVE give the Corning-Clark entry a strong hand in this race. The former has been first and second in her only outings, while the latter did well on the slow track earlier in the week. Of course, STROLL ALONG must be beaten if he gets in the race. MARION T. is well regarded by Bill, but is last in the also eligibles.

FOURTH RACE—SYRIAC broke into the winning column this week and there is no reason he should not keep up the good work. Likes the track and conditions. The fast-stepping FAYLIN also likes muddy going and must be caught by the top fellow. DUNFERN finished on the inside rail in the deepest going last time after moving up on the far turn.

FIFTH RACE—Going to TRED AVON in this. The daughter of Sir Greystael is a hound for sloppy going and I expect her to return to winning form here. SUN MEADOW is a smart colt right now. BARCELONA PETE is being raced into top form. See this one third.

SIXTH RACE—STONE MARTIN seems to be the class of this contest. Expect him to take EAGER PLAY into camp and leave the third money to DOUBLE O. The last-named has more than an outside chance of upsetting the dope.

SEVENTH RACE—WILLIAM T. seeks the small purse in this event and I just can't believe he will be beaten. Packs 120 pounds, but has never minded weight when in top form. HAPPEN'S last places him second ahead of BUB McFARLAND.

MILLER NINE FACES BIG TASK

Capital City Play Starts Tomorrow

Six Other Powerful Teams in Senior Class Fight.

ALTHOUGH a strong favorite to win the flag in the senior division of The Post's Capital City League, Miller Furniture Co. has its task cut out for it and will find the road to the championship a rough one, beset by many hardships and perils. Six clubs, embracing the cream of the sandlot crop and the pick of high school teams, also have visions of wearing the crown laid aside by Olmstead Grill.

One of the most promising of the Millers' opponents, Dor-A, will help them pry off the lid of the 1932 season. The game will be played tomorrow at 2 p. m. on the West Ellipse as a feature of the Festival of Youth.

Dor-A Makes Debut In Senior Ranks.

Little is known of the strength of the Dor-A aggregation as it is the team's first appearance in senior ranks. On paper, the club stacks up as a formidable opponent. Such men as Blair Hamel, Bob Brown, Clark Owings, Bill Arnold, Johnny Ownings and Johnny Troy speak well for the potency of the team's attack. From stem to stern the lads look to be a smooth-working machine, one that should be an important factor in the race.

Add to the well-oiled machine the Miller nine presented last year as runner-up to Olmsted Grill, Charley Bradley, Danny Kessler, Carl Benner and Waverly Wheeler and "Cack" Curtin and you have an inkling of the strength of the favorites. Mr. Curtin, by the way, does not indulge in the game as a player. He is the man behind the curtain and when he pulls strings things happen. Only last week the boys went out of their class to hand Columbia Heights a 7-to-3 setback. The only defeat they have suffered this season was at the hands of the Front Royal, Va., outfit, and that by a close score.

Most Feared Teams in Section Meet.

Tomorrow's game is important, not only because it is the opening game, but also because it will afford the other teams in the league an opportunity to view two of the most feared teams in the race in action. Scouts from allen camps are expected to turn out en masse for the fray, in addition to several thousand sandlotters who are to be present.

Gigantic Sports Program For D. C. Youths Tomorrow

"Festival of Youth" Presents Scores of Contests in Potomac Park, Participants Paying Tribute to George Washington.

ONE of the most farflung athletic field days ever attempted in this section of the country is scheduled between the hours of 1 o'clock and 5 o'clock tomorrow afternoon in Potomac Park when the sports section of the "Festival of Youth" is presented.

Baseball, basket ball, tennis, golf, track, archery, model aircraft handling, boat races, model yacht sailing, croquet, paddle tennis, horseshoes, schlag ball, scout maneuvers and general playground sports make up the program.

There will be 11 baseball games, all of them played on the four Ellipse diamonds. Among the feature games Gonzaga will meet Tech on the south diamond and Western will play Georgetown Prep on the east diamond, both games being played at 2 o'clock. At the same hour, on the north ellipse, The Washington Post's ninth annual Capital City League will open with a game between two senior nines, the Dor-A and the Millers.

Tennis Eliminations At Monument.

Sixteen senior and 16 junior tennis players will stage two separate elimination tournaments on the Monument courts near Seventeenth street. Senior players are Ascher, St. Alban's; Sullivan, Mitchell Park; Cannon and Reese, G. U. Prep; Latona, Western; Walker, Eastern; Whiteside, Devitt; Evans, Montrose; Wynne, Georgetown Playgrounds; Boyle, Friends; Dean, Virginia avenue; Raedy, New York avenue, and representatives from Landon, Central, Gonzaga and Burroughs.

The junior players are Kendall, Devitt; Yeomans, Central; Lomax, Georgetown Playground; Allnutt, Dungan, Fennegan, Rosenberg, Robins, Mintz, Owens, St. John's, and representatives from Landon, Burroughs and Montrose Park. Any boy, or senior, desiring to play may report, and in the event a court is not being used by the tournament players may use it free of charge.

This latter rule holds good in all events staged within the "Festival of Youth," the chief purpose of which is to assemble the youth of Washington upon a mutual meeting ground to honor the Father of Our Country.

School Golf Play At West Potomac.

A mixed team of prep school golfers will meet an all-high combination at West Potomac at 1 p. m.

The track meets, open to all boys, loom as real features of the day. Special attention will be given the junior high school runners. Among the junior high schools which have entered boys are Macfarland, Paul, Langley and Stuart.

There will be ten volley ball games and eight basket ball games, one of which will feature the Western High School "Highlanders," the junior girl champions of Washington. The Sea Scouts will hold boat races on the Tidal Basin and the model yachts will sail on the Lincoln Memorial Pond. George Washington University's girls will stage their annual playday in conjunction with the "Festival."

A parade of the contestants will be held at 4:30 p. m., starting from Fifteenth and Pennsylvania avenue and finishing at the Monument.

A program in which is inclosed an illustrated map showing the exact location of every phase of the Festival of Youth will be available at the Monument grounds.

G. U. DOWNS HARVARD, 8 TO 2

Error and 3 Walks Aid Hoyas to Make 5 Runs in 6th.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 12 (A.P.).—The Georgetown baseball team today opened its annual New England tour with an 8-2 victory over Harvard, the third the Hoyas have scored over the Crimson in the past three seasons.

The Crimson played wretched baseball, giving ragged support to three pitchers, but managed to keep the Hoyas in check until the sixth inning.

In that session, after two were out, Georgetown scored five runs on hits by McNamara and Rapp, three passes and Catcher Fincke's wild throw to second base. The Hoyas added two more tallies in the seventh on two hits and an error.

Harvard put over a run in the fifth on Fincke's single, a passed ball and two fielding miscues and scored another in the seventh on singles by Fincke, Sheldon and Devens.

G. O. P. Reelects Campaign Officers

Wood Continues Chairman of Congressional Committee.

(Associated Press.)

The Republican congressional campaign committee will go through the presidential campaign with the same officers that have piloted it through the elections of the last several years.

Representative Wood, of Indiana, who has been chairman of the committee for a number of years, has been reelected along with all other officers of the committee. Wood will have general supervision of the campaign for the election of Republican representatives to the next Congress. The committee also will aid in taking to the congressional districts the general campaign for election of a Republican President.

Other officers of the committee are Representatives Tilson, of Connecticut, first vice chairman, who will be in charge of Eastern campaign activities, as he was in 1928; Smith, of Idaho, second vice chairman; Thatcher, of Kentucky, third vice chairman; Wason, of New Hampshire, secretary; Earl Venable, of Idaho, executive secretary, and Robert V. Fleming, of Washington, D. C., treasurer.

TRADES HELP CHISOX, SAYS FONSECA

Team Shows Promise, Says Pilot; Seeks Another Boxman.

By GAYLE TALBOT.

NEW YORK, May 12 (A.P.).—Whatever the rest of the baseball world thinks, Lew Fonseca is convinced his wholesale player deals have made a stronger club of the Chicago White Sox.

The man who has upset the staid American League with his unprecedented juggling of talent looked at it this way today:

"We had everything to gain and very little to lose. I figured that no matter what trades I made the team couldn't be much worse, and there was a chance it would be better. I think it's much better and a lot of others will think the same before the season is over.

Fonseca Still Seeking Pitcher.

With only one regular, outside the pitching staff, remaining from last year, it would be the logical assumption that Fonseca has completed his job of housecleaning. But he still isn't completely satisfied. Any manager who has a surplus pitcher, preferably a southpaw, can do business with the Sox pilot.

"That's about all I need now," he said. "Of course, I could use another hitting outfielder, but the point has been reached where I can't very well do any more trading without giving up a player I need.

"I like my infield as it stands, with Lu Blue on first, Luke Appling at second, "Red" Kress at short and Carey Selph at third. Bog Seeds, from Cleveland, has strengthened the outfield and Charley Berry, from Boston, gives me all the catching I need. It's up to the pitching staff to deliver now."

DIAMOND DUST FROM THE SANDLOTS

CHARLEY DEUTERMAN will again pilot an all-star aggregation this season. He plans to book road games for the team. Frank Watt, Hass, Scheffel, Snow, Ritnour, C. Watt, Sugaree, Hull and Hamilton have cast their lot with the club.

The Army War College team is booking games with strong unlimited clubs. A game is especially wanted for tomorrow. Call Manager Lew at Metropolitan 8925.

The Wheeler Club would like to arrange games with junior teams for Tuesdays and Thursdays. De Georgi was elected captain of the team at a recent meeting. For games call Manager A. E. Brand at Atlantic 3430-J.

Thompson's Furniture Co. midgets are on the lookout for games. Call North 6104.

Because of a mix-up in their schedule, the Washington Oriole insects are forced to cancel their game with Clarendon. They will meet the Monte Weaver nine at 10 a. m. tomorrow on the Camp Meigs Field.

The National Pale Dry midgets will clash with the Piggah Tigers tomorrow at 3 p. m. on the Camp Meigs diamond.

All members of the Sterling A. C. will meet at Taylor's Lunchroom at 1 p. m. Sunday before proceeding to Landover for the game with that team.

The Gaithersburg nine will entertain Capitol Heights Sunday on the former's field at 3 p. m. Ewerthy or Engle will hurl for Gaithersburg.

The Swann Service junior and senior teams will meet tonight at 8 o'clock at 717 Seventeenth street northwest, at which time uniforms will be distributed. All players are requested to report promptly.

The Argol Midgets will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the home of Manager Pitts. Tomorrow they play the New Haven Midgets and Sunday Mount Rainier.

The Joe Kuhel Insects are seeking a game for Saturday. Teams interested should call Manager Sullivan at Georgia 1289.

The post athletic officers and managers of American Legion teams will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at French's Sport Shop. The meeting previously had been announced for tomorrow night.

The Frame Jewelers will practice tomorrow at 3 p. m. on diamond No. 3. All players are requested to report.

Wonder Bread and Thompson's Furniture Midget teams will cross bats tomorrow at 11 a. m. on the Ellipse.

The K. of C. Catholic Boys Club Insects are requested to meet at the club house tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock when uniforms will be distributed. At 1 p. m. the team will meet the Montrose Insects as part of the Festival of Youth program.

The Washington White Sox and Virginia White Sox will hook up in a game to be played Sunday at Arlington at 3 p. m.

Majestic Radio will go to Alexandria Sunday for a game with St. Mary's Celtics. The Celtics will play week-day ball under the colors of the Hannery Laundry.

Unionist Nine Plays Burroughs Sunday

The Federal Employe Unionists, having drawn a bye in The Post's Capital City League, will engage the Burroughs Athletic Club Sunday afternoon at 3 p. m. on the Burroughs diamond.

Matt Mattare, War Department hurler, will probably be the choice of Manager Waldenmaier for mound duty, with Bill Gamble doing the receiving. Merton, Bennett and Kiesel will be held in reserve.

OFFICE REORGANIZED BY ARLINGTON CLERK

Official Office Memoranda Planned to Fix Responsibility.

ARLINGTON COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Initial plans in the reorganization of the county clerk's office were announced yesterday by John A. Petty, newly appointed clerk of Arlington County, who has designated Ralph E. Remington, deputy clerk, to be in charge of the office staff and the detail administration of the office.

The establishment of a system of official office memoranda was inaugurated as a means to promote efficiency, avoid misunderstandings and to definitely fix responsibility in the conduct of the office. Outlined in the first memorandum was a series of orders for the guidance of the clerk's staff. These deal with methods of handling and accounting for public funds and insuring accuracy and protection for all public records.

Cooperation of individual members of the Arlington County Bar Association in facilitating the public business of the clerk's office, was sought by personal letters sent to all lawyers of Arlington County. A copy of office regulations was forwarded to the attorneys inviting criticism or suggestions for further improving the service.

Mrs. Carl Dennis Crist was elected regent of the Thomas Nelson Chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, at its annual meeting held last night at the home of Mrs. Charles W. Maffett, 240 Strickler avenue, Clarendon.

Other officers elected were:

Mrs. Luther C. Dodd, vice regent; Mrs. Carl Elmer Edwards, recording secretary; Mrs. William E. Williams, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Helen Cobb, treasurer; Miss Myrtle Rose, chaplain; Mrs. Robert E. Johnson, registrar; Mrs. A. J. Webb, historian, and Mrs. Arthur Halsted, librarian.

County Takes New Steps For Safety of Students

Two new measures for the safety of school children in traffic are called to the attention of the Prince Georges County school teachers in a letter sent out yesterday by the superintendent of schools.

The word "school" has been painted in yellow letters on roads near schoolhouses, and yellow lines have been painted across the roads to mark the crossing places in front of the buildings. In addition, signs instructing pedestrians to walk on the left side of the road, facing traffic, have been erected. These measures were taken by the State roads commission, which asked school teachers to impress on their children the necessity for crossing only between the yellow lines, and to keep to the left of the road.

Restaurant Manager Is Robbed in Hold-up

Herbert Gooch, night manager of the Coffee Pot Restaurant, 907 Ninth street northwest, was held up by an armed robber early yesterday, who forced him to hand over $15 from the cash register.

Mr. Gooch, who lives at 915 I street northwest, said the hold-up man was about 20 years old, 5 feet 5 inches in height, weighing about 140 pounds. He was wearing a light gray suit and a dark cap. The man ran from the place to an automobile, occupied by two white men.

Farm Board's Wheat Not to Be Liquidated

(Associated Press.)

Chairman Stone, of the Farm Board, yesterday denied Midwestern reports that the board had been unable to refinance its stabilization wheat holdings and would liquidate them immediately.

"Those reports are absolutely untrue," the chairman said. "All loans on the stabilization wheat were renewed by banks this spring. The board has repeatedly said that it would follow rigidly its policy of selling 5,000,000 bushels monthly."

Tech-Central Game Off Until Thursday

Rain for the third time caused the postponement of the Tech-Central High School baseball series games yesterday. The schools agreed to meet next Thursday afternoon at Eastern. It will be the final game of the series. Eastern will meet Western Tuesday.

Weather permitting, Eastern will play an old rival today in Gonzaga, at Eastern. Central will meet Alexandria High at Central. St. John's plays Friends in tennis.

NATS, TIGERS HOPE TO OPEN SET TODAY

true, but the fact remains that it was a truly brilliant catch.

Under ordinary circumstances, double-headers are the bane of a manager's existence, but too many of them next July, when the Western Clubs again invade, would be a real calamity for the Nationals, since Pilot Johnson's prayers for good weather over the balance of this home stand.

It so happens that the Washington Club has not as many good pitchers as it really needs. Its whole staff is ready now, but there is no telling what conditions may be next July. Of course, there is a likelihood that the Nat staff will be even better, as Fred Marberry is sure to round to form as a capable starter ere long, while Johnson is confident that Bobby Burke will step in and win several games for him.

"Bob's got a lot of stuff and you'll never see him as wild again as he was against the Yankees last week," said Sir Walter last night. "You noticed that the Yanks did not hit him when he did get the ball over. Give him a little more confidence in himself and more work and he's likely to prove to be a winning pitcher. Conditions happen to be such that I can't give him the work he needs right now because I have several others who outrank him ready, and I have to use them in order to keep them fit. Bob will get his chance before the season ends and, mark my words, he'll make good."

DANES WIN CUP MATCH.

Copenhagen, Denmark, May 12 (A. P.).—Denmark today defeated Jugoslavia in a second-round series of Davis Cup play, winning the doubles today for victory in the first three matches. Denmark will meet Japan, which defeated Greece, in the third round.

D. C. College Nines Are Stopped by Rain

Rain and wet grounds halted activities of all Capital college teams yesterday except Georgetown, which met Harvard in baseball at Cambridge, but with clear weather predicted for today the collegians hope to go through with a program of three contests, one of which will be held here.

Maryland's baseball team encounters V. M. I., a Southern Conference rival, at College Park at 4 o'clock, while Georgetown's baseball and golf combinations will face Boston College and Holy Cross, respectively, at Boston.

Maryland's unbeaten lacrosse squad departs today for State College, Pa., where the Old Liners tomorrow will meet Penn State in an attempt to stretch their winning streak to seven games.

Volunteers Are Reinstated By Chevy Chase Fire Board

The Chevy Chase Volunteer Fire Department was "back in quarters" last night following a long session behind closed doors participated in by the Chevy Chase fire board and representatives of the volunteers.

The fire board issued the following statement last night at 10 o'clock: "The executive committee of the Chevy Chase Fire Department and a committee representing the volunteer company met at the fire house May 12 and the questions at issue were settled satisfactorily to the executive committee and the volunteer company. The volunteer company was reinstated, effective the evening of May 12, 1932."

The volunteers had been suspended Friday night by the executive committee as a "disciplinary action" for "conduct unbecoming members of the Chevy Chase Volunteer Fire Department." This conduct is said to have been forceful removal of a work bench in the fire house recreation room in order that a pool table could be installed.

The meeting lasted from 7:30 o'clock until 10 o'clock, when the volunteers who were waiting in an outside room were called into the meeting and a few moments later the statement was issued by the fire board.

Petitions asking rigid economy by the county commissioners, slashes in the salaries of public officials and cessation of the creation of new offices appeared yesterday in Montgomery County. It is understood the petitions had their origin in the rural sections of the county.

Republican and antiorganization Democratic leaders denied any responsibility for the petitions. They suggested that public offices be limited to one in each family and urged cutting salaries of public officials and employes.

A report of delinquent tax sales, April 11, was made yesterday to the clerk of the circuit court at Rockville by Whiteford & Cissel, counsel to the Montgomery County commissioners. A total of 1,023 parcels was sold. While this apparently was an increase over the prior year sale of 350, it was pointed out that this is the first year of the new law which requires each individual lot to be advertised, instead of batches of property of each taxpayer.

Resolutions asking that the width of Wisconsin avenue be changed from 75 feet to 65 feet were received yesterday by the Montgomery County commissioners. Both were from Somerset in which it was pointed out that a width of 75 feet would necessitate removal of shade trees along the western side.

Two resolutions were received from the Bradley Hills Community League, one opposing granting a permit for the cemetery of Fulton R. Gordon at Bradley boulevard and River road, and the other opposing the establishment of any commercial cemetery in Montgomery County.

The commissioners announced that a hearing will be held June 13, at 7 p. m., at the Silver Spring County Building on the application for reclassification of property on Brookeville pike at Montgomery Hills, owned by E. C. Thomas, from residential "A" to commercial "D." The application has been approved by the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

The music class of the Poolesville High School will present the operetta, "Once in a Blue Room," tonight at 8 o'clock in the school hall. Members of the cast are Eula Mae King, Cora Heflin, Harriet Davis, Jane White, Fred Hughes, Doris Hughes, Hazel Wood, Wilson Hershberger, Dick Sellman, Benjamin Allnutt, Douglas Nicholson, Lucille Jones, Frank Davis, Edwin Cruit and Robert Tetlow.

Four Montgomery Countians were named as delegates to the Democratic national convention at Chicago in June at the State Democratic convention in Baltimore yesterday. They were Miss Lavinia Engle, of Forest Glen, a delegate at large; Mrs. Charles E. Roach, Chevy Chase; Andrew J. "Cy" Cummings, Chevy Chase, and Maj. E. Brooke Lee, of Silver Spring, district delegates. Dr. Benjamin C. Perry, of Bethesda, was elected an alternate. Maj. Lee also was named as the Maryland member of the resolutions committee and he will represent Maryland on the committee which will draft the Democratic platform.

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

THE GOLF LESSON.

A GOLF lesson is a series of talks by a fellow who isn't very good in the pinches either.

• • • •

It is a $4 session with a gentleman who aspires to teach you perfection in a game about which he still has plenty to learn.

• • • •

It is an expensive half-hour in an open field in the hot sun with a man who feels that nothing he can tell you can possibly make you any worse.

• • • •

Nobody can play golf the right way, but business is business and there is no percentage in telling a pupil that to begin with.

• • • •

To take golf lessons you must first of all believe in man-made miracles, the infallibility of the club professional and the equitable distribution of rhythm. That proves you goofy before you start.

• • • •

If you wish to take up golf, you present yourself to the club pro and make a clean breast of your foolish ambition.

• • • •

IF he were a gentleman he would tell you that your ambition to play a good game of golf is unattainable, but being a golfer with his life in the business, he will promptly begin making curious motions and talking a lot of nonsense about distribution of weight, timing, rhythm, grip, &c.

• • • •

You will then be handed a club and told to take a few practice swings without a ball. At this point you will know the only happiness or sense of perfection ever to be attained again in your golfing life.

• • • •

There is no trouble swinging a golf stick when there is no ball used. You will be surprised at your grace and rhythm.

• • • •

Presently the instructor will say, "Now let us see what you can do with a ball • • •"

• • • •

That is the precise moment when your troubles begin. From then on your vocabulary consists largely of four exclamations:

1—What am I doing?
2—Tst! Tst! Tst!
3—That's a rotten club I'm using!
4—They make these courses too difficult!

• • • •

Still, after your first lesson you go home feeling hopeful and anticipating a collection of silver cups and cigar trays.

• • • •

It is when you take the second lesson that you begin to consider the game intricate. And by the time you have reached the fifth or sixth instruction period you begin wondering whether it is you or the instructor.

• • • •

Ultimately you are pronounced sufficiently grounded to go out and play eighteen holes. The lessons will have cost you about $50, but you should worry; you can do $500 damage to the turf in the first nine holes.

• • • •

UP ANOTHER EIGHTH.

The market's very bullish—
I feel it in each joint;
The market's very bullish—
It almost gained a point.

• • • •

COME CLEAN, FRANKLIN!

"Gov. Roosevelt eats fried chicken with his fingers."—News item. But he won't get our vote until we know about mutton chops and asparagus tips.

• • • •

P. L. T. refers to his friends of the bull market era as his "boom companions."

• • • •

Nothing is certain except death, taxes • • • and plenty of trouble with a motorboat engine in the spring.

• • • •

Oklahoma Survey Shows Decrease in Illiteracy

Oklahoma City (U.P.).—Oklahoma is not as illiterate as she once was.

In fact, Oklahomans are becoming as well educated as citizens of neighboring States, a report received by Secretary C. M. Howell, of the Oklahoma education association reveals.

The report shows that only 2.8 per cent of Oklahoma's 2,300,000 inhabitants are illiterate. This is one per cent improvement over the report of 1920.

Glass Proposal Called Unfair to 18,200 Smaller City and Town Institutions.

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Describing the State-wide branch banking provisions of the proposed Glass banking act of 1932 as "unfair to the smaller cities of the United States," the American Banker, in a letter to representatives yesterday asked them to oppose this "revolutionary experiment" in the banking system.

Calling attention to the fact that there are 19,900 unit banks in the country, 18,200 of which have deposits of less than $5,000,000 and are giving sound banking to the smaller cities and towns of the country, the letter reminds that the State-wide branch banking section, inserted in the Glass bill, threatens the independence of these smaller institutions.

Second Convention Call.

The second "call" to members of the District of Columbia Bankers Association to attend its fourteenth annual convention to be held this year at Hot Springs, Va., June 9-12, was issued yesterday. It was in the form of a folder on which appears the figure of a newsboy. Inserted in a fold under the figure's arm was a miniature program of the convention printed as a newspaper.

Officials of the bankers' association and its convention chairmen said yesterday that great emphasis will be placed on the imporance of this year's business sessions in view of present economic conditions. By many it is believed they will be the most important ever held in the history of the association.

Although the association has held thirteen annual conventions, attended by many men renowned in the fields of finance, economics and journalism, this is the first time its meeting will be honored by a president of its national parent body, the American Bankers Association. Harry J. Haas, Philadelphia, president of the national association, will speak at the opening business session on the morning of June 9. His subject will be, "Our Problems." Rome C. Stephenson, South Bend, Ind., addressed two previous conventions, but before he became president of the national association.

Commercial Bank Reception.

The Commercial National Bank gave a reception and dance in honor of its officers and employes Wednesday evening at Montgomery Country Club. The guests, which numbered nearly 100, were received by Col. Wade H. Cooper, president of the bank.

Special entertainment was furnished during the evening by the following pupils of Miss Julie Cunningham's School of Dance: Miss Dot Souder, Miss Vera Sturale, Al Denimore, Miss Leona Applebaum, Mr. Frank Lanham, Mr. Joe Malis and Miss Virginia Finnacom. They were accompanied by Miss Helene Finnacom.

Billy McIntyre, comedian, was the able master of ceremonies and delighted the guests with his ready wit and clever dancing.

Members of the committee on arrangements for the reception and dance were Miss Martha Cochs, Miss Alice Barbour, Mrs. Maud O'Toole, Dan Radice and Fred McIntyre.

Ann Arbor Interest.

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—Interest due January 1 and April 1, 1932, on the Ann Arbor Railroad first mortgage 4 per cent bonds will be paid out of funds received from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, under authority of the court, it was announced today by A. K. Atkinson, treasurer for the receivers.

Tariff Hike Urged to Meet Depreciated Foreign Coin

House Group Hears Pleas of Lumber, Clay and Fish Industrialists for Protection Against Canadian, English and Japanese Imports.

(Associated Press.)

Enactment of the Hawley bill to adjust tariff rates to compensate for depreciations in foreign money was urged before the House ways and means committee yesterday by Thomas J. Doherty, representing the Iron and Steel Institute.

He testified that goods imported from countries whose currencies have depreciated had increased from 38 to 82 per cent of entries under normal money conditions.

"The Government is involved because it is getting less revenue. The individual citizen is involved because, due to depreciated foreign currencies, a great deal of cheap foreign goods is coming in, to aggrevate the unemployment situation."

Mr. Doherty cited that an importer who paid $972 duties on a shipment from England in August, 1931, paid only $651 last December because of the drop in the English pound when Great Britain went off the gold standard. He said the Treasury estimates its annual revenue loss from this cause at $140,000,000.

"It is an unfair situation and one which could not have been contemplated when the tariff law was written," Mr. Doherty testified. "It is not the fault of anything the United States has done, but arises from the economic and financial troubles of foreign countries."

Charles H. Herty, of Atlanta, representing the Georgia Kaolin Co., also indorsed the bill on behalf of the China clay industry.

"China clay was selling at $8 a ton at the mine when the tariff law was passed and is now down to $5.60," Mr. Herty said. "Importers are paying $4.75 for foreign clay.

"Consumption is still divided, two-thirds to the domestic producer and one-third to the imported clay, but to keep it there we must sell below the cost of production and pay less than a living wage."

Mr. Herty said the depreciation of the pound in England "eats up" the protective-tariff rate on China clay.

W. B. Greeley testified for the West Coast Lumbermen's Association.

"For the lumber industry of the Pacific Northwest," Mr. Greeley said, "the equalization of duties on imports from countries of depreciated currencies is primarily a measure to relieve unemployment. Over half of our West Coast sawmills have been shut down completely for many months.

"The industry is operating at less than one-fifth of its normal manufacturing capacity. With 80,000 sawmill and logging camp workers out of jobs for the last six to twelve months community distress has reached an acute stage.

"West Coast lumber mills compete with lumber, shingles and logs imported from Canada, whose currency has been from 10 to 20 per cent below par since last September. Depreciated currency has given the Canadian industry a material advantage over the American industry in competing for the greatly restricted lumber market of the United States.

"The depreciation in foreign currencies has become a widespread cause of market instability, declining commodity prices and reduced wages in the United States. It is an important cause of unemployment.

"We ask only for an equalization of import duties that would restore the protection intended for American industries under our present laws before the exodus from the gold standard began."

E. D. Clarke, of Seattle, testified for fish canners of the Pacific Coast. He said Japan, Siberia and Canada were the principal competing countries for this industry.

"We are primarily afraid of Japan," Mr. Clarke testified. "Japan has the same kinds of raw material and machinery and low labor and shipment costs.

"The yen is down 32 per cent. The tariff protection is only 25 per cent ad valorem. That leaves us without protection. Prices now are below the cost of production.

"Our competitors all have low costs of production and shipment besides depreciated currency and most of their production is for foreign markets.

"If the tariff worked it would be perfectly satisfactory, but it does not work as contemplated because of depreciated foreign money."

The hearings will continue today.

Steel Tariff Revision Asked to Halt Dumping

Philadelphia, May 12 (A.P.).—Revision of the tariff on steel to prevent dumping of foreign steel in this country was urged in a resolution adopted today at the twenty-first annual meeting of the National Association of Sheet Metal Distributors.

The resolution declared that in 1931 more than 45,000 net tons of flat rolled steel and 869,943 tons of all classes of steel were imported.

It was contended that due to this importation 237,130 men lost work.

A. W. Howe, Cleveland, was elected president and W. H. Bone, Boston, vice president. Robert H. Myron, Pittsburgh, Pa.; E. H. Hopfel, Cincinnati, and L. B. Mercer, Youngstown, Ohio, were elected to the executive committee.

Rainey Says Relief To Wait on Budget

(Associated Press.)

Representative Rainey, the Democratic leader, said yesterday that until the budget is balanced there is "nothing to" proposals for a Federal bond issue for State relief loans.

Commenting on the plan of Senator Robinson, leader of the Senate Democrats, to sell $2,300,000,000 in bonds to finance advances to States and municipalities for direct relief of unemployment and construction work, the House majority chieftain said:

"We must have a budget that is really balanced, and not just balanced on paper. Then we must get through an economy program.

"If we do that, then we can talk about a bond issue, but not before."

Asked if he though there still was an opportunity for passing an economy bill of any magnitude, Mr. Rainey replied in the affirmative.

"We must get through a real economy program," he insisted. "The whole country is behind this movement."

Rainey said that on the basis of past experience Federal loans to States have proved to be gifts.

Directors Reelected By International Phone

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—All directors of the International Telephone & Telegraph Co., with the exception of two Spanish members of the board, were reelected at the annual meeting, it was announced today. Conde de Guell and Marquis de Urquijo were the Spanish directors not reelected. No comment was available from offices of the company as to why they were dropped. Frederick W. Allen, New York banker, was the only new member elected to the board.

No action was taken toward filling the vacancy in the directorate resulting from the death of Ivar Kreuger last March. Kreuger had been placed on the board last year in connection with the deal whereby I. T. & T. was to have acquired a controlling interest in the Ericsson Telephone Co.

(Associated Press.)

The Government's deficit for the 1932 fiscal year reached $2,519,525,267 on May 10 with prospects of amounting to $3,000,000,000 or more before the end of the fiscal year on June 30.

Up to last Tuesday the Government had collected from all sources $1,710,436,465 and had spent $4,229,961,672.

The deficit then was nearly three times that for the previous fiscal year which was $903,000,000.

COPPER MINE OFFICE IS STILL IN DISPUTE

"Regular" President Holds Consolidated's Reins as "Insurgent" Object.

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—The "regular" officials of the Consolidated Copper Mines Corporation, backed by police reinforcements, were still in possession of the company's headquarters at 120 Broadway today, despite the recent efforts of "insurgent" stockholders to dislodge them.

Howard D. Smith, who has been president of the corporation for some time, and who claims that he was legally reelected at the annual shareholders' meeting Wednesday, issued a statement explaining in detail the incidents leading up to the controversy and declaring, in effect, that the "fort" would be held against all comers.

R. W. Higgins, of Duluth, Minn., who was elected by the insurgents at a "rump" board of directors meeting to succeed President Smith, continued at the head of his forces, but apparently was uncertain as to just what the opposition's future procedure would be. It was believed, in some quarters, that court action would be necessary to determine the legality of the recent stockholders' meeting.

Deception Is Charged.

President Smith, in his statement, announced that Paul A. Gow, a holder of 3,000 shares of the corporation, had filed a petition charging that "the insurgent group of stockholders had grossly deceived the stockholders whose proxies they received."

The Higgins group claimed a majority of some 64,000 votes at the meeting. The Smith statement also announced that the stockholders' meeting was reconvened this afternoon and that the "regularly appointed inspectors" had ruled that the "insurgents" were defeated by a vote of 598,465 shares to 24,870 shares.

The split in the stockholders' meeting early in the week came when the "insurgents" voted to amend the by-laws and increase the board of directors from nine to fifteen. The Smith contingent protested and refused to sit in on the enlarged board, whereupon the opposition elected Higgins president, Charles K. Blandin vice president and Thomas Vardon secretary.

Election Inspectors Discharged.

At the same time the election inspectors originally appointed by Smith, as chairman of the meeting, were discharged by the insurgents, who appointed new ones.

Yesterday Higgins and his group appeared at the headquarters of the company and demanded that the offices and books be turned over to them as the regularly elected heads of the corporation. President Smith, however, had summoned police, and the opposition, after making their formal demands, withdrew.

The "regular" officials allege that the "insurgents" obtained a majority of proxies by claiming that they would be used only to obtain a minority representation on the board of directors as a check on the present management. On the other hand, Higgins and his followers declare that their majority of proxies were obtained in the usual way, without any special representations, and that these proxies were used to retire the regent management and amend the by-laws of the organization.

Subpenas Issued In Bear Inquiry

(Associated Press.)

A large number of subpenas have been issued by the Senate banking committee to compel the appearance today of brokers who have refused to let the committee examine their records.

Chairman Norbeck said yesterday the subpenas had been issued calling for the appearance of brokers who refused to permit investigators to examine their books in the committee's stock market inquiry.

A decision will be made as to the procedure against any brokers who may refuse to turn over their records.

While plans were going ahead for the inquiry, Senator King (Democrat), Utah, introduced a bill to require all exchanges to adopt rules and regulations satisfactory to the Postmaster General.

The bill would prohibit manipulation of stocks through "rigging" the market or any other method of giving a fictitious value to securities listed. Officers and directors of a corporation would be prohibited from selling stocks in that company short or from purchasing its stock without written notice to the board of directors.

The bill was designed to prohibit the use of the mails or telegraph or telephone facilities "in furtherance of fraud or harmful transactions," on stock exchanges. Full publicity regarding the issuance of securities by companies listed on exchanges would be required.

BRITISH BANK RATE CUT TO 2½ PER CENT

London Exchange Cheers 5th Slash in 3 Months; Conversions Loom.

London, May 12 (A.P.).—The bank rate was cut today from 3 to 2½ per cent, the fifth reduction in less than three months.

The Bank of England's announcement of the lowered rate brought forth cheers in the stock exchange and some additional slight gains were reported on securities of good yield. As usual, the stock exchange had anticipated the reduction by raising values of gilt-edged offerings.

The bank rate stood at 6 per cent from the time Britain went off the gold standard last fall until February 18, when the series of cuts was started.

Financial authorities said the 2½ per cent rate cleared the way for a large scale conversion of war loans which would affect a considerable saving in interest.

Market discounts have been so low for the last few weeks that no further decline was anticipated, but financial men said the trading community would benefit by using commercial bills in the money market at the lower rate, instead of overdrafts at joint stock banks, which charge a higher rate.

Today's was the second reduction within less than a month. The rate was lowered on April 21 from 3½ to 3 per cent.

With the budget details completed at that time, it was announced, the bank was able to make a further move for cheaper money in the hope of checking the influx of foreign money for short term investment.

Credit Jam War Fails To Impress Traders

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—In view of the continued low state of trade, adverse dividend news, and uncertainty over taxation, traders failed to be much impressed, for the moment at least, by further signs of world-wide efforts to break the credit jam, as manifested in the Bank of England's rate cut.

Wall street has recently felt that the British central bank was favorably disposed toward a policy of cooperation with our own credit expansion program, and some bankers viewed the London reduction in this light.

There have also been reports that other European central banks, including the French, might move in a similar direction, thus giving international impetus to efforts toward business stimulation and commodity price improvement.

Meanwhile, gold shipments from the United States are being maintained in some volume. Exports Wednesday totaled $18,481,300 to France, Holland, Switzerland and Belgium, the four countries which have been most aggressive in their repatriation of foreign balances.

Some dealers were of the opinion that interest in listed loans would be inclined to wane until the tax and budget situation at Washington is clarified. Earnings reports also have been mostly discouraging and many investors and traders are hesitating to take on further commitments until industry and business show signs of stabilization.

Reports that some of the larger banks were discussing the formation of a bond-buying corporation were believed to be, at least, premature. Financial leaders say such a project has been talked about, informally, at different times, but nothing has ever been done about it and it is not at all probable that any positive action will be taken.

Reserve Bank Brokers' Loans Cut $61,000,000

(Associated Press.)

Loans to brokers and dealers held by New York Federal Reserve member banks for the week ended May 11 were announced by the Federal Reserve Board yesterday as $438,000,000, a decrease of $61,000,000 as compared to the previous week.

The loans for the week ended May 13, 1931, were $1,671,000,000.

North German Lloyd Names Albert Chairman

Bremen, Germany, May 12 (A.P.).—Heinrich F. Albert was elected chairman of the board of the North German Lloyd Steamship Co. today.

He was in the United States from 1914 to 1917 on an economic mission for Germany, later became foreign property trustee and subsequently was a minister in the Cuneo cabinet. He represented Grmany at the St. Louis Exposition in 1904.

MONEY MARKETS

FOREIGN EXCHANGE.

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—The German mark was again a firm spot in the foreign exchanges today, rising 3 points to 23.90 cents for cables, the best level of the year, and closing off one point from the top, at 23.89.

Continental gold currencies were still inclined to be firm against the dollar. The Holland florin and Swiss franc were a little higher, and the French and Belgian francs steady.

Sterling cables were off ½ cent to $3.67½, following the British bank rate cut.

The Japanese yen dropped sharply, on proposals for rigid exchange control in that country, ruling ⅝ of a cent lower, just under 32 cents.

GOLD MOVEMENT.

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—A further decrease of $3,305,100 in the country's monetary stock of gold resulted from today's transactions in the metal.

There were exports of $9,002,700, of which $6,000,000 was withdrawn for export to Switzerland and $3,002,700 to Holland. There was an import of $500,000 from Newfoundland and the stock of gold held under earmark for foreign account showed a net decrease of $3,197,800.

Stocks Sink to New Lows; Street Watches Idle Relief

Bogeys of Trade Ills, Dividend Cuts and Unbalanced Budget, Continue to Depress Markets; Bonds Join Downward Trend.

By JOHN L. COOLEY.

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—Financial markets slipped into a decline today. Reactions in stocks, U. S. Government bonds and wheat were rather emphatic, and although trading did not increase appreciably it was apparent that buyers still preferred to hug the sidelines and await more concrete evidence as to which way the play is likely to go.

Weakness in shares began with the rails, gradually extending until all classifications had been affected. Wall street's attention was diverted from credit expansion efforts to Washington discussions of a large fund for Federal relief, but there remained the old bogeys of business stagnation, dividend reductions and an unbalanced budget.

It was difficult to pick out a specific reason for the decline, which interrupted the dull firmness evident earlier this week; doubtless there were some uncertainties among investors and speculators as to just what form the proposed relief legislation would take, even though published reports on the plan had specified that the budget must first be straightened out and that proposed public works projects be self-liquidating.

U. P. Dividend Cut.

Union Pacific reduced its dividend payment to $1.50 from $2.50, and the stock broke 4½ points, recovering part of its loss. New York Central, Santa Fe, Norfolk & Western, Baltimore & Ohio, Canadian Pacific, Atlantic Coast Line and Delaware & Hudson reacted 1 to 3, putting carrier averages into new low ground.

Losses of 1 to 2 elsewhere were numerous, and embraced such stocks as American Telephone, American Can, Consolidated Gas, Westinghouse, Allied Chemical, Du Pont, National Biscuit and Case.

Volume kept below the million-share mark, totaling 917,800 shares.

The New York Federal Reserve Bank maintained its rediscount rate at 3 per cent, uninfluenced by the lower British bank rate which was cut to 2½ per cent. Nevertheless, the general banking system hewed to the line of credit expansion through Government security purchases, adding about $98,000,000 to its portfolio.

Trade Stimulation Seen.

Although there has been no confirmation of reports that the Bank of England has agreed to cooperate in an international move toward business stimulation through easy money, it is being pointed out that present policies here and in Great Britain are working along similar lines and toward the same goal—stoppage of deflation. Inasmuch as France is now feeling the effects of adverse world conditions it is regarded as probable that her banking authorities are willing to help.

New York City member banks reduced their loans by $73,000,000 in the week ended May 11, most of the decline appearing in security loans which were off $63,000,000. They did, however, increase their investments by $19,000,000, adding $6,000,000 in Governments and $13,000,000 in other securities. Reserves with the Federal rose moderately.

Currency circulation was down $17,000,000, thus reversing the movement evident last week when this item rose $50,000,000, a larger gain than could be accounted for merely by first of the month demands.

Bonds Resist Decline.

The bond market receded, but it did so with apparent reluctance. High grade issues resisted liquidating flurries fairly well and, with the exception of secondary railway liens, there was little urgent selling.

United States Government loans, which have held around the year's high levels for several weeks, suffered a sinking spell. This was attributed partly to the movement in Washington for large unemployment reliefs loans and to the various contradictory interpretations of Senator Robinson's proposal for a $2,000,000,000 public works program.

Some banking authorities were of the opinion that the Robinson scheme did not necessarily mean the floating of new Government bond issues. It was pointed out that projects, which would eventually pay for themselves, could be easily financed without any direct Government loans if they were underwritten by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

While industrial and utility liens held up well in the session, the railroads were without friends. Losses of from 1 to around 5 points were recorded by some bonds of Baltimore & Ohio, Boston & Maine, Chesapeake Corporation, Rock Island, Colorado & Southern, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, Illinois Central, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Northern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Reading, Frisco, Southern Pacific and Union Pacific. Southern Pacific convertible 5s lost 19¼ points on the sale of two bonds.

Atchison general 4s were heavily traded for the loss of 1 point, but the road's adjustment 4s gained 1½ points. Moderate advances were also recorded by liens of Canadian Pacific, Chicago & Northwest refunding 5s, New Haven refunding 4½s and several others. New Orleans, Texas & Mexico loans were down from 3½ to 8½ points.

Foreign obligations were quiet. French Government bonds steadied and the Germans eased. Polish, Finnish, Austrian and Colombian 7s advanced.

Sales totaled $9,598,000. The average for 60 corporate loans lost three-tenths of a point.

A rather decided downdrift again developed in the curb exchange, in sympathy with the slump in the stock market.

MARKET COMMENT

Waggaman, Brawner & Co.—For the week ending May 7, the New York Clearing House banks showed an increase in deposits of $75,000,000. Increase in last six weeks is $411,000,000. • • • Bank stocks and insurance stocks continue dull but the tone of the market is steady. Offerings are very light. Return of confidence in the banking structure is bringing in small-lot buying. • • • Second quarter earnings usually show better than the first quarter. Six months' earnings this year should show a fair margin above dividends and should increase investors' confidence in the banks and their present dividends.

Westheimer & Co.—Regard the market outlook as unsettled, with possible good buying in chain stores and food stocks. While overhanging liquidation appears to be small, support is unlikely for time being and sentiment again is being affected by the possibility of large congressional expenditures.

G. M.-P. Murphy & Co.—The lower Bank of England rate tends to confirm the understanding of our London office, cabled yesterday, that the British government and the Bank of England have agreed to cooperate in a policy of credit expansion. If correct, the decision is of the utmost importance, especially in view of the fact sterling is not tied to gold.

A. Iselin & Co.—Stanley Baldwin appears to have had real grounds for satisfaction when he declared a month ago: "We are now in a position to look with observant sympathy on those great

COTTON PRICES DROP UNDER LIQUIDATION

July Contracts Fall to 5.62; May Closes at 5.53 as Liverpool Rises.

New York, May 12 (A.P.).—After opening steady at slight advances in response to steady Liverpool cables, cotton eased under liquidation and scattered selling which appeared to be influenced by declines in the grain and stock markets, a favorable view of Southern weather conditions and the estimated figures on domestic consumption for April.

The decline extended from 5.70 to 5.61 for July contracts, which closed at 5.62. The general market closed steady at net declines of 4 to 6 points.

The opening was steady at an advance of 3 to 4 points on the relatively firm showing of Liverpool, which was followed by some buying here through houses with Liverpool and continental connections. The advance in the English market, however, was considered partially in the nature of a readjustment of differences, and after the initial demand had been supplied prices turned easier.

The selling, which seemed to come partly from the South and commission houses, may have been promoted by reports of continued favorable weather for crop developments in the South and an easier tone in the stock market. There also seemed to be some July liquidation, including switches into later months, and prices worked gradually lower, with May selling off to 5.53 and October to 5.85 in the late trading. Closing quotations were within a point of the lowest.

The New York Cotton Exchange service estimated domestic consumption for April at 390,000 bales, compared with 489,000 in March and 509,000 in April last year, but the falling off was considered about in line with the reports of increasing domestic mill curtailing. Additional May notices amounting to 1,200 bales were reported, but appeared to be stopped by the trade and there were reiterated rumors that several thousand bales of cotton tendered this month would be exported.

Liverpool cables said the advance there was due to local and foreign buying and covering influenced by the lower Bank of England rate. They also reported an improved cloth demand from India and South America.

Exports today were 15,236 bales, making 7,664,266 bales so far this season.

UTILITY HEADS PLAN STRICTER BUS RULE IN NEW REGULATIONS

Interstate Carriers Will Have to Follow Local Safety Regulations.

Motor Freight Carriers Must Obtain Permits From District.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday took steps to broaden its authority over common carriers operating in the District after issuing a formal order putting into effect the new local bus regulations announced several days ago.

The commission intends to issue a similar order shortly, it was said, requiring all interstate buses which operate in Washington to abide by the safety regulations adopted to govern the motor vehicles operated by the Washington Railway & Electric Co., the Capital Traction Co., and the Washington Rapid Transit Co.

Such an order would affect about a score of interstate lines and probably would be vigorously contested in view of the extra expense it would add to operation. The local edict states that all bus replacements shall be of all-metal construction and that all glass replacememnts shall be shatter-proof. Drivers must have eight hours rest in every 24, and their maximum working day is limited to twelve hours or sixteen hours in emergencies.

Permits Must Be Procured.

The commission also announced that hereafter all motor vehicle operators carrying freight to and from Washington must obtain permits from the District body just as the bus lines do.

Action may be taken against the Southern Coach Co., Inc., which operates between Knoxville, Tenn., and Washington, for carrying passengers without obtaining a permit, it was said. The permits of three lines, two of which have never operated in the District, were revoked. These are the Washington & Norfolk-Virginia Beach Express Co., the Piedmont Bus Line and the Southside Transportation Co., Inc. The latter operated here for only a week.

The Alexandria - Washington Bus Line terminal was ordered moved from a point on Tenth street, south of Pennsylvania avenue, to a point south of D street.

Occupancy Permit Asked.

An application for a certificate of occupancy at 807 Thirteenth street was received from the Nevin Bus Lines. The commission informed the company that it might remain at this terminal until August 1, but after that date it will have either to establish an off-street depot there or move out of the second traffic zone as provided in the bus order of last year. The Nevin organization is reported to be negotiating for the lease or purchase of the Thirteenth street property.

An application from George Weihrott & Co. to build an interstate bus terminal at the rear of the Annapolis Hotel was received, but action was withheld until more definite plans are revealed.

BICENTENNIAL MUSIC OFFERS SELECTIONS OF POPULAR OPERAS

Pagliacci and Hansel and Gretel Enjoyed by Large Audience.

MARY AKINS IS HEARD IN TWO CHIEF ROLES

Other Members of American Network Co. Draw Prolong Applause.

The cream of two of the world's most popular operas—Hansel and Gretel and Pagliacci—was presented to a large and appreciative audience last night at Constitution Hall as one of the features of the Bicentennial music week.

One act of Hansel and Gretel was given, while Pagliacci was condensed to embrace the entire tragedy of the clown who concealed disillusionment and a broken heart behind a face of laughter.

Miss Akins in Two Roles.

Mary Akins had the burden of two roles—Hansel and Nedda—and interpreted them with fire and sincerity. Her makeup as Hansel was splendid, while her handling of the difficult characterization of the seductress in Pagliacci brought prolonged applause from her audience.

Pleasing singing was rendered in Hansel and Gretel by Cecile Sherman as Gretel, Edison Rice as the father, and by Edith Piper in the two parts of the mother and the witch.

Chapman as Tonio.

Frank Chapman as Tonio, the embittered clown in Pagliacci, Charles Hedlay as Canio, John Uppman as Silvio and Raymond O'Brien as Beppe contributed singing and pantomime that made the evening a joy to music lovers. Miss Akins and Mr. Uppman were particularly fine in the farewell love scene.

The program was presented by members of the American Intimate Opera Company, Vladimir Rosing, directing. It was arranged by the National Federation of Music Clubs, Mrs. Elmer J. Ottaway, president, and given under the auspices of the District of Columbia George Washington Bicentennial Commission.

BANKING INSTITUTE NAMES R. A. NORRIS AS NEW PRESIDENT

OTHERS ARE ELECTED IN VOTING CONTESTS

Richard A. Norris, assistant cashier, Lincoln National Bank, and Robert H. Lacey, cashier, Columbia National Bank, were elected, respectively, president and first vice president of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, at the election meeting, probably the last assembly in the old chapter rooms at 1318 F street northwest, last night.

Both candidates were unopposed and advanced, respectively, from the first and second vice presidencies.

Aubrey O. Dooley, assistant trust officer, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., retiring president, became a member of the board of governors by virtue of past office.

Sanderson Is Elected.

In the contested offices, Walton L. Sanderson, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., won the second vice presidency over Alfred W. Sherman, American Security & Trust Co. Miss Constance D. Fogle, Riggs National Bank, will succeed Miss Rose L. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co., as secretary, being elected over Mrs. Gertrude C. Wick, Liberty National Bank.

J. Earle McGeary, of W. B. Hibbs & Co., will succeed Mr. Sanderson as treasurer, being victor over Lloyd H. Johnson, Northeast Savings Bank. Miss Anne C. Sullivan, Morris Plan Bank, succeeds Miss Fogle as assistant secretary, defeating Miss Evelyn E. Lynham, Park Savings Bank, for that office. Paul J. Seltzer, American Security & Trust Co. was elected chief counsel over William H. Laughlin, Washington Loan & Trust Co. He succeeds Mr. McGeary.

Schreiner Is Victor.

Among eight candidates to fill four vacancies on the board of governors, George F. Dagenais, Riggs National Bank; Joseph R. Fitzpatrick, Second National Bank; Miss Rose L. Royce, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; E. Wallace Schreiner, First National Bank of Alexandria, Va., won over George R. Flemer, National Metropolitan Bank; Henry F. Kimball, American Security & Trust Co.; O. Lehmann, Security Savings & Commercial Bank, and Raymond L. Weber, National Savings & Trust Co.

Members of the board holding over are Frank M. Perley, American Security & Trust Co.; Miss Anne P. Crawford, McLachlen Banking Corporation; Alfred W. Sherman, American Security & Trust Co., and Robert E. Lee, Lincoln National Bank.

Members retiring are Norman E. Towson, Washington Loan & Trust Co.; James A. Soper, Lincoln National Bank; T. Hunton Leith, Security Savings & Commercial Bank; Miss S. Winifred Burwell, National Metropolitan Bank, and Robert G. Witton, First National Bank of Alexandria, Va.

POTOMAC NEARING OVERFLOW STAGE

The waters of the Potomac, swollen from the heavy rains, are expected to overflow the seawall when the tide reaches its peak at 1 o'clock this afternoon. The precipitation in Washington, which reached 1.84 inches late last night, was the highest in the country.

From western Maryland came reports that the river was rising rapidly. At midnight it was 8 feet above normal and was rising at the rate of 3 inches an hour was Williamsport, Md., and 5 inches an hour at Cumberland. Late last night the water was 2 feet below the top of the seawall.

The weather man had forecast better weather for today. His terse forecast, "clearing and warmer," is to assure everyone that the sun, which has been obscured for the last three days, may be expected to break through some time today or tomorrow. The highest temperature yesterday was recorded at noon when 53 was the reading. At 10 o'clock last night the mercury had fallen to 48 degrees.

No apprehension was being felt by residents in the upper valley of the Potomac that the heavy waters would dispossess them. During the Johnstown flood in 1889 the river reached a height of 28 feet.

The newly dredged Eastern Branch proved incapable of handling its flooded waters, and they overflowed the Bladensburg road in two places to a depth of about a foot. Traffic on both the Baltimore boulevard and the Defense highway was slowed up, while lines of autos splashed through.

No cars were reported stalled, but the waters were still rising at midnight and the critical height was nearly reached. Last summer efforts to avoid the periodic floods were made by dredging the stream-bed, but this is the second time this spring that the road has been inundated.

Stoppage of a drainage sewer caused more than 3 feet of water to back up into the cellar of the Cairo Hotel last night. A reserve engine company of the Fire Department was detailed to pump the water out of the basement.

Taxi Bandit Robs Driver, Returns $1

Increasing competition has forced trade refinements upon the taxi bandit.

In any event, a bandit last night added a feature of service to his holdup job.

Francis E. Lamb, the driver who was robbed, was driven to his home and given a dollar in parting by the man who had taken $5 from him.

Lamb was hailed at Connecticut avenue and Calvert street northwest. He took his passenger to the 1500 block of Park road.

There the man inquired of Lamb if he would like to make some "easy money." Lamb hesitatingly replied, "yes."

He was directed to drive in New Hampshire avenue. At Georgia avenue, the holdup man said "You are too scared to help me."

He drew a gun and took the money from Lamb, took the wheel of the cab and drove to Lamb's home at 602 A street southeast. Lamb was given a dollar. The robber drove away in the cab.

Police were told that Lamb's courteous passenger was well dressed, about 25 years old and spoke in a well modulated soft voice.

NATIONAL HOSPITAL DAY IS OBSERVED

Children's and Homeopathic Have Special Program; All Hold Open House.

Headed by S. Percy Thompson, president, member of the Washington Rotary Club yesterday helped the Children's Hospital to celebrate "National Hospital Day" by attending the ceremonies attendant upon the presentation of a modern respirator to the hospital on behalf of the club and afterward making a round of inspection. The respirator was presented by President Thompson of the Rotarians and accepted on behalf of the hospital by Thomas B. Sweeney, first vice president of the board of directors, in the absence of President Johnson, who sailed for Europe yesterday.

During the afternoon a large crowd of children, mostly clients of the dispensary, and their parents and relatives were entertained at the hospital, there being a treasure-hunt and various games and stunts for the children and tea for the adults. The ladies' board of visitors also held a meeting and afterward made the rounds of the hospital.

At National Homeopathic open house was observed, a number of mothers and children born at the hospital dropping in for tea. A fire in the large, open fireplace added to the comfort and enjoyment of the occasion. Milk was served for the babies. Members of the ladies' board of visitors acted as hostesses for the visitors.

None of the other Community Chest hospitals arranged any special observance of the day, but all of them were open to visitors throughout the day.

1,800 High School Pupils Will Sing

"Sage of Mount Vernon" to Be Given for First Time Tonight.

High school students of Washington will tonight present a musicale in Constitution Hall under auspices of the District Bicentennial Commission. More than 1,800 junior high and senior high school students will participate in the chorus.

The group will also stage the "Sage of Mount Vernon," a cantata written by Dr. Edwin N. C. Barnes and R. Deane Shure. Their first cantata, "Abraham Lincoln," has been staged several times.

The accompanyists tonight will be Mrs. Eveline Newcomb Burgess and Mrs. Mary Garrett Lewis. Between the songs of the musicals, the Washington High School Brigade Band and the Inter-Junior High School Orchestra will play.

MUSICIANS TO BACK M'DOWELL COLONY

The National Federation of Music Clubs yesterday decided to undertake a campaign to assist in the completion of the endowment fund of the MacDowell colony, in Peterborough, N. H., in memory of the American composer, Edward MacDowell.

The representatives of the music clubs, which are meeting in the Mayflower Hotel, decided to attempt to complete the fund in celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the founding of the colony.

Mme. Olga Samaroff, representing the MacDowell Association, asked the aid of the federation at a luncheon yesterday. Dr. F. A. Moos, of George Washington University, and Carl Engel, head of the music department of the Library of Congress, members of the national board of the federation, were the principal speakers at the luncheon which was given by the District of Columbia Federation of Music Clubs.

The object of the campaign, as explained by Mrs. Elmer J. Ottaway, of Port Huron, Mich., president of the national federation, is to ask the 5,000 federated clubs to give benefit concerts, using as far as possible the MacDowell works, during the month of December, the month of the composer's seventieth birthday.

FUTURE OF MOVIES SEEN IN NEWS FIELD

Picture Engineers at Final Session Told Hollywood Is Big Handicap.

Prophesying that the motion picture eventually will show every phase of life that is today read in the press, Courtland Smith, president of the Pathe News, told the meeting of Motion Picture Engineers yesterday at their final session that "it is silly and absurd to believe that the main purpose of the motion picture is the picturization of novels on the screen—such presentations being a minor function of the motion picture of the future."

Concluding their four-day meeting at Wardman Park Hotel with a banquet, the 150 or more engineers adjourned their thirty-first semiannual meeting last night.

Mr. Smith who spoke on "The Future of Motion Pictures," declared the centralization of motion pictures in Hollywood is a definite handicap. "The engineer must design portable recording and reproducing equipment so that any community may make and show pictures with all the speed and efficiency of the newspaper in printing the news," he continued. Mr. Smith favored the small theater seating hundreds instead of theaters with facilities for thousands.

If the motion picture is to survive, great cooperation of all branches of the industry is necessary, was the opinion of M. A. Lightman, president of the Theater Owners of America, who addressed the engineers yesterday. Mr. Lightman stated that "revolutionary changes in both exhibition and distribution are necessary, and these economies must be effected not by 'firing' personnel but by bettering exhibition and distribution methods."

The banquet, presided over by Representative W. P. Connery, jr., of Massachusetts, was attended by a number of outstanding persons in the motion picture world. Dr. A. N. Goldsmith, president of the society, prophesied that the engineering profession would do much to bring back prosperity by producing new and improved equipment contributing to greater entertainment and comfort.

Jury Holds Soldier In Comrade's Death

Private Whose Car Figured in Fatal Crash Faces Grand Inquest.

Private Columbus McCauley, attached to the Army Motor Transport Co., at 1800 C street northwest, was ordered held for the grand jury by a coroner's jury, which yesterday inquired into the death of Private Donald McLean, 39 years old, who was killed Sunday night in an automobile accident at Fourteenth and V streets northwest.

McLean was a passenger in the automobile operated by McCauley. The car struck an automobile driven by John Baldwin, 35 years old, colored, of 1130 Nineteenth street northwest. After the collision, according to police, McCauley failed to stop and abandoned the car in front of 1451 U street. He helped put McLean in a taxicab which took him to Emergency Hospital, where he died.

Motorcycle Policeman Jesse D. Martin was injured when his machine struck a taxicab while en route to a police station to report the accident.

Musicians Guild Convention Opens

Election Scheduled Today at Annual Meeting of National Group.

The thirty-first annual convention of the American Guild of Banjoists, Mandolinists and Guitarists was opened yesterday morning with a business meeting at the Washington Hotel.

The afternoon session was devoted to a round-table discussion for guild members, at which teachers' problems were discussed. A nominating committee was appointed and election of officers will take place at this morning's meeting. A guild festival concert was given last night in the Hall of Nations, Washington Hotel, at which stringed instrument solos and ensembles were rendered. Informal dancing followed the concert.

The convention will last until tomorrow night, with a banquet scheduled for tonight and an informal entertainment to close the sessions tomorrow night. Sightseeing trips to points of interest have been arranged for the out-of-town members.

Genealogical Society Will Hold Card Party

The thirtieth year of the existence of the National Genealogical Society will be opened tomorrow night at 8 o'clock with a card party at the Chestnut Farms Dairy—the first social event in the history of the organization.

Mrs. Addams McAllister, as chairman of the hospitality committee, will be assisted by officers of the group in receiving the guests.

Model Plane Test Prizes Due Today

Awards Will Be Made by Aircraft League at New Museum.

Awards will be made this afternoon to winners in the scale model contest, sponsored by the District of Columbia Model Aircraft League. The ceremony, starting at 3:45 o'clock, in the auditorium of the new Museum, will be presided over by Gen. Mason M. Patrick, former chief of the Army Air Corps.

Model plane enthusiasts from the District and adjacent State counties have entered tiny reproductions of real planes in the competition for eighteen prizes offered by the league. The prizes consist of a trophy, plane-building tools and supplies; certificates of pilot and junior pilot rank in the league, and specially inscribed buttons.

Selfishness Called Depression Cause

Rev. F. E. Lucey Cites Wealth Concentration During War.

Speaking before the Cosmopolitan Club at the Carlton Hotel yesterday, the Rev. Francis E. Lucey, S. J., regent of the Georgetown University Law School, declared selfishness to be at the bottom of the present depression. Father Lucey substituted for Dr. W. Coleman Nevils, president of the university, the scheduled speaker.

Father Lucey explained that the war, disturbed finances and other alleged causes for the depression had been advanced and said that probably all of them had a part in bringing it about. He cited the creation of 20,000 millionaires during the war and said that twenty billions of dollars could not be placed in the hands of a comparatively few people without bringing about some changes.

The most alarming tendency of today, however, he said, is the growing disrespect for law and for authority. The country can recover from the monetary depression, he said. The speaker admonished the club members, as representative men of their businesses and professions, to assume leadership in directing the trend of thought back to a respect for law, order and country. Fred Rice announced that a large number of members had signified their intention of attending the Capital District Federation convention, which opens at Baltimore today.

Car Merger Bill In Senate Today

District Committee Will Study Measure Passed by House.

The street car merger bill, passed by the House Monday after a bitter fight, will be laid before the Senate District committee at a meeting this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

Members will be asked if they wish to substitute the House bill on the Senate calendar for the traction consolidation bill favorably reported by the Senate District committee.

There exists a wide difference between the House bill amended in only 3 places, and the Senate measure, carrying 53 amendments. Senator Warren R. Austin (Republican), Vermont, in charge of the majority Senate report on the measure, will make a statement on the relative merits of the two measures.

Both Senate and House bills will be opposed by Senators Arthur Capper (Republican), Kansas, and John J. Blaine (Republican), Wisconsin, who have submitted a minority report asking power, transfer and valuation provisions more liberal to the public.

Episcopal Rectors Here for Parley

Rev. W. Douglas Directs Conference This Week at Cathedral.

A score of Episcopal clergymen from different sections of the country are attending this week a conference on "the pulpit and worship, with special emphasis on music," at the College of Preachers at Washington Cathedral. The conference is being conducted by the Rev. Winfred Douglas, of Peekskill, N. Y., who is considered one of the leading authorities and writers on sacred music in the Episcopal Church.

Among the clergymen attending the conference was the Rev. George D. Rosenthal, of Birmingham, England. Others included the Rev. Wallace J. Gardner, of Brooklyn; Edward G. Barrow, of Buffalo; Sumner J. Brown, of Barnstable, Mass.; Louis E. Daniels, of Oberlin, Ohio; William I. Edwards, of Philadelphia; William Elwell, of Sheboygan, Wis.; Bliss Everitt, of Baltimore; Elmer M. Lofstrom, of Albert Lea, Minn.; Earl H. Maddux, of Brooklyn; Carl W. Marty, of West Park, N. Y.; Charles E. McCoy, of Williamsport, Pa.; George A. Palmer and Frank G. Wheelock, both of Springfield, Mass.; William L. Phillips, of Plainfield, N. J.; Jerrald C. Potts, of Hoosick Falls, N. Y.; Alfred D. Snively, of Whitinsville, Mass.; Edward S. White, of Chicago, and Arthur Wood, of Providence.

Trade Board to Make Plans for Shad Bake

Approximately 150 members of the Washington Board of Trade, in charge of plans for the board's thirty-seventh annual shad bake, Saturday, May 21, at Bay Ridge, Md., will complete arrangements for the outing tonight in the Board of Trade headquarters, Star Building.

Several hundred tickets have already been sold, Thomas L. Eagan, chairman of the committee in charge of the affair announced. Invitations have been extended to more than 40 distinguished guests. The outing is expected to drow 1,000 men.

2 Youths Admit Holdup Of Capital Taxi Driver

Two Negro youths arrested yesterday by detectives, last night signed statements of admission to the holdup of a taxi driver at Eighteenth and Valley streets Wednesday night, police said.

The driver from whom they are alleged to have taken $5 was George Thomas. Both youths are charged with investigation and will be viewed by taxi bandit victims at the police line-up tonight. They are Alfred J. Hopkins, 19, and Cephus Williams, 18, of 1346 T street northwest.

Hearing Over Will Of Mrs. Dewey Off

Indefinite Delay Granted by Court on Request of Executors.

Justice Jesse C. Adkins, in the District Supreme Court, yesterday postponed the hearing of the contest over the last will of Mrs. Mildred McLean Dewey, widow of Admiral George Dewey, naval hero.

Hearings on the contest had been set for Monday, but yesterday, on application of Attorney C. F. R. Ogilby, representing the executors, the National Savings & Trust Co. and Allan Untermyer, of New York, the date was indefinitely postponed.

Attorney Ogilby told Justice Adkins the executors wished to wait until Frank J. Hogan, attorney, could be present in court to take over the defense of the will, which is being attacked by George Goodwin Dewey, of Chicago, a stepson of Mrs. Dewey, who was not named as one of the beneficiaries in his stepmother's last will. Mrs. Dewey had made five wills, all of which were filed in the Probate Court here. She left an estate of approximately $850,000.

Death of Waitress Held Due to Natural Causes

The death of Miss Alice Leslie, 24-year-old waitress, who was found dead in a rooming house at 1430 Columbia road northwest on Monday, was due to natural causes, Deputy Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said yesterday.

An autopsy performed by Dr. MacDonald revealed that heart trouble was the cause of death. The girl was found by Dr. W. R. Gladding, of 3023 Fourteenth street northwest, after he had been informed that a girl was ill at that address.

Armless Golfer Asks Even Chance for Maimed Men

Thomas McAuliffe, celebrated armless golfer, yesterday told members of the Washington Kiwanis in a lecture at their weekly luncheon that "If I had two arms I wouldn't know what to do with them."

A laugh was forthcoming from the Kiwanians when McAuliffe told them of the incident in his office when a salesman for an artificial limb firm left bewildered after he had seen the speaker, as manager of a coal company, use both telephones and typewriter.

McAuliffe pleaded with the Kiwanians to give physically handicapped workers an "even break." He said he was convinced physical handicaps made men and women more efficient because of the keen realization of their seeming deficiency.

A brief outline of the program for the International Kiwanis convention to be held in Detroit next month was given the club members by Claude Owens. The club also voted to take charge of the sale of 200 box seats for Sam Rice Day, June 19.

Error in Permit Vindicates Driver After His Conviction

Probably the most unusual incident ever seen in Traffic Court occurred there yesterday when Karl Woolfenden, of Fourteenth and Chapin streets northwest, after having spent a night in jail on a traffic charge of driving on an expired permit, was convicted, his sentence was suspended, and later in the day was found to have been innocent.

Woolfenden was arrested by Policeman A. R. Clark, of the Second Precinct, and not having the money with him for collateral, was placed in a cell all night. Yesterday he was taken to court and convicted, the date on his permit showing that it had elapsed by a few days.

When Woolfenden went to the Traffic Bureau after sentence was suspended, he found that legally his permit did not expire for another year. Through a clerical error at the bureau the wrong time had been punched on his permit.
